Hurricane Cindy Hits Texas and Louisiana

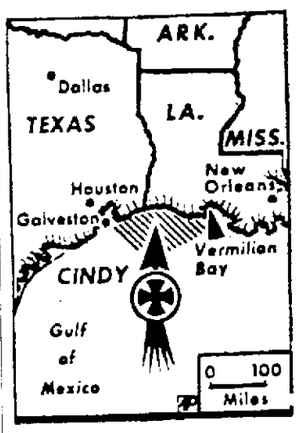
Winds Ebb While They Move Inland

PORT ARTHUR, Tex. (AP) — Hurricane Cindy slammed into the Texas coast at 8 a.m. (CST) today with winds of 80 miles an hour and then began disintegrating as it moved inland.

Cindy—third hurricane of the year and the only one that has reached the mainland — hurled high winds and tides at the Texas and Louisiana coast all night. The hurricane sprang up quickly and unexpectedly Monday and diminished as rapidly today.

The ill-defined eye crossed the coast between Galveston and Port Arthur.



Western Gulf area from Galveston, Tex., to Vermillion Bay, on the Louisiana coast, was warned by the U.S. Weather Bureau early today to seek shelter from Hurricane Cindy. The storm swept over the area about 8 a.m. this morning.

Damage Called Minor

Less than an hour later, Civil Defense authorities in the Port Arthur-Beaumont-Orange area told refugees to go home.

The authorities said damage was minor, although considerable loss to the pecan crop appeared certain.

An estimated 13,000 persons — most of them in Cameron Parish, La., fled ahead of the storm, as a half million did ahead of hurricane Carla two years ago this week. Carla killed 34 and did $500,000 damage.

The Cameron evacuation was spurred by memories of hurricane Audrey in 1957 when more than 500 died in that low-lying section which was battered by monumental tides.

Rain Under Forecasts

Civil Defense authorities said, "There is no major damage or flooding of homes anywhere so far as we know." The Texas Department of Public Safety said the same thing.

Deputy Sheriff Carl Reon said at Cameron, La., that Cindy failed to bring as much rain or as high tides as had been expected. He said water didn't get into Main Street this time—and two years ago, during Carla, the street was navigable by motor boat.

In addition to the estimated 10,000 who fled Cameron Parish, Port Arthur sheltered 1,500 refugees, Beaumont 525 and Galveston 1,078. Civil Defense authorities said.

At least five boats were reported in trouble at one time or another in the Gulf of Mexico during the storm.

Twenty-six men, trapped by the sudden forming of the storm, rode out the winds and battering waves on two offshore oil well drilling rigs. Crewmen on one rig reported 30-foot waves and 55 mile-per-hour winds.

Lake Charles Mayor Alfred E. Roberts declared his city in a state of emergency and said it was prepared to feed up to 10,000 refugees.

Salvation Army and other relief agencies moved in.

Bomb Deaths Spur March by Negroes

1,200 Approve Plan to Go To Montgomery to Protest Blast Which Killed Children

BY HOYT HARWELL

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—Birmingham Negroes incensed over the bombing deaths of four of their children plan to march on Montgomery to lay directly before Gov. George C. Wallace their feeling that he is to blame for the slayings.

At their first gathering since the Sunday morning dynamite blast, an estimated 1,200 Negroes took a unanimous standing vote Monday night to endorse a march on the state house.

Wallace Blamed

The vote came after three integration leaders called for nonviolence and accused Wallace of causing the racial tension that led to the dynamiting of the Sixteenth Street Baptist church. No date for the march was set.

An afternoon funeral service for Carol Robertson, 14, one of the four girls killed by the blast, was scheduled at St. John's African Methodist Episcopal church.

The Rev. Fred Shuttlesworth told the rally that mass services for the other three victims will be held Wednesday afternoon at the Sixth Avenue South Baptist church—where the rally was held. The three were Denise McNair, 11, and Addie Mae Collins and Cynthia Wesley, both 14.

Demand U. S. Action

Negro leaders here and around the nation called for use of more federal power in Birmingham, but a government source in Washington said there was no legal basis to put additional troops in the city now. There are 300 federalized National Guardsmen on alert here.

Sheriff Melvin Bailey said two white teen-agers were arrested on an open charge in the slaying of one of two Negro boys shot to death a few hours after the dynamite blast.

City police said the other youth was killed when they fired buckshot at fleeing Negroes after a rock-throwing incident.

Governor Silent

"Words and actions" of Wallace and the segregation system caused the Sunday deaths, Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. said at the rally.

He said Wallace "had allowed himself to defy the law of the land and to deal with Negro citizens in Alabama as if they didn't live in the state."

The governor declined comment on the proposed march on the state capitol and on King's accusation. He had said earlier he deplored the bombing and hoped the perpetrators would be caught.

They have not been caught.

Kennedy Says Aid Cuts May Hurt Exports

Seeks Backing of Industry for Full Amount Requested

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy told American businessmen today that "disastrous" cuts by the House in foreign aid funds would damage the country's export trade as well as its security.

In a speech prepared for 400 executives at the White House Conference on Export Expansion, Kennedy made a bid for industry support in the administration's push for restoration of the aid money in the Senate.

"I hope you will join me in seeking to reverse these disastrous cuts," he said.

Cut by $1 Billion

Although the two-day export conference was called to enlist business cooperation in the government-wide effort to eliminate the balance of payments deficit, Kennedy devoted a third of his address to what he called "our much abused foreign aid program."

The White House foreign aid request was $4.5 billion, but after successive slashes by the House Foreign Affairs Committee and

9 Countries Agree to Ban Debtors' Prisons

STRASBOURG, France (AP)—Nine European countries agreed Monday to outlaw debtors' prisons.

A protocol to the European Convention on Human Rights agreeing not to send anyone to prison for inability to fulfill a contractual obligation was signed by Austria, Belgium, Denmark, West Germany, Ireland, Luxembourg, Norway, Sweden and the United Kingdom.

Gains Seen In Canadian Wheat Deal

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. officials see some grains of sunshine in Canada's sale of $500 million worth of wheat to the Soviet Union.

They believe the deal—the biggest commercial wheat transaction in history—will brighten prospects for larger U.S. wheat sales abroad and dramatize Communist farm failures.

Under the agreement announced in Ottawa Monday, Canada will sell Russia 228 million bushels of wheat over the next 10½ months.

Part of the deal involves shipment of $33 million of the wheat directly to Cuba.

Sen. Kenneth Keating, R-N.Y., termed this "a shocking breach" of Western Hemisphere efforts to isolate the Castro regime and called for a strong U.S. protest.

Kennedy administration sources indicated, however, that Washington would not lodge a complaint. They said Canada had informed the United States of the agreement shortly before it was signed.

The United States raised questions about the Cuba shipments but Canada said Russia had made them a necessary condition to the trasaction.

U.S. diplomats were not protesting because Washington's own embargo does not forbid selling food or medicines to Cuba.

Traditionally Russia has been an exporter of wheat and Premier Khrushchev even boasted that the Soviet Union's agriculture would overtake that of the United States by 1963.

TV, Radio to Carry Kennedy's UN Speech

NEW YORK (AP) — President Kennedy's speech at the United Nations Friday will be carried live by all major television and radio networks.

The exact time of the address is indefinite, but it is expected to be between 11 a.m. and noon EST.

It will be carried live by television and radio networks of the National Broadcasting Co., Columbia Broadcasting System and American Broadcasting Co. and the Mutual radio network.

U.N. Assembly Eyes Problem in Africa

White Rule Controversy Could Bring New Racial Outbreaks

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —The thaw in Soviet-Western relations heartened delegates of 111 member states convening to open the 18th General Assembly today but trouble brewed over white rule in Africa.

Diplomats were expected to press demands during the 3-month session to follow up the limited nuclear test-ban treaty with further steps in easing East-West tensions.

Many kept an ear cocked for rumblings over racial strife in Africa.

Colonial Policies Hit

The 32 African delegations have made plain they will concentrate their fire on the racial and colonial policies of South Africa and Portugal with demands for an economic boycott and renewed attempts to oust both nations from the world forum.

Britain also will be the target for Asian-African charges that it is supporting a white government in Rhodesia at the expense of the mainly black population.

The South Viet Nam government's struggle with the nation's Buddhists also is expected to touch off fireworks.

The United States said it will support a demand by 14 Asian-African nations for General Assembly debate on their charges that President Ngo Dinh Diem has suppressed Buddhist rights in South Viet Nam.

Kennedy to Speak

Normally the question would be aired first in the social committee which deals with human rights, but the Asian-Africans want a direct full-dress assembly debate.

Main attraction of the opening week will be the appearance of President Kennedy who is scheduled to deliver the U.S. policy speech Friday.

It will be Kennedy's first appearance before the assembly since 1961. A diplomatic luncheon has been arranged for him and Canadian Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson by Secretary-General U Thant. Kennedy is not expected to confer privately with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko or any other diplomats during his brief stay in New York.

Gromyko, head of the Soviet U.N. delegation, is expected to give his government's policy statement Thursday.

Paralleling the session will be talks opening next week between Gromyko, and Secretary of State Dean Rusk and British Foreign Secretary Lord Home.

Gromyko has dmeanded that the world work toward a German peace treaty guaranteeing independence for West Berlin. He has also called for withdrawal of foreign troops from South Viet Nam and South Korea. The assembly faces a provisional agenda of 81 items with word that the Africans will add two more calling for equal distribution of seats on the Security Council and enlargement of the General Committee.

Test Ban Pact Gains Support

North Carolina Senator Decides To Vote for Treaty

WASHINGTON (AP) — The limited nuclear test ban treaty picked up another promised vote today—that of Sen. Sam Ervin, D-N.C.

Ervin, who had been uncommitted, told the senate he had come to his decision in belief that rejection of the treaty "would irretrievably damage, if not absolutely destroy, any opportunity for the United States to furnish leadership to the free world during the foreseeable future."

Ervin's announcement raised to 78 the number of senators committed to or inclined to vote for ratification. There is announced opposition by 13 senators and 9 remain doubtful or undecided.

Ratification requires a two-thirds majority of those voting, or 67 if all 100 senators vote.

As to prospects for the vote, Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana told newsmen he is hopeful it can be reached this week.

Treaty drew strong support today from Sen. Stuart Symington and strong opposition from Sen. Strom Thurmond.

"Unless there can be some understanding among the growing number of nations that will have the weapon, a nuclear holocaust is only a question of time," declared Symington, a Missouri Democrat.

Symington, a former secretary of the Air Force, said in a prepared Senate speech the treaty banning all but underground testing "will not affect to any appreciable extent our capability to destroy the Soviet Union if a retaliatory strike is required."

On the other side of the debate —which shows indications of continuing into next week—Thurmond, a South Carolina Democrat, charged the treaty constitutes "major risks and jeopardies to the capability of the United States to deter a nuclear war in the future."

Committee Ups Outlay in Funds For U. S. Defense

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Appropriations Committee approved today a $289 million increase over funds previously voted by the House to equip and operate the nation's fighting forces during the current fiscal year.

This pushed the total of the annual defense money bill to $47,371,407,000. This is some $1.6 billion below President Kennedy's budget estimates and $978 million under last year's total.

Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., who will manage the appropriation bill later in the Senate, said he expects the increases to be approved by the Senate "because of the mounting defense needs which will result from the test ban treaty."

First Ballot for Iranian Women

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—Women voted today for the first time in Iran's history as the country elected 230 members of Parliament.

The election had been delayed two years. The shah dissolved Parliament in 1961 and nullified results of the election that year. He held that the election was rigged.

Vinson Hits McNamara for Action on Integration Issue

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Carl Vinson, powerful chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, accused Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara today of seeking to make servicemen into political agents in the fight against racial discrimination.

Vinson, a Georgia Democrat, announced he has introduced legislation that would make it a court-martial offense for military men to use the powers McNamara gave them July 26 in a move to combat any discrimination against servicemen.

"My bill does not deal with segregation or integration," Vinson said. "My bill keeps the military where it belongs—in the business of defending the nation."

In advance of his statement, it was learned today that the Air Force had barred participation by its men and equipment in any public event where racial discrimination is practiced.

McNamara on July 26 authorized base commanders — with prior approval of their service secretaries—to declare off-limits areas where "relentless discrimination persists against Negro servicemen and their families."

In addition, he told the services to issue instructions and regulations "in connection with the leadership responsibility for equal opportunity on and off base."

He also ordered each service to set up a system to monitor progress toward equal opportunity on and off base.

Goldwater to Back Rockefeller if Latter Is Nominated by GOP

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sen. Barry Goldwater says he will support Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller if the governor wins the Republican presidential nomination. Rockefeller come close to a parallel pledge but ties in an if.

Rockefeller said his backing would go to any GOP nominee — Goldwater included — who runs on a platform that "realistically and positively" faces current problems and future opportunities.

Goldwater said without qualification, "Yes I would," when asked if he would support Rockefeller if the New Yorker was nominated at the national convention.

Goldwater said in answer to a question he didn't know why Rockefeller was "reluctant" to make a flat statement of support.

Gronouski Sees Sen. Johnson

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wisconsin tax commissioner John A. Gronouski, who has been nominated as postmaster general, conferred Monday with Sen. Olin Johnson, D-S.C., chairman of the Civil Service and Post Office Committee.

Johnson said that a hearing on Gronouski's nomination, announced by the White House last week, probably would be scheduled either late this week or early next week.

Babies Gaining Strength

Quints Make Good Progress as Gifts Start to Pour in on Them and Parents

ABERDEEN, S.D. (AP) — The Fischer quintuplets went into their fourth day today, breathing easily and with reported good color on all of them.

Dr. James Berbos, who brought the four girls and a boy into the world between 1 and 3 a.m. Saturday had termed the first 72 hours crucial. He left St. Luke's Hospital shortly before midnight, apparently satisfied his charges were doing well.

No "Magic Number"

But he warned that the premature quints born to Mrs. Mary Ann Fischer, 30, still could have hurdles, saying, "There's no magic number for any danger period. It just depends on their day-to-day condition."

The quints took their first formula Monday—about a teaspoon of artificial milk every two hours —and were reported to be assimilating it well.

At the same time, the babies got their full names and an array of gifts informally assessed at more than $35,000.

Their mother had her first meeting with newsmen since the births, and told three photographers Monday night, "I feel fine."

The photographers, permitted in her room only 10 minutes to shoot still pictures, television tape and movie film on a pool basis, reported Mrs. Fischer very cheerful.

Mrs. Fischer and her husband, Andrew, 38, made the final decision on names for the four girls Monday night.

Names for Girls

They will be called Mary Ann, Mary Catherine, Mary Margaret and Mary Magdalene. The lone boy had been named James Andrew earlier.

Mary Ann is named after her mother; Mary Catherine is named for Sister Mary Stephen, the St. Luke's Hospital administrator who was Catherine Davis before she became a nun; Mary Margaret is named for Margaret Dorman, chief nurse in pediatrics at St. Luke's; and Mary Magdalene is named for her paternal grandmother.

Sister Mary Stephen said the Fischers disregarded her suggestion in naming one of the girls. "I suggested Mary Jane in honor of St. Jane Francis Dechantel," the hospital administrator said, "but the Fischers told me they were picking Catherine in my honor. I'm very proud."

The quints were deluged with gifts, ranging from diaper service to college scholarships.

The offers included a four-year scholarship for James Andrew to St. Joseph's College in Philadelphia, scholarships to all five at

Call Afghanistan Queen 'Good Sport' During Visit

BY JOY MILLER

NEW YORK (AP) — "Hi, cutie," someone yelled at the Queen of Afghanistan.

The remark, made during a ticker tape parade, was duly — if hesitantly — translated for Queen Homaira, who is visiting the United States for the first time. She threw back her head and laughed.

The incident was related last night by the wife of a U. S. protocol official accompanying the Queen and King Mohammed Zaher on a state visit. She added: "The queen is a darned good sport. She wants to please, to fit into plans that have been made. You know how much bother women can be? Well, she isn't. She's got a wonderful sense of humor. And she's been winning over everybody wherever she goes."

Queen Homaira, a young-looking grandmother of about 47 years, is a tall, regal brunette with huge, soulful brown eyes. Her poise and obvious delight in meeting American crowds seem all the more remarkable to the royal entourage because, until four years ago, she wore the veil. So did all her countrywomen.

This meant that her life revolved around her home amid seven children.

Tremendous Change

"If you were to visit the country," she said last night, "you wouldn't believe women have been out of the veil just four years. There's such a tremendous difference; such progress. And one of these days we hope to have the vote."

The queen, who wears western dress except on national days, visited a department store fashion show Tuesday, her first day in New York. Yesterday she took in the Empire State Building with the King, attended a United Nations luncheon in their honor, had her hair done, went to a reception given by the Asia Society, and took a ride around the city while the King was at a stag dinner.

Back at her hotel for her first private evening since she arrived in the United States, she gave her only interview of the trip.

The queen made these observations:

Impressed by Homes

The interior decorating of the homes of a lieutenant and a sergeant she visited at Ft. Bragg, N. C., was "perfectly charming."

"What impressed me most was how the government looks after the comfort of the men and their families so well," she said.

American children: "Very sweet, intelligent, affectionate, and also bright in every way, alert. Personally, I love children. I have seven, you know, and four grandchildren."

She is especially anxious about a four-year-old granddaughter who is ill with a serious form of whooping cough. "I hope she will be well when I return."

Her clothes: most all are made at home by a personal dressmaker. But she buys a few and likes the style of Balmain, a French couturier.

Has One Regret

Summing up: "Everything has been new for me, and everything extremely interesting. I shall take back a very happy personal souvenir: the memory of a beautiful country, of all the charming people and of meeting President Kennedy.

"I have only one regret: I haven't had the pleasure of meeting Mrs. Kennedy. I hope in the future the President and Mrs. Kennedy will visit us in Afghanistan."

During the Washington round of entertainment for the royal couple, the first lady was in Hyannisport, Mass., recuperating from the birth — and death — of a son last month.

Besides Washington the tour has covered Williamsburg, Va.; Cape Canaveral, Fla.; Ft. Bragg, N. C., and New York. From here the royal pair goes to Wyoming today, then to San Francisco, Los Angeles and Purdue University, leaving Indiana for Afghanistan Sept. 16.

Disregard Book Rules At Times

Everybody knows how to play Q-2 opposite A-K-6. You win the first trick with the queen, because this leaves you in position to win the next two tricks with the ace and king. Life would be very simple if you could always depend on the book rules to work.

In this case South relied on the rule and won the first trick in dummy with the queen of hearts. This cost him his slam contract.

He drew three rounds of trumps, cashed the ace of clubs and gave up a club trick. Back came the jack of diamonds, covered by the queen and king, and won by dummy's ace.

South ruffed a club, but the suit failed to break. He cashed the top hearts, discarding a diamond from dummy, ruffed a diamond in dummy and ruffed another club.

Now dummy's last club was good, but there was no way to reach it. South had to lose a diamond trick, and the slam was down the drain.

Additional Entry

South can make the contract by keeping an additional entry in dummy. He wins the first heart trick with the king, draws three rounds of trumps, cashes the ace of clubs and gives up a club.

East returns a diamond to dummy's ace, and South ruffs a club. South leads a heart to dummy's queen (saved there for just this purpose) and ruffs another club.

Now South cashes the ace of hearts to discard the low diamond from dummy. And it is then easy to win the last two tricks in dummy with the last trump and the last club.

The point is that you must manage your entries not merely for the sake of a suit but for the sake of the hand as a whole.

Daily Question

Partner opens with one spade, and the next player passes. You hold: S 10 4 3 H J 10 9 5 D K 8 3 2 C 5 3. What do you say?

Answer: Pass. Don't respond to an opening bid of one in a suit when you have only 4 points in high cards and rather flat distribution.

A Lovelier You

By Mary Sue Miller

Don't be a Knee-Hider

It has been said that a little knowledge is a dangerous thing. That is certainly true where reducing is concerned. There's more to it than cutting calories.

You must know how to get the most in the way of nutrition from your calorie allotment. Otherwise you may lose more than you bargained for. Your skin, hair and vitality can take a dive, along with your weight.

To stave off those side-effects, daily rations must supply 65 grams of protein, 1 gram of calcium and quantities of vitamins, particularly Vitamin A, and in the amount of 5,000 units. The "why" is this: Protein acts to keep the body in repair and to fortify its energy. Calcium works against nervous tension. Vitamin A is the skin's lovelifier.

Getting those nutrients on a low calorie count is no guessing game. Who could guess for example that cottage cheese contains twice as much protein and a fourth more calcium than cream cheese? It does, and at a saving of 85 calories per ounce!

You could not imagine that one large raw carrot offers 6,000 units of Vitamin A for 21 calories. Or that two ounces of beef liver, at 118 calories, provide over 30,000 units.

Just so, in all groups of foods there is a range of values. To find the best, you need only study a nutrition and calorie chart. Should you find it dull going, try reading between the lines. What will you see there? A trimmer and lovelier you, that's what!

BRIDE WANTS EFFICIENCY

Dear Louise: When my cousin was married, she received such an avalanche of gifts that current week that she could manage only a few thank you notes before the wedding. She was unable to resume the writing for another six weeks as she and her bridegrom went to the Orient for their wedding trip. Now I am have a large wedding too in five weeks and, as we will go to Europe, I don't want to have the same problem. If gifts come all at once and but a few days before the wedding, what can I do?

Davis

Louise Davis Answers:

If you anticipate a similar situation I suggest that you order engraved acknowledgements as a timely forerunner of your personal thank you notes. These should be addressed and mailed immediately. Example for the wording: Miss Jean Elizabeth Smith sincerely appreciates your wedding gift and will take pleasure in writing a personal note of thanks later. If you neglect to order these acknowledgments and if, during the week of the wedding, you are pressed for time I suggest that you enlist the help of your attendants and family to hand write the same phrase on plain white or off white cards that measure about 5½ by 3½ inches. Since the phrase is in the third person, no signatures will be needed. Perhaps you can take a partial gift record along with you so that you can get some of your notes written while you are in Europe.

Color Retention

More Than Head Covered In Wave of Wig Buying

BY STERLING F. GREEN

WASHINGTON (AP) — The wig boom in Washington has busted wide open.

The nation's capital reputedly is the "hottest wig city" in the country, but today the heat was on the wig shops.

Three investigations are under way, a fourth in prospect. Forty-four collection suits are pending against as many defaulting wig-wearers. Countersuits have been filed against wig-sellers.

Some women who paid for fine European hair have complained they got cheaper, and coarser, oriental hair. Some say they got yak hair. One got red spots on her head.

The telephoned complaints of women who sought allure and found disillusion have kept one clerk busy full-time all week at the city's license office. Another full-time staffer at the Better Business Bureau is handling wigs only.

Bloomin' Business

A spring and summer phenomenon was the blossoming of at least 20 new wig stores on favored shopping streets.

Wigs were selling like used cars, and for a reason. A contingent from the used-car lots had moved into the wig business and made it hum.

The Washington Star made that disclosure first. Reporter Miriam Ottenberg, who won a Pulitzer Prize in 1960 for triggering a civic crackdown on unregulated used car dealers and salesmen, found out where some of the erstwhile auto merchants had gone.

Right into the wig business — which, it seemed, can be quite profitable when run on the fast-turnover, low-down-payment, long-term contract principles of the used car lot. And without city regulation.

Miss Ottenberg's story disclosed that the new crop of wig entrepreneurs included presidents, managers and salesmen from at least three of the auto firms which went out of business after being cited by the Federal Trade Commission for "false, misleading and deceptive" advertising.

The three investigations in progress are by the Federal Trade Commission, the Better Business Bureau of Metropolitan Washington, and the D. C. Department of Licenses and Inspection. Licensing officials will meet Wednesday with a delegation of licensed hairdressers and beauticians, who are demanding that the wig stores be licensed and regulated.

Head Investigation

An FTC spokesman said today his agency is "looking into a number of wig matters," especially the use of the word "free" in wig ads.

The BBB said it has warned one company repeatedly to stop advertising that its wigs are "free." To get the "free" wig, said the BBB, you had to sign a contract to pay $21 down and have your wig set 48 times at $7 a setting.

A second federal agency, the Food and Drug Administration, reported that it has done some probing and is now "thinking of investigating more deeply."

Officials have heard that yak hair is showing up in some wigs, with possible injurious effect to women who are allergic to animals' fur. An FDA official said chemicals used in wigs might cause a rash in some cases.

Although fine hand-made wigs sell justifiably for large sums, officials say, few first-time wig-buyers are able to distinguish them from mass-produced machine-made wigs.

Nothing Free

A favored sales gimmick here is the "wig party." Stylish Georgetown matrons and suburban young-married invite friends in to hear a slaesman make his pitch and sign up contracts. The party-giver is given to believe that she'll get a free wig.

The Star interviewed a young government clerk who said she paid more than $700 for two wigs. After she signed up, she said, she saw tso wigs exactly like them sold for $169 each at a wig party in her own home. She refused to pay, but a finance company attached her savings account and seized it all — $643.

Some other complaints from wig-buyers recited by the Star included:

A woman bought a wig at a party. Cost $217.50. When she went to pick up the wig, she objected that it was a different color. Persuaded to take it anyway, she found it didn't fit. But the finance company sued and a court ordered her to pay.

Some women said they thought they were signing credit application forms; they turned out to be sales contracts.

Others complained that when they brought wigs in to be set and refurbished, the wigs they got back were not the ones they brought in.

Corner Cabinets

Now that tall cabinets of every size, shape and style are so important to fashion, corner cabinets cease to be so few and far between. Their unique triangular design makes them space problem solvers — where other cabinets would look pushed aside, they take a stand gracefully. They raise decorative storage handsomely high on short ends of wall that can be used no other way.

A wall that has no near-center length for one cabinet can often take two cabinets in corners. This is problem solving indeed for the room which is made difficult to arrange by an over-supply of door, window and archway openings. And as the sketch shows, corner cabinets re-form sharp-angled corners, to produce a gentle change in the wall shape that's most becoming to the room. A special feature of the cabinets sketched is rounded edges and corners—where a projection or joining might be sharp-edged, it is smooth and softened. The difference is subtle but has a most appealing effect.

Wife Offers Her 'Lummox' to Widow Advertising for Man

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please print this letter for the woman who signed herself, "Gypsy." She is the rich widow who is trying to buy a husband. She says she is miserable and lonely and her money is not bringing her happiness. She wants a husband and is willing to pay for one.

Landers

Well, Gypsy, you can have my lummox if you will pay for the divorce. He is exactly what you are looking for. Ed is in his middle fifties, nice looking, enjoys a good time and would just love to relax and let somebody support him.

Maybe for you, Gypsy, he would bathe and shave and get dressed up once in a while. For me he figures it's good enough to look like a bum. And you would never be lonesome with Ed around because all he does is talk talk talk talk talk. But don't try to say anything, because his opinions are the only ones worth listening to.

Let me know if you want him. I'll send the jerk C.O.D.—Mrs. Had It

Dear Mrs. It: Sorry, but when I checked with the postal authorities recently I learned it is against the law to send dead dogs in the mail. The same rules apply to 5th rate husbands.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband's oldest sister was widowed seven years ago. Her children are grown and she has a beautiful home, a nice income and a complete life. She has been the head of numerous important charity drives in the community and she is considered socially prominent.

We just learned that she is serious about marrying a man who clerks in a department store. They've been keeping steady company for several months but we never dreamed it would blossom into anything like marriage. To say we are shocked is putting it mildly.

This man is very ordinary in looks and his personality is nothing to write home about. If my sister-in-law marries him it will certainly damage her socially and she will be dropped by some of her better friends. I don't think she sees how this marriage will change her life totally.

Please print this letter. She needs your advice badly.—Lake Forest

Dear Lake: She didn't ask for my advice and I'll bet she didn't ask for yours either.

You are right when you say this marriage might change her life. It could change it for the better. So why don't you get busy with a charity drive yourself, Toots? I don't think you have enough to do.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm 16 years old, no great beauty but I'm not what you'd call ugly either. I've got a nice figure, look well in my clothes and I'm neat. I'd give anything if I could be popular with boys, but I guess I never will be because I don't know how.

My girl friend has fellows running after her all the time. I can't figure out how she does it. She isn't beautiful—in fact, she's far from it, but she has a way with fellows that really clicks. She gets three or four phone calls every night. Boys ask her to help them with school work, although she almost flunked math and science. They flock around her after class and date her up for school parties months in advance.

Why does she succeed with what seems like no effort? And why do I fail when I try so hard? —Miss Blah

Dear Miss: The prettiest girl has no lock on popularity and neither does the brainiest. Your friend has learned how to make boys comfortable. They enjoy themselves when they are with her. She is both interesting and interested. Listen to her and watch her when she is with boys. You'll learn something.

5-Year-Old Girl Doesn't Have an Oedipus Complex

BY DR. EVE JONES

Dear Eve Jones: What is an Oedipus complex? I looked it up, but I can't tell if that's what my daughter has. If she does, can it be cured? She's five years old and has become very mean and disobedient to me. When I ask my husband to make her stop, he just laughs and says I'm jealous because she's so good when she's with him. Obviously, I'm not jeolous, but what can I do about this?

Jones

MRS. O. C.

The first thing you must do is sit down and talk this through with your husband. Unless the two of you become united, sensible parents determined to treat your child like the child she is, both she and your marriage will continue to suffer difficulties.

This isn't an impossible order for you to fill. Just start concentrating on the fact that your daughter isn't a serious rival, as a woman, for your husband's attentions. She's just a little girl who's finding it very exciting to come between the two of you.

Insist that your husband ask himself why he enjoys this competition for his favors. Say what you will about not being jealous, the situation you describe is hardly likely to be a reassuring one; ask your husband why he wants you to feel insecure.

The Oedipal stage is a natural stage of childhood psychological development when a child is around five years old. Your description fits. Since an Oedipus complex isn't a disease, it has no cure.

Forget about terms, though, unless you plan to make a serious study of personality theory. The focus of your attention that can be most helpful is the area of your responsibilities as a parent for your child. You must help your daughter learn healthy attitudes as she grows and develops.

Since your husband currently inspires her best, he must take the lead in encouraging her to respect you and your requests again. He must remind her that he doesn't want her to be mean or disobedient toward you. He must also set before her the example of his own loving and respecting treatment of you, so she can learn how a grown woman is treated by her husband. He must call an absolute halt to any efforts on her part to take over your role with him. Nicely and without shaming her, he must remind her that marriage is for grown-ups.

Once he stops egging her on to play up to him, once you can reclaim your daughter's affection and respect, she'll be able to come through this stage with sound ideas about what a good marriage is, what her parents are like and how important she is.

Appleton Teachers Want Base Salary Increase of $250

Educators Make Request to Keep Public School System Competitive

Appleton public school teachers have asked for a base salary increase of $250 for the 1964-1965 school year.

The request was made to the Board of Education Monday by the Appleton Education Association welfare committee.

In addition to the base increase, the AEA committee presented two other salary proposals:

1. Addition of an increment (automatic raise for each year of teaching experience) of $100 at the 21st year of experience. This would add a step at the top of the 16-step salary schedule.

2. Assumption by the Board of Education of the total cost of the present accident and health insurance for single teachers and 50 per cent of the cost of a family plan. The board now pays $1.75 for a single plan and $4.50 for a family plan.

Present Costs

Costs now are $5.43 for the single plan and $14.49 for the family plan, but will go up to $6.49 for the single plan and $18.01 for the family plan.

The proposed $250 base increase would raise the starting base salary for a teacher with a bachelor's degree and no experience to $5,000.

Under the proposed schedule, the salary range would be from $5,000 to $7,810 for teachers with a bachelor's degree, from $5,400 to $8,290 for those with a master's degree, from $5,150 to $7,960 for those with 15 credits beyond a bachelor's degree, and from $5,500 to $8,390 for those with 15 credits beyond a master's degree.

"Dropped Behind"

Kenneth Johnston, English and social studies teacher at Wilson Junior High School and chairman of the AEA welfare committee, presented the salary proposals. The board does not set the new salary schedule until January or February, but hears the teachers' proposals while discussing the 1964 budget so that provision for possible changes can be made in the budget.

Johnston said the $50 base increase approved last winter "dropped us behind," and noted that Supt. of Schools Royce E. Kurtz had said it may have had some effect on hiring teachers.

"We feel others are ahead of us," he said. "We feel $5,000 at the present time would be a good minimum base and would be competitive. If it were a matter of $5,000 somewhere else and $4,750 here, we may lose some good teachers."

"Type of Reward"

Johnston said the proposal for the $100 increment for teachers with 21 years of experience is an attempt to raise the maximum salary and a "type of reward" to teachers who have been in the system for a long time. The increment was proposed last year but was not approved by the board.

The insurance proposal is "di-

Lawrence Official To be Chairman in Red Feather Drive

Jack Manwell, superintendent of physical plants, Lawrence College, is taking over the chairmanship of the construction division of the 1963 United Red Feather campaign, announces Walter Rugland, general campaign chairman.

Manwell

Manwell, a member of the Downtown Kiwanis Club board of directors for the past two years, has worked on the YMCA building fund campaign, Peabody Manor campaign and last year in the construction division of the Red Feather campaign. He works with Boy Scout Troop 12 of Franklin School.

The construction division will be divided into three teams covering at least eight areas of construction work, and team captains will be announced after a division meeting this month.

This year's Red Feather campaign goal of $173,143 is an increase of $6,528 over last year's goal, but is $14,576 over the amount actually raised last year.

The "fair share" to be contributed by each construction worker will be only a suggestion. These suggestions for giving will be based on realistic budgets for the 10 agencies included in the campaign. The budgets are substantiated by tight budget control of local agencies by more than 200 Appleton citizens.

Laird Declares Opposition To Administration Tax Bill

Calls for Reduced Spending In Speech at Clintonville

CLINTONVILLE — Rep. Melvin R. Laird (R-Wis.) Monday night declared he will oppose the administration's tax bill which is expected to come to a vote on the floor of the House of Representatives later this month.

He spoke to 100 persons who attended a dinner meeting at Christ Congregational Church. Laird charged "a tax cut coming at a time of planned deficits, higher spending, and improper fiscal measures cannot be supported by reasonable men committed to sound economics and fiscal sanity."

Economy Drive

Laird pointed to the highly successful economy drive spearheaded by the Republicans this year and stated "this congress, by the time it adjourns, will have succeeded in reducing President John F. Kennedy's original spending budget for fiscal 1964 by a little over $4 billion." "Even so," he said, "Secretary of the Treasury Dillon told the House Ways and Means Committee Aug. 14 expenditures for fiscal 1964 would be $98 billion. This still represents an increase of $5.4 billion over the spending level of fiscal 1963."

The Wisconsin legislator said this in itself was enough to call into serious question the advisability of a tax cut for 1964. "A tax cut becomes even more unsound," he said, "when one remembers Secretary Dillon also told congress spending requests for fiscal 1965 would be approximately $102 billion, or some $4 billion higher than this year's level."

"This Kennedy commitment to shatter all expenditure records year after year represents only one of the many stumbling blocks to a sound and effective tax program this year," Laird stated.

Lists Reasons

Laird listed the following reasons for his opposition to the tax bill presently before the House of Representatives:

It appears the administration will continue to "plan" large deficits of the magnitude of $10 or $12 billion for as long as we can see into the future, Laird stated. A balanced budget could not be attained until the early 1970's, if then. By that time, Laird charged, we will have added at least another $75 billion to our national debt.

The tax bill as reported by the Ways and Means Committee will not achieve any one of the three major objectives that President Kennedy described earlier this year as requisite for a sound tax program, Laird continued. The three objectives are:

1) Simplification of the tax laws (the current tax bill adds some 300 pages of new complexities to the statute books);

2) Reduction of inequities in tax laws (the current bill has the opposite effect. One new inequity, for example, is that taxes will be increased for those who itemize deductions and lowered for those who do not);

3) Creation of new jobs (the current bill emphasizes increases in consumer spending. To create new jobs, the emphasis should be placed on increasing investments in new and expanding enterprises).

Grave Threat

A tax cut under present circumstances would have to be financed either through the borrowing or creation of money. "This," Laird said, "would constitute even graver threats than now exist to the value of the dollar both at home and abroad."

Laird reiterated this strong belief in the need for a substantial tax cut and for meaningful reforms in the tax structure. "However," he said, "if tax reductions and reforms are to have a meaningful effect on the economy, they must be tied to an overall reduction in federal spending. They must also be drafted in such a way that the three major objectives of a sound tax program—simplification, removing inequities, and creation of jobs—will be enhanced rather than retarded by the implementation of the new tax law."

Brillion Youth Who Drove Death Auto Put on Probation

Donald E. Vanderloop, 19, route 1, Brillion, was fined $100 and placed on probation one year after he pleaded guilty of operating a car after his driver's license was revoked.

County Judge Gustave Keller set the fine when the youth appeared Monday in Outagamie County Court, Branch 2.

May Ask State to Decide Bus Problem

Routes Might be Changed for Safe Student Transportation

Authorities may have to go to the state attorney general's office to settle the school bus problem which has developed on State 96 east of the Appleton city limits.

State patrol officials said Monday they may have to seek an attorney general's ruling as to whether or not the three mile stretch of road between Appleton and Little Chute is a "built-up" or a rural area.

If the roadway is confirmed a rural area under state statutes, school bus drivers may unload and pick up passengers using their red warning lights.

May Re-Route Buses

If, however, the area is confirmed a "built-up" or residential area, the bus must unload and pick up passengers without using lights.

Motorists traveling behind and meeting a bus with flashing red lights must stop until the bus is moved.

While state patrol authorities are investigating the matter, Outagamie County Sheriff Calvin Spice and officials of the county traffic patrol will meet with school principals of the schools affected by the bus problem and attempt to re-route the buses to allow safe loading and unloading. The bus drivers have been told not to use the flashing red beacons until the matter is resolved.

Situation Unique

Spice, who met Monday with state patrol Inspector Raymond Wilie, and Sgt. D. M. Jones, said the highway problem is complicated because of the speed limit (45 miles an hour) and lack of sidewalks along the roadway. Students must stand in the roadway while waiting for the bus and must be unloaded in the roadway.

In built-up or residential areas where the buses are not allowed to use red warning lights, the speed limits are 25 and 35 miles an hour, and students are unloaded onto sidewalks off the street.

The situation is unique along the highway in that there are areas where homes are built within 300 feet of each other and the entire highway has curbing. For that reason, the area may be considered a residential area.

However, Spice said, the cluster of buildings is generally found on one side of the street only and large open areas face the built-up area. This fact, plus the speed limits, could designate the area a rural area, Spice said.

Not Divided Highway

The highway, which has a double yellow line, is not considered a divided highway, authorities ruled Monday. A divided highway must have a physical division between the lanes. Cars being driven toward an unloading school bus must come to a halt on highways which are not divided.

Spice and County Traffic Sgt. George Else said last week they have been receiving complaints from parents whose children must use the highway to travel to school. The parents have indicated they would like to see the buses use the red warning lights while picking up and leaving passengers.

Approval Given for Sewer Project Plan

Committee Estimates Costs At $500,000, Asks Appleton Council to Advertise for Bids

Plans and specifications for the Walnut Street sewer layout — the largest single sewer construction project in the city's history — received first approval Tuesday.

The street and sanitation committee recommended the Appleton Common Council give its approval and authorize the advertising for bids.

It has been estimated the project will cost between $400,000 and $500,000. Work would commence this fall and continue through the winter months. The proposal calls for considerable tunnel work and installation of metal and concrete piping. When the work is completed in 1964, it is expected to solve one of the city's chronic flooding problems.

Public Works Director Robert W. Bues recommended the city take alternate bids for materials and construction work.

Bues recommended that poured-in-place concrete should be used on the tunnel construction, but said concrete and corrugated metal pipe could be used. He said it was a "must" to use corrugated metal pipe near the river outfall.

Underground Pipe

City officials have been subject to pressure in recent weeks to use only concrete pipe for the project. It has been estimated that 2,000 feet of pipe will be laid. The tunnel will be dug 25 to 40 feet underground in some places.

The committee was advised that representatives of various pipe companies and officials in other cities were contacted to make price and material comparisons. Plans and specifications for the Walnut Street job will have to be approved by the State Industrial Commission.

Want Many Bidders

The project will attract bidders with specialized tunneling equipment and advertisements for bids will run for four weeks instead of the usual two to attract as many bidders as possible. Advertisements will be on a statewide basis and bids will be opened in November. "We should get some good prices because the contractors are always eager to have winter work," Bues told the committee.

Request Denied

The committee denied the request of Percy C. Menning to have Drew Street opened up so there would be access to Northland Avenue.

It agreed to consider the replacement of refuse containers in the downtown area. They were put on College Avenue by a local service club which in turn sold advertising rights to a private firm.

Commissioners Await Decision On Pipeline

Unconfirmed Reports Say Twin Cities May Change Minds

Members of the Appleton Water Commission indicated Monday they are waiting for the common council to decide whether Appleton should go to Lake Michigan for a long-range water supply.

Commissioners held their regular meeting and said there was nothing to do but wait for the council to take some action on their recommendation to go to the big lake.

In the meantime, there were unconfirmed reports the cities of Neenah and Menasha may reconsider their recent action of turning down the water pipeline proposal.

On another subject, the water commission said it is expected to put the new 2.3 million gallon standpipe on the city's far northwest side into operation by Nov. 1.

Costs $120,000

The huge tank, which stands 80 feet high, is on W. Lindbergh Street near the corner of Summit Street. It is being constructed at an estimated cost of $120,000.

Commissioners said the tank would be painted a color which will "blend in with the neighborhood". They reported receiving several inquiries from residents in the area wanting to know if the tank was going to be painted.

Once the tank ise operable, it will boost the low water pressure in that sector of the city.

Bicyclist Bruised When He Hits Car

KAUKAUNA — Steven Glouderman, 8, son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore J. Glouderman, 519 W. Seventh St., Kaukauna, was bruised when his bicycle struck a car as it backed from a parking stall about 1:30 p.m. Saturday.

According to police, Arwin Matthies, 58, route 2, Brillion, was backing from a parking stall at 215 Dodge St. when the child rode into the rear fender of the car.

Committee Acts To Make Plans For New Garage

Request Council Approve Hiring Architect at Once

The Appleton Common Council's Street and Sanitation Committee Monday night recommended appointing a committee to hire an architect for preparation of plans and specifications for the proposed new municipal garage.

It was the opinion of the group that construction on the new garage be started as soon as possible in 1964. This year's budget included $10,000 for the garage planning.

Proposed Site

Site for the proposed structure is a large area of city-owned land on the southeast side of Appleton adjoining the industrial park. The present municipal garage is located at 924 W. Spencer St. City officials say that it has outlived its usefulness.

Public Works Director Robert W. Bues told the committee he would like to see the new garage, which has been in the talking stage for the past few years, become a reality.

Asks Space Needs

Bues said he wrote all municipal department heads Aug. 15 asking them to specify the space their respective operations would require at the proposed new garage building.

As of Monday, Bues said he had received but two replies.

Committee members said if department heads did not offer better cooperation, the common council would designate those governmental units that should use the garage facilities.

"Instead of asking them, we are going to have to tell them," commented Ald. Kenneth Loos (3rd), committee chairman.

Appleton School Board Reviews Budget, Plans for Its Passage

Kurtz to Recommend Changes in $4 Million Expense List Monday

The Appleton Board of Education continued its study of the 1964 school budget Monday and plans to approve the budget at its regular meeting next Monday.

The administration will give the board a list of additions and recommended deferments at the next meeting. Supt. of Schools Royce E. Kurtz asked the board to approve the budget so the business department can prepare the final draft and have it in the hands of the city council by Oct. 16.

Board member Gregory Schulte suggested four points to be considered in studying the proposed $4,187,739 budget.

Four Points

1. If the budget is approved as is, it would mean an increase of 11 per cent, or $353,000, in the tax levy.

2. The assessed valuation of the school district has risen 4 per cent, which would permit an increase of $127,000 in the tax levy at the 1963 rate.

3. School enrollment is up 5 per cent, which would mean an estimated $160,000 budget increase.

4. Proposed expenditures are up 7 per cent, or $261,000.

"A Windfall"

Board member Franklin Nehs said the $150,000 received in 1963 as tuition and back tax levy from attached areas was "a windfall, a one-year shot."

Schulte said he would prefer to look at a comparison of expenditures regardless of where the money will come from.

The board studied the detailed breakdown of the proposed budget, noting reasons for increases or decreases and areas where possible cuts could be made. No decisions were made on cuts.

Major Change Seen

Schulte asked if the $63,366 for bus transportation could be shaved. Kurtz said the school system hopes to cut out the major portion of the bus service as the building program is finished, but the only major change seen for next year would be the scheduled fall, 1964, opening of the new St. Bernadette Catholic School.

The bus transportation figure includes $43,000 for transportation of rural children required by state law, and $20,000 for transportation of city children out of their regular school district, mainly from the Roosevelt area to Madison Junior High School.

Board member Victor Sumnicht said he would not favor a substantial cut in bus service until the city has neighborhood schools.

Open to All

The board discussed the budget for the summer school program, which Kurtz said has increased "tremendously" over the past few years. A total of $28,400 is provided for the program in the proposed budget.

AVS Not Free to Non-Residents

People Outside City Limits Must Pay Tuition Fees

The Appleton Vocational School district includes only the City of Appleton and is not the same as the Appleton School District, AVS Director Carl Bertram pointed out Monday.

Bertram said he receives a number of inquiries about this at the beginning of each school year.

Persons who live in the Appleton school district but not within the city limits of Appleton must pay tuition to attend the vocational school because they do not pay taxes to support the school, he said.

An item listed on village and town tax bills as "vocational and adult school tuition" causes some confusion, Bertram said. Any county resident under 21 years of age may attend a vocational school tuition-free, he explained, and the cost is divided among all county municipalities except Appleton, Kimberly and Kaukauna, which have vocational schools. Persons over 21 must pay tuition if they do not live in a vocational school district.

Confusion over this point grew out of recent attachments of outlying areas to Appleton for school purposes but not for vocational school purposes. The vocational school district can be extended to the same boundaries as the public school district by action of the governing bodies involved, Bertram said.

Strong Opposition Voiced To Proposed City Ordinance

Called 'Green River Law' by Businessmen

MENASHA — A proposed ordinance by the Menasha Common Council which would, if passed, label door to door salesmen and solicitors as public nuisances may be delayed and possibly die following strong opposition from Fox Valley businessmen Monday night who appeared at a hearing on the bill.

Termed a "green river law" and described as an iron curtain around Menasha, a slap in the face, an anti-business label, unjust, stopping progress and "a city that says no to business," the ordinance was designed to control and eliminate unscrupulous salesmen in the city.

Many persons believe it will eliminate all transit or door to door salesmen.

R. R. Ribble, 731 Wilson St., Menasha, owner of Security Roofing and Siding Co., who appeared at the hearing on the proposed ordinance, questioned "what effect it will have on me (Ribble)" as a salesman.

'Slap in Face'

Ribble termed the ordinance a slap in the face when it labels salesmen as a public nuisance.

"It could have been no more (a slap in the face) if I picked up a newspaper and seen 'Ray Ribble is a public nuisance' " he said.

He said he would have to go out of business as well as other salesmen if the privilege of going out and showing products to the people is taken away.

"If it is passed, Menasha will label itself as anti-business," Ribble said.

"It would create telephone soliciting," he added. ". . .and then people would be bothered continually by salesmen throughout the valley."

He noted that "people are not pestered often by door to door salesmen. . .they are pestered much more by telephone solicitors."

"At least they can see who we are," Ribble said.

Ribble argued the bill not only would affect transient salesmen but milk companies, newspapers, breadmen and the like.

Louis W. Struensee, vice president of the Struensee Manufacturing Co. of Oshkosh, spoke on behalf of his company said he believed the proposed ordinance to be unjust. "It would put the people in the home service business out of business," he said.

"It puts an iron curtain around the city. . .it stops progress," Struensee said.

Terming the ordinance a "green river" law, Struensee said home service salesmen help residents in getting their homes fixed up and the neighborhoods "fixed up."

"Are you doing your community a service — or disservice?" he asked the council.

He termed it as "undue legislation that puts me and others out of business. . .I submit it is unfair to all of us."

Other Means

Robert Jansen of Oshkosh, attorney for the Struensee company, chairman of the business ethics committee of the Oshkosh Chamber of Commerce, president of the Wisconsin Home Improvements Association, and past city attorney for the City of Oshkosh, argued against the merits of the ordinance and pointed out failures in other cities which have attempted a nuisance ordinance.

"There are other ways to eliminate fraudulant acts. . .and prevent them from becoming public nuisances," he said.

He pointed out that a survey of 71 cities in Wisconsin shows the best legislation for control of door to door salesmen, solicitors and peddlers is through licensing and permits.

"It is the most popular" of the 71 cities examined to correct the problem, he said.

Jansen pointed out the city cannot pass an ordinance that — discriminates against non-residents.

— interferes with salesmen involved in interstate commerce,

— creates a situation where the freedom of speech or press is violated,

Mayor John Klein, in comment to the remarks, said it was neither his nor council's attempt to "hang" anyone, that the council is interested in protecting the citizens of the city as well as the business people.

"I do not care to see council pass on this (Tuesday night)" the mayor said. He indicated further study will be made on the proposal.

Call Special Meeting On 'Green River' Rule

MENASHA — John Konrad, executive secretary of the Neenah-Menasha Chamber of Commerce, this morning called a special meeting at noon of businessmen, the Menasha mayor and police chief to discuss a proposed ordinance before the Menasha Common Council which calls for designation of itinerant and transient salesmen and solicitors as public nuisances. Konrad said the meeting would take place at the Menasha Elks Club.

Correction

KAUKAUNA — Due to incorrect information, an accident report in Monday's Post - Crescent stated that an auto driven by Mrs. Rosemary Pagel, 24, Welhouse Drive, collided with a second vehicle driven by Brenden Flanagan, 59, Oshkosh, as Mrs. Pagel was turning her vehicle left off Lawe Street. The Brenden vehicle was turning left, and Mrs. Pagel's auto was traveling south on Lawe Street.

Neenah High Jayvees Win

Record 20-12 Win Over Bulldogs in 1963 Grid Debut

NEENAH — The Neenah jayvees came from behind to stop New London 20-12 in their initial game Monday night at New London.

The Rockets scored the first time they had the ball with Ken Peterson going 28 yards on an end sweep for the tally. Mike Milliken added the extra point.

After a scoreless second period, New London scored its first touchdown early in the third frame after they recovered a Rocket fumble deep in Neenah territory following a punt.

Jim Kleinbrook made the touchdown on an end sweep. The try for the tying point failed.

On the first play after New London's kickoff, Tom Brown intercepted a flat pass and raced about 30 yards to score, giving the Bulldogs a 12-7 advantage.

The Rockets didn't trail for long for on the next series of plays Peterson went off guard for 65 yards and a 13-12 lead when the point was missed.

Peterson scored the final touchdown in the fourth period on a 25-yard off-tackle run. Dave Wollerman added the extra point.

Neenah again threatened in the fourth quarter moving inside the Bulldog 20 but was thrown back by a series of penalties. New London didn't have any other sustained drives.

Coach Ben Meixl said Tim Meyer, Jim Lanzer and Jim Koepke performed well on defense while Wollerman, Koepke, Norm Bauman, Milliken and quarterback Pete Kuehl were offensive standouts.

The Rockets make their next start against Kaukauna there at 10 a.m. Saturday.

ST. JOHN — Officers of St. John the Baptist Holy Name Society were installed Wednesday by their pastor, the Rev. Leonard Woelfel.

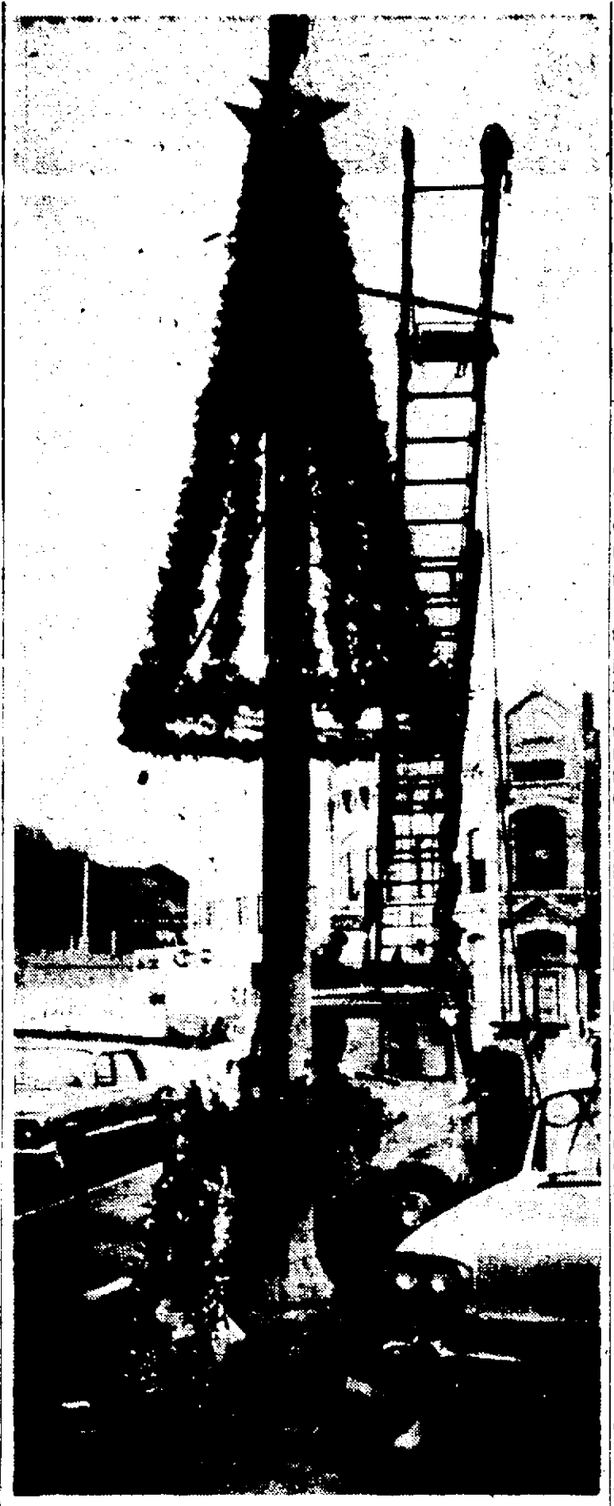
Howard Fochs will serve as president, Elmer Klotz, vice president; Richard Thiel, secretary; Jacob Nett, treasurer; Dennis Dorn, banner bearer, and Paul Kesler, marshal.

Reports were given on the county deanery meeting. Reservations for the breakfast following the corporate communion mass Oct. 13, at St. Mary, Chilton, may be made with Howard Fochs.

Admits Burglary

OSHKOSH — A guilty plea to a burglary charge was entered before County Judge James Sitter today by Gary R. Smolinski, 18, 804 John St., Menasha. Sentencing was set for Oct. 9 and a presentence investigation was ordered.

Smolinski is charged with breaking into the Triangle Inn in the Town of Menasha on Aug. 19. He was released without bond.



Motorists Were Seeing Things — Christmas decorations on Neenah's E. Wisconsin Avenue Monday night on one of fall's warm, humid days. Only a little over three months remain before Christmas but the decorations won't stay up until then. They were samples being considered for Neenah's downtown holiday lighting. Above the symbolic Christmas tree has been placed on a light pole while on the sidewalk is the wreath and bell placed on another pole. (Post-Crescent Photo)

No, Santa Claus Hasn't Altered Time Schedule

NEENAH — No, Santa hasn't junked the Gregorian calendar and set up a time schedule of his own! No retail business isn't so bad that downtown Neenah merchants have moved the Christmas season ahead three months! And yes those are Christmas decorations on W. Wisconsin Avenue so you can cancel that quickly made appointment with your favorite psychiatrist.

It's all like this. Neenah has had the same Christmas decorations for many years, and although they amply serve the local Yuletide needs, it may be time for a change. At least that's the way the Downtown Neenah Merchants Retail Service Council feels.

But change can have many obverse effects and it's within the realm of possibility that the merchants and shoppers would not like the brand new decorations once they were purchased and put up.

So the council decided to have a trial run with a couple of possible new decorations and see if they improved the local decor in sufficient quantity to warrant the changeover.

The two decorations on the south side of Wisconsin Avenue just east of Church Street are a standard wreath display and a tailor-made Neenah Christmas tree. Both have lights and will remain in place for the next week to 10 days, according to Frank Hardt, council chairman.

The Christmas decorations committee of the council is in charge of the project and will meet Thursday, Sept. 19 and decide if Neenah will have all new Christmas decorations, retain the old and "be not the first by whom the new is tried", or select a combination of the old and new.

St. Norbert Times Wins 'All Catholic' Scholastic Rating

DE PERE — The St. Norbert College "Times", weekly campus newspaper, has been given an "All-Catholic" rating by the Catholic School Press Association for the 1962-1963 school year.

The "All - Catholic" is the highest of three ratings awarded to student publications judged by the Catholic Press Association, a national agency affiliated with the Marquette University Journalism School at Milwaukee.

The editor of the St. Norbert Times in 1962-1963 was Barbara Hyska, a June graduate now on the staff of the Green Bay Press-Gazette.

The paper was judged on 11 separate criteria and received the highest of four possible ratings in three of them: physical appearance (typography, layout and design); application of art to news features, and a category for its diffusion of Catholic thought and promotion of Catholic activity.

The Times is printed by the Journal Publishing Co., De Pere.

Truce Ends, Twin Cities Resume Gasoline War

MENASHA — An uneasy truce among more than 40 service stations and garages in Neenah-Menasha fell apart early this week, causing a resumption of a widespread gasoline war in the Twin Cities.

The first crack in the truce came during the weekend when cutrate stations began slashing prices. Today service stations were engaged in a full scale war.

Premium stations blame the resumption of the price war on cut rate dealers. Cut rate dealers blame the resumption on Appleton, where a gas war has been in progress for most of the summer.

By noon today prices at some cutrate dealers had fallen to 28.9 cents. The figure, however, is still far from the 25.9 cent prices charged for gasoline several weeks ago when the Twin Cities were engaged in a gasoline war. The war ended slightly more than a week ago and prices were raised to normal standards.

Unique in the battle is the fact that premium gasolines are at the same level as cut rate. Prior to the resumption of the war premium gasolines were on an average of two cents higher than cut rate.

No one appears to know how long the war will last. One cut rate dealer said, "I think this one is here to stay."

It is the second year that Neenah - Menasha gasoline dealers have engaged in a price war. In 1962 prices on some gasolines dropped to 24.9 cents per gallon. Prices this year barely missed that. They may reach it within a few weeks, some dealers indicated this morning.

In most cases service stations and gasoline dealers are subsidized by the gasoline companies.

Recreation Budget Topic Of Meeting

Preparation and Allocation to be Discussed by Staff

NEENAH — Members of the Neenah Recreation Department will explain their system of budget preparation and allocation to the Neenah - Menasha Taxpayers Association and interested citizens at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the Neenah recreation hall.

This is the second meeting in the current association series exploring the budget systems of various municipal departments.

These meetings have been set up to better inform the Neenah taxpayers of the use made of their tax dollars, according to William Campbell, association president.

"The new recreation department budget which is to be prepared for Oct. 1, won't be ready for this meeting," Campbell said, "but we'll be able to look at the past budgets and the methods in preparing them."

He added, "it's most important that the persons attending the meeting ask questions. This way we'll have all the questions answered.

Campbell also extended an invitation to all interested Neenah citizens — association members or not — to attend the Thursday night meeting.

Coast Guard Unit Rates 'Excellent'

MENASHA — The U.S. Coast Guard Light Attendent Station at Menasha Monday was given an "excellent" rating in all phases by a three man inspection team from U. S. Coast Guard District headquarters in Cleveland, Ohio.

It was the second consecutive year the station has been ranked second in all around fitness.

The inspection included a full dress, facility and operational exercises. Station crews were required to take out the coast guard boat, place and remove buoys from the river.

Robert H. Gleaton, station commander, said "everything was inspected."

The inspecting staff included Cdr. Howard C. Robinson, northern inspectors staff, U.S. Coast Guard, Cleveland, Ohio; Chief Bosn. E. B. Midgette, executive officer, Coast Guard Group, Two Rivers; and Thomas W. Tracy, senior chief storekeeper, northern inspectors staff.

The Menasha staff, in addition to Gleaton, includes Arthur S. Trombley, John W. Cronk and Phillip L. Roberts.

380 New Lawrence Students Expected

Strong Emphasis on College In Class' Family Background

New students at Lawrence College—380 of them—arrive Wednesday for the annual pageant of luggage-toting that precedes every school year.

They come from five continents (North and South America, Asia, Africa and Europe), they represent four races and a dozen and a half creeds, and their parents' backgrounds range from African farmer to corporation president.

There are several common denominators between the class of 1967 and its immediate predecessors at Lawrence: a marked academic aptitude, a broad geographic range and a strong emphasis on Lawrence in their family backgrounds.

Twins in Class

There are 21 valedictorians and 10 salutatorians of high school graduating classes among the newcomers, including such institutions as the American School of Paris; the Belgian High School in Cologne, Germany; and the American Community School in Buenos Aires, Argentina. Both the valedictorian and the salutatorian of the Washington Union High School in Germantown, Wis., are in the class—Walter Gingery and his twin Joel. A total of 32 of the women and 48 of the men ranked in the top 10 per cent of their classes.

Twenty - three states and the District of Columbia are represented with the top ten in this order; Wisconsin, Illinois, Minnesota, Massachussetts, Indiana, Michigan, New York, Ohio, Missouri and Pennsylvania.

Foreign countries represented are Germany, Japan, Southern Rhodesia, West Cameroon, Switzerland, Uruguay and Peru.

Eighteen religious groups are listed among the incoming students, with 63 Episcopalians as the largest single group. They are followed by 46 Presbyterians, 41 each of Catholics and Congregationalists, 40 Methodists, 35 Lutherans, 19 Unitarians and less than 10 each of Baptist, Christian Science, Evangelical and United Brethren, Jewish, United Church of Christ, Moravian, Universalist, Alliance, Greek Orthodox, Reformed Church in America and Buddhist backgrounds.

The numbers of educators whose children choose Lawrence has increased yearly, with 27 in the current class. Included are Pamela Sabol, whose father is president of New York State University; Hope Harron, whose father is assistant to the president and director of university relations at Columbia; and Craig Harris, whose father is associate registrar at the University of Wisconsin.

There are faculty children from Michigan, Harvard, UW-M, Berkeley, Indiana, Northwestern, Washington, Wisconsin and Roosevelt universities; Allegheny, Converse, Doane, Lawrence, Moravian and Wooster colleges and the Institute of Paper Chemistry.

A total of 72 in the class have had relatives precede them at Lawrence; seven had both parents precede them at Lawrence, and more than 20 had one parent on alumni lists.

Longest Lawrence pedigree in the class is held by Mark Wilterding, Menasha, and his cousin Martha Colburn, DeKalb, Ill. They share a line of 18 known and probably several other Lawrence relatives stretching back to the 1890s. John Wilterding, father of Mark, edited the Lawrence Alumni Magazine for more than a decade and has held several offices in the alumni association.

Four of the newcomers' families have been Lawrentians for three generations. Mary Bennison, Grand Rapids, Mich., was preceded by her grandparents, Floyd, '12 and Cleo Wilson Bennison, '13, Coral Gables, Fla., who attended a golden reunion in June; and her father, the Rt. Rev. Charles Bennison, '39, Episcopal bishop of Western Michigan, her brother and an aunt.

The grandparents of Deborah Biggers, Menasha, were Dr. Walter A. Ladwig and Edith Reilly Ladwig, both '98, while her parents are Hayward, '31 and Julia Ladwig Biggers, '32. Six other relatives were Lawrentians.

Roth Parents

Mary Proctor, Spartanburg, S.C., is descended from A. G. Meating, '02, formerly of Appleton, now of Spartanburg; and is the child of Francis, '31, and Elizabeth Meating Proctor, '30. The grandparents of Deborah Waite, St. Louis, Mo., are Fred, '08, and Margarite Brown Sexsmith, '09, while her mother is Eleanor Eexsmith Waits, '33. All live in St. Louis. Several other newcomers list grandparents on Lawrence rolls, but no relatives in the intervening generation.

Seven new students have had both of their parents precede them at Lawrence: Robert Bletzinger, Neenah; Christine Bandy, Marinette; Martin Bridges, Winnetka, Ill.; Martha Colburn, DeKalb, Ill.; Anthony Walter, De Pere; Mark Wilterding, Menasha; and Martha Schneider, Fond du Lac.

Lawrence has had a special place in the family history of Frances Leech, Stevens Point, whose great - grandfather gave the Whiting athletic field facilities to the college.

First official activity of the new class will be to gather at 1 p.m. Wednesday in Stansbury Theater of the Music-Drama Center to hear a welcome address by Dr. Curtis W. Tarr, newly - chosen 12th president of the college.

Teachers in Appleton Ask Pay Increase

rected toward the interior of the schedule," he said.

Board member Gregory Schulte said the AEA proposals would provide a raise estimated at about 5 per cent, but "the standard of wages for others has not risen 5 per cent—it is more like 2½ to 3 per cent, so I wonder if the proposed increase is not a little high."

Schulte also said the proposed schedule would give a higher percentage increase to beginning teachers than to those at the top of the salary schedule. He said he believed the salaries for the beginning and experienced teachers should be raised the same percentage, and asked the committee if it had considered schedule changes based on a percentage increase.

Unrealistic

Johnson said many school systems do have a "percentage index," and said the committee would favor this "idealistically" but did not propose it because it was felt to be unrealistic at this time because of the budget and because the committee tried to raise the base to stay in competition.

Johnson said the Wisconsin Education Association and the National Education Association suggest doubling the beginning salary in 10 years.

The board last year approved a $50 base increase and changes in the increments which added a total of $210 to $390 to teachers' salaries this fall. In 1962 the board granted a $200 base increase and instituted a program of staggered increments, resulting in total increases of $350 to $500 for all teachers. A $150 base increase was approved for the 1961-1962 school year.

Schools First

Board member Charles Buchanan questioned having the board pay a percentage rather than a flat amount of the teachers' insurance coverage. By paying a flat amount, the board knows what its commitment is, he said, no matter which coverage plan the teachers choose.

Board member Franklin Nehs asked if the AEA as professionals had any thoughts on priorities if cuts must be made in the budget.

'As professionals we would put educational materials and schools first," Johnston said, "but I think a teacher given a chance to make a given amount in one city and more in another city would leave."

Tentative Figure

A tentative figure of $26,545 was provided in the first draft of the 1964 budget for a possible change in the teachers' salary schedule. The board must decide whether or not to change this figure in the final draft of the budget.

Thhe AEA's proposed base increase would cost $44,155 in 1964 when the new schedule would be in effect only for the last four months of the year, and $132,465 on an annual basis. The career increment would cost $2,500 in 1964 and $7,500 on an annual basis. The insurance proposal would cost an estimated $5,572 in 1964 and $16,715 on an annual basis.

Appleton, Kaukauna Men Are Sentenced For Fighting at Bar

OSHKOSH — Sentences of 30 days each in the Winnebago County jail were imposed Monday afternoon by County Judge James V. Sitter on Ronald J. Granger, 22, 219 W. Ninth St., Kaukauna, Richard J. Tease, 21, 1512 N. Rynders St., Appleton, for battery and fines of $50 and costs were imposed upon Thomas J. Berholtz, 19, 518 State St., Appleton, and Craig F. Young, 18, 1517 N. Rexford St., Appleton.

Granger and Tease Monday morning pleaded guilty of battery upon Berholtz and Young. Guilty pleas to loitering in a tavern charge were entered Monday morning by Berholtz and Young.

Appleton Boy Hurt in Collision With Auto

John Masse, 6, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Masse, 1625 Orchard Drive, Appleton, received a bruise to his hip and was treated and released at St. Elizabeth Hospital Monday after he collided with a car at State and Eighth streets.

Police said the youth darted from a parked car and collided with a car driven north on State Street by Dr. Martin J. Eich, 55, 1324 S. Alicia Drive. The accident occurred as the youth was on his way into a school building.

Firemen Answer 2 Minor Calls

KAUKAUNA—Firemen answered two calls Sunday, one a fire resulting in no damage and the second for a woman who locked herself out of her home.

At 7:55 a.m. firemen extinguished a fire in rags and paper stored in an attic at the Theodore Kangas residence, 1211 Sullivan Ave. A grease rag was believed to have burst into flame by spontaneous combustion igniting other material in the attic.

Ot 3:07 p.m. firemen climbed through a window at the residence of Mrs. Mary Clune, 112 Sarah St., and unlocked a door for her.

School Board Studies Budget

are becoming more and more summer school-minded for their children," said Mrs. George Munro, board president. She said the program was one way of trying to use school facilities year-around, and is open to parochial as well as public school children, providing a "chance to offer our services to people who do not use them the rest of the year."

Kurtz said Appleton has "a rather outstanding summer school program" and one that is larger than most school systems.

No Longer Sure

Mrs. Munro said she would like to examine the concept of "extra pay for extra work," provided for teachers who supervise certain extracurricular activities and athletics during the coming year, but said the study could not be made in time to change this budget.

She said she voted for the program at the time it was started but is no longer sure it is right.

Noting that $12,000 is provided in the budget for remodeling the sewing rooms at Wilson and Roosevelt junior high schools, Sumnicht asked if a 'concerted drive to improve the home arts curriculum" would go along with this. The cooking laboratories at the two schools were remodeled last year. Sumnicht said he believes the curriculum "is pretty poor now."

"We hope we are continually improving the curriculum," Kurtz said.

The board will meet at 7:15 p.m. Monday in Morgan School with the budget its main topic for consideration.

State Women Are Winners In Bakeoff

Detroit Housewife Walks Off With Top Prize—$25,000

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) —A Detroit housewife won a fancy $25,000 in a baking contest today with this plain fare: a hamburger and bean casserole.

Mrs. Roman Waliko, wife of an engineer and mother of five children between ages 9 and 20, made her concoction so tasty, however, that she won out over 99 other contestants.

She calls her prize - winning dish in the Pillsbury grand national bake-off a "hungry boys' casserole."

Mrs. Waliko baked her original recipe Monday in competition on 100 ranges set up at the Beverly Hilton Hotel and results of the judges' tasting were announced at a luncheon.

Other winners included:

Mrs. Donald Schindelholz, Beloit, Wis., second senior division prize, $2,000, peanut buttery puffs.

Four persons won $1,000 each in 'best of class" competition, among them Mrs. Leonard Manske, Franklin, Wis., pies and desserts.

Greg Sherman of Pack 17, Seymour and Terry Schuh of Pack 51, Little Chute, looked over their racers prior to putting them on the track in the pinewood derby held between Cub Scout packs from the two communities. The racing was held at Doyle Park in Little Chute.

'Perform' at City Hall

Supervisors Disagree; Then Agree on Zoning

Well meaning members of two Outagamie County Board committees had reason to blush today.

They gave an unscheduled command performance before the Appleton Plan Commission to discuss the city's recent rezoning of property for a shopping complex on the far northeast side.

Some of the county supervisors were confused and they went as far as to admit it.

Representatives of the county's zoning committee thought the city's rezoning was a logical one and favored the proposed commercial development by Arlan's, Inc., a national firm which plans a $1 development here.

Oppose Rezoning

However a few supervisors on the county's industrial development committee said they were opposed to the rezoning because "It's taking away the rights of the people."

During the informal discussion, which went into orbit at an early stage the county board members found themselves in disagreement and it appeared downright embarrassing.

Members of the plan commission were patient and heard them out.

Eventually the representatives of the two county committees reached agreement — the southwest corner near Ballard Road and Northland Avenue was a logical site for a commercial development.

City officials said they knew this all the time.

County Request

It seems that a motion at the last county board meeting by Al C. Fischer who serves as the alderman and county supervisor for the 15th Ward called for a meeting of the industrial committee with the city plan commission.

The county group was supposed to ask the city to reconsider the rezoning so the proposed shopping center would be built across the road on Outagamie County Airport property, or in the Town of Grand Chute.

The action of Fischer and the county board was a parallel to waving a red flag in front of a bull—the latter the Common Council.

Supv. Sylvester Esler (18th) chairman of the county industrial committee, said his group was there 'because the county is interested in the rights of the individual." At the same time he hinted the county had an ulterior motive—it wanted to sell airport land and had its eye on Arlan's.

Sale Far Off

However, Esler said he did not know when the county would be in a position to sell land. He was enlightened that it would be at least three years.

Supv. Arthur Lecker, head of the county board's zoning committee and chairman of the Town of Grand Chute, said the county zoned the property (Ballard and Northland area) for commercial use as far back as 1950 when he thought it should stay that way.

"I talked to some of the boys on the committee and they agreed it was the right place for a commercial development," Lecker said.

Esler said it was the responsibility of officials to determine the type of commercial development and was informed by Lecker that once a piece of property is zoned for commercial purposes nothing but a commercial development would go on it.

'Listen to People'

'Well if the property owners are kicking you should listen to the people who have homes next to the proposed development," Esler commented.

He was informed by City Planner Walter Rasmussen and commission members that no homes exist within four blocks of the site.

'That I didn't know about," Esler replied.

At this point Lecker said he and a few members of his group inspected the site and commented "We checked it out for the proposed commercial development and I would not object to it."

This prompted Esler to make the observation he didn't think the county board actually cared whether the zoning was changed or not.

Jews to Observe High Holidays Marking Start of Year 5724

The traditional sounding of the Shoffar (ram's horn) will usher in the Jewish New Year 5724 at sundown Wednesday and mark the beginning of the most solemn observance in the Jewish religious calendar.

The High Holidays, a 10-day penitential period, begin with the New Year, Rosh Hashanah and culminate on Saturday, Sept. 28 with Yom Kippur the Day of Atonement.

It is a period of prayer penitence and charity of reflection, self appraisal and rededication to the tenets of their faith for the nation's 5.5 million Jewish citizens and for Jews the world over.

Symbolic Call

Rosh Hashanah is marked by the blowing of the shoffar, the ram's horn, a symbolic call to repentance, so that all who hear can join the community in prayer. In services Wednesday evening and Thursday, Jewish congregations in Appleton and throughout the world will offer prayers for peace and human brotherhood and prayers of repentance.

Orthodox and conservative Jews observe Rosh Hashanah for two days, ending at sundown Friday while reform Jews observe it from Wednesday evening until Thursday evening.

The day is traditionally considered by Jews as the anniversary of the creation of the universe and therefore it is celebrated as the start of a new year although it falls in the seventh month of the ancient Jewish calendar.

In addition to prayers the day is observed by eating honey and sweets at mealtimes symbolizing the hopes for a sweet year ahead.

The sacred period will reach its climax with Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement, which begins at sunset Friday, Sept. 27 and continues through the following day. The most holy day of religious observance for Jews it will begin with the chanting of the Kol Nidre a musical prayer beseeching divine mercy for rash conduct during the last year. The final blast of the shoffar at sunset Saturday Sept. 28 will mark the end of the High Holidays.

All-day worship services are held in synagogues on Yom Kippur. Worshippers usually add to the solemnity of the day by fasting. All three branches of Judaism observe Yom Kippur for one day.

Rosh Hashanah will begin at 7 p.m. Wednesday in Appleton with a Hebrew service at Moses Montefiore Synagogue. An English service and sermon at 8 p.m. Wednesday. Rabbi Gilbert Silverstein will preach the sermon and Arnold Gassel will serve as cantor.

Service Schedule

The Thursday and Friday schedules which are the same, include a morning service in Hebrew at 8 a.m., a Shoffar service at 10:15 a.m., a sermon at 10:30 a.m., a Musaf service in Hebrew and English at 10:55 a.m., and an evening service in Hebrew at 6:45 p.m.

Rosh Hashanah services at the Beth Israel Synagogue will be at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday and at 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. Thursday and Friday. Regular Sabbath services are at 9 a.m. Saturday. A rabbi from Chicago will conduct the services.

Charges of disorderly conduct against three men who allegedly participated in a ballroom fight early Sunday morning in Nichols have been continued in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 until Wednesday.

Roy Dingeldien, 22, Forest Junction, and Dennis Scheelk, 20, Nichols, pleaded guilty to the charges and are being held in jail without bond. Pre-sentence investigations have been ordered.

Dennis Teschke, 22, 3304 N. Oneida St., Appleton, pleaded innocent and is being held on bond of $150. His trial is set for Wednesday.

The three were taken into custody after a discussion on the merits of the Marine Corps as opposed to those of the Army broke into a fight between Dingeldien, a former soldier, and Scheelk, a Marine on leave from California.

Police were called and in the fracas an automobile license and a wiring to the red light were taken from a county patrol car.

Services Set For 4 Youths Killed Monday

DePere Quartet in Speeding Car Which Slammed Into Train

DE PERE — Funeral services will be Wednesday and Thursday for four youths who died early Monday morning when the stolen car they were riding in slammed into a Soo Line freight diesel near Hilbert.

The youths who took the auto from Ryan Funeral Home about 5:30 a.m., were Donald V. Pargo, 16, 306½ N. Michigan St., Bernard L. Van Den Heuvel, 22, 121 N. Michigan St., Mark Adriansen, 16, 109½ N. Superior St., and Milton Doehler, Jr., 19, 432 N. Broadway.

Calumet County Coroner LeRoy Hughes said the youths died of multiple fractures of the legs, chest and head injuries. There were no skid marks on the pavement to show the driver of the car, Doehler, had seen the train or attempted to stop before the collision, Hughes said.

$400 Damage

Damage to the Soo engine was estimated at $400. The impact of the crash knocked out the engine's power plant and damaged large batteries, Hughes said.

Last year at this time Calumet County had seven fatalities and eight over-all for the year. The toll so far this year is 10, six of them in the last month.

De Pere police said the four jumped ignition wires to start the car.

Services for Pargo will be at 2 p.m. Wednesday at Ryan Funeral Home with burial in South Lawrence Cemetery. Services for Van Den Heuvel will be at 10 a.m. Thursday at St. Mary Catholic Church with burial in Mt. Olivet Cemetery. Friends may call at Ryan Funeral Home.

Adriansen and Doehler are at Cotter Funeral Home. Services for Adriansen will be at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday at St. Mary church with burial in Allouez Cemetery. Services for Doehler will be at 10:30 a.m. Thursday at the funeral home with burial in Green Wood Cemetery.

Try-Outs Scheduled For All-School Play

KIMBERLY — Try-outs for a school play, "Our Town," are to be held in room 130 in the Senior High School at 3:45 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday.

All students interested in trying for a part on the play or willing to serve on off-stage committees are to report for try-outs, according to Miss Alice Sucharda, director.

Commission Tables Hiring of Policeman

NEW LONDON — The police and fire commission tabled hiring of a new policeman until a future date Monday night.

The policeman, when hired, will fill the vacancy made by the resignation of Arlyn Hoffman. Until the vacancy is filled, special policeman, Carl Herber, will work on the eight man department.

State High Court Overrules Waupaca Contempt Decision

WAUPACA — Acting Wisconsin Chief Supreme Court Justice George R. Currie overruled a decision of Waupaca County Judge Wendell McHenry today and ordered the immediate release of Kenneth F. Hemingson, 41, route 4 from the county jail where he was being held for four days on a contempt of court charge.

Justice Currie ordered Hemingson's release after Judge McHenry denied a petition by the defendant's attorney for time to effect an appeal to a higher court.

Atty. Urban P. Van Susteren, Appleton, served the Supreme Court order on Sheriff Loran Frazier about 7:45 p.m. Monday to effect Hemingson's release.

Hemingson was held in contempt Friday and ordered to serve four days in the county jail and pay a fine of $75 or serve an additional 10-day sentence. The Supreme Court order suspended the sentence until Sept. 23, pending further action on the appeal.

Court records show Hemingson was cited for contempt of a restraining order issued by Family Court Commissioner Laurie Anderson July 15. Judge McHenry ordered Hemingson to serve four weekends (eight days) in the county jail.

Hemingson served four days on the sentence and then was ordered, on another contempt of court citation, to serve additional time after failing to serve the sentence consecutively.

Van Susteren said Hemingson did not serve the original sentence because Van Susteren told Hemingson the sentence was wrong.

The second contempt charge was drawn up by Judge McHenry, Van Susteren said, and was on a criminal warrant.

Girls In one study, only 14 per cent of the women said that, as children, they had never dressed up in their parent's clothing, while 59 per cent of the men had never done so This may have been due to greater changes in styles, so that more women have clothing that they will allow their children to play with than do men Whatever the reasn, children who want to imitate adults often want to be costumed for the part, so that this difference does reflect the extent of imitation of parents This question is touched on in some measure in the booklet, "Your Child's Emotional Health." Are vocational tests often misleading?

Yes—— No——

Yes, say some authorities. On the basis of vocational tests, a young person may be strongly advised to go into some particular line of work It may be, as the tests show, that he has both the interest and the aptitude for this. But is he too neurotic to succeed in it? Does he have latent hostilities, distorting identifications that will make success impossible? Or, does he have the persistence to overcome other defects and succeed in spite of everything? Such often crucial questions cannot be answered by the usual tests Until they are answered, however, tests may be misleading

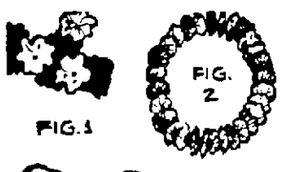
Greet Your Party Guests Hawaiian Style With Leis

BY CAPPY DICK

Leis are garlands that represent welcome in Hawaii Hawaiians make them of real flowers which grow there in abundance. You can create imitation leis of homemade paper flowers.

Use tissue paper of various colors. Cut many small pieces shaped like those in Figure 1.



Use colored tissue

Crumple the pieces by crushing them gently in your fist. Thread a darning needle with ordinary string and string the pieces to make a garland like that in Figure 2. Fluff the papers with your fingers as you string them to give them a flower-like fullness

If you are planning to have a party, make at least one lei for each guest and let them be taken home as tokens. Present each guest with a lei (Figure 3) when he or she arrives at the party

It is also a good idea to make some extra leis to be awarded to guests for winning party games The boy in Figure 4 is wearing five He received one upon his arrival at the party and won the other four leis by being the winner in four of the party games

Expect 40,000 Tonight to Honor Spahn

Button Sale May Raise In Excess of $50,000 for Fund

BY DAVE O'HARA

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Despite persistent rumors that the Braves are headed for Atlanta in 1964, Milwaukee's largest turnout of the season is expected tonight to pay tribute to wonderful Warren Spahn.

Some 40,000 fans, civic leaders and baseball officials will join in tendering the 42-year-old southpaw one of his greatest honors on "Warren Spahn Night."

Hall of Famers Carl Hubbell, Lefty Grove and Gabby Hartnett will participate in the pre-game festivities before Spahn makes a bid for his 21st victory of the season and No. 348 of his career against the San Francisco Giants.

The usual shower of gifts will be missing. Instead, Spahn's name will be perpetuated by establishment of the Warren Spahn Scholarship Foundation. The fund will be financed by the sale of "Spahnie" buttons at 25 cents each and private gifts.

Personal Contribution

The button sale is expected to raise more than $50,000. Private gifts include a personal contribution of $500 by Spahn himself.

The Braves' ace will be given a portrait, scrolls from each of the nine other National League clubs and a gift from his teammates. His wife will receive a jewel box and his son, Greg, 14, will be given a western saddle.

Spahn, who earns $80,000 a year from the Braves and has a ranch in Hartshorne, Okla., agreed to the "night" only after assurances that the proceeds would go to set up the scholarship fund.

Also on hand will be Johnny Sain, a right-hander who helped pitch the Braves to the National League pennant in 1948, when the Boston cry in the final month of the season was "Spahn and Sain and pray for rain." Sain now is a pitching coach with the New York Yankees.

The Spahn festivities got underway Monday with a luncheon attended by some 400 persons. Given a standing ovation, Spahn said "thank you from the bottom of my heart ... and God bless you."

He admitted he was a little choked up and said it's "a lot easier to pitch a ball game than to stand up here." In typical Spahn fashion, he credited his teammates for his success.

Hal Brandt, Hinsdale, Ill., junior, is expected to get the starting call at quarterback when Wisconsin opens the 1963 grid season against Western Michigan in Madison Saturday. Brandt is competing with Madison's John Fenske and Antigo's Dave Fronek, both sophomores. (AP Wirephoto)

Xavier High School, unbeaten in 24 straight games and off to a good start with a pair of victories already this season, rules the favorite in the Fox Valley Catholic Conference which opens another season of play with four games Friday night.

However, Xavier's road to another conference championship may have a few more pitfalls in 1963 than in the past.

Standing by with a strong challenging squad is Premontre of Green Bay, and at least three other teams appear to be improved to the point where they could cause trouble for the high-flying Hawks. St. Mary Menasha, Springs of Fond du Lac and Abbot Pennings of DePere all have a good number of lettermen back and could come on strong.

Xavier opens the conference season at Goodland Field Friday night against Little Chute. St. John. In other games it will be Oshkosh Lourdes at Marinette. Central Catholic, Pennings will be at Menasha. St. Mary, and St. Mary Springs of Fond du Lac will be at Premontre.

Here is a rundown on the teams:

XAVIER: Star halfback Bob "Rocky" Bleier heads a list of eight returning Xavier lettermen and Coach Gene "Torchy" Clark appears to have another strong squad in the offing.

In addition to Bleier, the defending champion Hawks who have won 24 straight games over a 3-year span, will have tackles Floyd Slayton and Mike Moder back, as well as quarterback Jim Rather, guard Jim Heimmerman,

Governor Reynolds Criticized For Statements About Braves

Chief Executive Of State Would Act to Block Move

MADISON (AP)—Gov. John W. Reynolds cautioned Milwaukee Braves officials Monday that if they act to move their baseball team he will press for a review of federal legislation governing the business conduct of the sport.

The governor said he would initiate his action to block a move by the Braves by contacting the U. S. Attorney General's office and Wisconsin's congressional delegation.

"I think we ought to review the preferential treatment being afforded baseball owners if they are arbitrarily and unilaterally going to take off like gypsies in violation of the public trust," Reynolds told a news conference.

William Bartholomay, chairman of the board of the Milwaukee Braves, has denied rumors that the National League baseball franchise now held by Milwaukee will be transferred to Atlanta, Ga., or a West Coast city.

Has Information

Reynolds said he had not talked with Bartholomay or other Braves officials but that he had information "based on more than newspaper accounts" which indicated the Braves would move.

The governor would not identify his sources.

"Baseball claims it is not a business but a national pastime or sport, and the courts have allowed them to buy and sell their men under a policy of preferential treatment," Reynolds said, adding:

"On one hand they claim their's is not a private enterprise and not subject to law that would govern private business. Yet now, without regard for the public, they (the baseball owners) think they can pick up their team and equipment and steal away."

Reynolds said a move by the Braves would have a serious effect on the whole state.

He said Milwaukee spent $5 million on the construction of a stadium when the Braves came from Boston in 1953. Since then, he added, "the whole interstate highway system has been wrapped around the stadium to accommodate them .. and an estimate of the public funds spent to make them successful might go from $10 to $20 million.

"I honestly think it unconscionable for these men after 10 years to think they can go down to Atlanta, or somewhere and make a killing."

Milwaukee Industrialist Claims Great Harm Can be Done by Words

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Richard S. Falk, Milwaukee sportsman and industrialist, said Monday night that statements by Gov. John W. Reynolds about the Milwaukee Braves "could do great harm to the constructive work that others are doing."

Falk commented in a telegram to Reynolds after the chief executive brought up the Braves' rumored move from Milwaukee at a press conference in Madison.

Reynolds said that if Braves officials act to move the baseball team, he will press for a review of federal legislation governing the business conduct of sports. The governor said he would initiate his action to block any Braves move by contacting the U. S. attorney general's office and the Wisconsin congressional delegation.

Denied Rumors

William Bartholomay, chairman of the board of the Braves, has denied rumors the National League franchise now held by Milwaukee will be transferred to Atlanta, Ga., or a West Coast city.

Falk is chairman of a committee planning a recognition program for Braves pitching star Warren Spahn tonight. He said he sent the following telegram to Reynolds:

"Thoughtful persons in Wisconsin have been working effectively toward the important goal of rekindling the great interest in the Braves and in reassuring Braves owners of their future here.

"The Spahnie Recognition Committee," through its activities this week, is moving with the same positive approach. All of us are convinced that the Braves have made no commitments to any other city and have only listened to other offers as many responsible companies in our state do quite often.

"Your statements today (Monday) and threats of legal action are not only unfortunate and ill-advised, but could do great harm to the constructive work that others are doing."

Dodgers Beat Cards, 3-1, in Opener of Showdown Set

Willie Davis' Hit Breaks 1-1 Deadlock

BY MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

"They've just got to fold," said Leo Durocher, "they've been so hot, they've just got to."

Is the outspoken Los Angeles coach right, or can the St. Louis Cardinals bounce back from a 3-1 defeat by the National League leading Dodgers Monday night in the opener of the three-game showdown that may decide the pennant winner?

That was the question today as the Cardinals made ready for round No. 2—against Dodger ace Sandy Koufax, 23-5. Starting for St. Louis will be Curt Simmons, 15-7.

Leo made his comment before the game, with the Cardinals heading into the series at home only one-game back of the Dodgers after rolling to 10 consecutive victories and 19 in 20 games.

Fairly Doubles

The tension-filled game moved into the ninth with the score tied 1-1 before the Dodgers put together a double by Ron Fairly, a key single by Willie Davis and an error for the two runs that gave them the vital victory and a two-game lead over the Cardinals.

Now, even if the Cardinals take the remaining games of the head-to-head clash, the Dodgers still will be in first place.

"I am not the least bit pessimistic," said St. Louis Manager Johnny Keane. "We've got two more with 'em. This pennant race is a long way from being over yet."

In the Dodger dressing room, Manager Walt Alston was asking the questions of reporters.

"Well, we didn't play too badly, did we?"

Then came his answer.

"I would say we won a pretty good one. That first game is always a big one."

While they were playing the big one at St. Louis, two other games were played in the National League.

Bob Veale pitched a two-hitter and Bill Mazeroski drove in the game's only run with a single in the last of the ninth as Pittsburgh edged the Chicago Cubs 1-0.

Juan Marichal won his 23rd game with a six-hitter and Orlando Cepeda hit a decisive homer to snap a 3-3 tie in the fifth and give San Francisco a 4-3 victory over Milwaukee.

X-rays Reveal No Fractures For Y. A. Tittle

NEW YORK (AP)—Y. A. Tittle escaped with no broken bones but was bruised on the ribs and chest-bone Sunday while the New York Giants were beating Baltimore 37-28 in their opening game. X-rays showed no breaks Monday.

Although Tittle's exact status will not be clarified until later in the week, he was expected to be ready for action Sunday at Pittsburgh.

"It is too early to tell about Y. A.," said Coach Allie Sherman who had nothing but praise for the terrific job done by the veteran against Colts who led 21-3 in the second period.

Tittle will remain at St. Elizabeth Hospital until Tuesday when the Giants resume practice sessions for their game with the Steelers. He was injured when hit in the end zone after running nine yards for a touchdown.

Neenah, with the smallest number of returning lettermen in the conference, has been given an excellent chance to repeat as Mid-Eastern Conference champions, according to an informal poll of the league's coaches.

The Rockets have only seven monogram winners returning from the unbeaten 1962 squad but were given a slight edge over Kaukauna, Two Rivers, Shawano and Clintonville. The majority of coaches expect a well balanced race with Kimberly tabbed as a possible darkhorse and Menasha and New London labeled as potential trouble-makers for some teams.

New London has the largest array of lettermen — 16 — and a surprising group of candidates—92. The Bulldogs, who will depend on speed a great deal this season, were one of four M-E teams to emerge victorious in the opening week of non-conference activity last week. New London topped Mosinee, 7-0.

Shows Strength

Neenah showed good strength in whipping Fond du Lac, 25-12, Kimberly edged St. John, of Little Chute, 13-6; and Clintonville boosted its stock with a 45-6 trouncing of Merrill.

Two Rivers was edged by Manitowoc, 6-0, Menasha lost to Appleton, 20-0, Sheboygan North topped Kaukauna, 12-6, and Shawano was beaten by D. C. Everest, 39-6.

Menasha has 14 lettermen and Clintonville will build with 13 veterans from last year. Shawano has 10, Two Rivers 11, Kimberly

Giants Hand Braves Seventh Straight Loss

Menke Accounts For All Runs With Homer in 4-3 Defeat

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The Milwaukee Braves' collapse in the closing stages of the National League pennant race may hit them where it hurts most — in the pocketbook.

A week ago the Braves had visions of second place while riding a seven game winning streak. Now they face a stiff battle for fourth as they lead Philadelphia and Cincinnati by a half game.

The San Francisco Giants boosted their third place lead over Milwaukee to 2½ games by defeating the Braves 4-3 Monday night as Juan Marichal posted his 23rd victory before a crowd of 5,437 at County Stadium.

Marichal tossed a six-hitter and struck out seven in handing the Braves their seventh straight defeat, their longest losing string of the year. Denny Menke accounted for all three Milwaukee runs with his 11th homer.

Kuenn Singled

The Giants scored a run off starter Tony Cloninger in the first when Harvey Kuenn singled, moved to second on a sacrifice, took third on a hit by Willie McCovey and came across on Willie Mays' sacrifice fly.

Joe Torre and Gene Oliver singled before Menke unloaded a tremendous shot just to the left of the left field bleachers. Menke leaned into a fast ball for one of the longest homers in the stadium.

The Giants added a run in the third on a walk and singles by McCovey and Orlando Cepeda and tied the count in the fourth on a walk and a triple by Chuck

9, and Kaukauna 8 monogram winners.

A rundown on the teams:

NEENAH — Coach Harland Carl has seven lettermen and had 89 candidates, including such linemen as Jim Thomas and Tom Jahns and fullback Hollis Bliss.

KAUKAUNA — Coach Harry Wilson is looking for improved pass defense this season. It was passes that hurt the Ghosts most last year.

He has eight lettermen with which to build his 1963 squad, including quarterback Bud O'Brien and halfback Tim Verstegen. Verstegen could be a key man in the Kaukauna attack this year. He has had some experience calling signals and also has played an end position.

The Ghosts also have such linemen as tackle Dan Biese, end John Skibba and guard Ron Skalmusky, back for 1963.

CLINTONVILLE — Coach Tony Ellis has 13 lettermen, including a pretty solid quartet of starting backfield men. Bill Melzer is the quarterback, Don Thompson and Kurt Holm, the halfbacks, and Steve Hedtke (back for his third year at the same position) at fullback.

Dan Hedtke seems to be the only set starter (at center) as Ellis assembles a line for the Truckers. Terry Dieck and Gary Tveeting are the leading end candidates.

TWO RIVERS — A new coaching staff takes over at Two Rivers. The new mentor is Dick Schmidt and his assistants are Jerry Kain, Grant Turner, and Vern Verkuilen.

The Purple Raiders will likely have a speedy backfield and the team's new set of plays are expected to include a tricky sweeping offense.

Eleven lettermen return, including linemen Jim Brull, Charles Barman, Mike Merz and Paul Nortemann, and backs Dave Altman, Gary Linteruer, and Paul Stangel.

KIMBERLY—Coach Jim Nirschl has nine lettermen and excellent size. The Papermakers lost Dennis Kroner in the St. John game but it is hoped the quarterback will be back by Friday.

Lee Levknecht and Jerry Wyngaard head a capable end corps, and Dave Mitchell will anchor the big line from his tackle position.

SHAWANO — The Indians have 10 lettermen returning to coach Neil Montour, including fullback Jim Judd, end Dave Arvold and halfback Gary Laehn.

Vaughn James and Bob Grignon are competing for the quarterback post. Grignon broke his leg as a sophomore and is trying football for the first time since the injury.

NEW LONDON — Coach Bob Dehlinger was surprised by the large turnout and is trying to build around 16 lettermen. The Bulldogs will rely heavily on speed as the biggest man on the team scales only 180 pounds.

MENASHA—Coach Tom Weede has 14 lettermen out of some 65 candidates. One of the 14 monogram winners, Morrie Quick (center) is probably out for the season with an ankle injury.

game — Chicago at Washington —was rained out.

Score First

The Dodgers scored first against the Cardinals, getting to Ernie Broglio for a run in the sixth on a double by Maury Wills, his steal of third and a single by Tommy Davis.

Stan Musial's homer — only one of three hits off Dodger starter Johnny Podres—got the Cardinals even in the seventh.

Then in the eighth, Keane made the move that led to the Dodger victory. With Broglio tiring, the Cardinal manager sent in a pinch hitter, then called on Bobby Shantz to hold the Dodgers in the ninth.

Ron Fairly lashed Shantz' first pitch for a double. Then Davis, who was hitting only .232 going into the game but had already collected two hits and stolen two bases, lined a single to right field as Fairly raced home and slid across the plate with the lead run, on a close play.

A throwing error by Julian Javier let in another run.

Ron Perranoski pitched the ninth for the Dodgers and set the Cardinals down 1-2-3 to preserve Podres' 14th victory against 10 losses.

Was Alston satisfied?

"Yes," he said, "I would have to say things look a little brighter. But there's another big one coming up. I'm happy, of course, but there's no need to laugh yet until it's over. We're just one game better off than yesterday, that's all.

"It's not over yet."

Bowling Tips

BY DON CARTER AND MARION LADEWIG

Right Move

Some bowlers believe that when their ball is hitting to the right of the pocket formed by the 1-3 pins, they should move to the left to correct. False. To cause your ball to go farther to the left, you should move your starting position to the right (as shown by the solid line in the illustration). It may seem wrong, but it's correct. The move to the right increases the distance the ball travels, thus giving it more time to curve to the left.

This theory holds true for the ball that is going too far to the left, of course. Move to the left and your ball will come closer to the target.

DENVER (AP)—Chuck McKinley of St. Ann, Mo., the Wimbledon champion, and three other players were named here Monday to make up the squad which will carry United States hopes in the interzone finals of Davis Cup tennis competition in Britain.

Two of the players, Dennis Ralston of Bakersfield, Calif., and Marty Riessen of Evanston, Ill., were members of the American team which downed Venezuela 5-0 here in the Amerizan zone finals during the week-end.

The other member of the squad is Frank Froehling III of Coral Gables, Fla.

The selections were announced by Robert Kelleher, team captain.

The Americans will face the British Sept. 26-28 at Bournemouth, England.

Lombardi, who admitted he didn't sleep well Sunday night, hadn't changed his mind about why the Packers lost. "We just couldn't get on the track," he said. We didn't play a good game—not at all. You can't win unless you score."

Have Good Team

He was not inclined to call the Bear triumph an upset, saying, "I've said from the beginning that the Bears have a good team."

"I don't know, if you'd class it as an upset," he continued. "We had won eight straight games against them, including those two big scores (49-0 and 38-7) last year. They had a lot to think about, a lot more going for them."

Noting that the Packers gave up the ball once on a fumble and four times on pass interceptions, Lombardi said "it was just two interceptions, really. Two were tipped off receivers' fingers."

He also said that quarterback Bart Starr, who completed only 11 of 22 passes, couldn't be blamed for that.

About the only thing that satisfied Lombardi was the play of rookie defensive end Lionel Aldridge, who replaced traded ill Quinlan.

"I thought Aldridge did well for a first year man," Lombardi said. "In fact, he played extremely well — and the Bears were going at him pretty good."

John Plach, Joan Reitzner Share Honors

John Plach hit a 565 set, and Joan Reitzner socked a 532 in the Fish Couples League at Hahn's over the weekend. Joan had games of 192 and 193.

Marion Hoffman spanked a 200, and Ken Lippold notched a 563 to pace the Post-Crescent Couples circuit. John Forslund's and Earl Hoffman's 552s were the only other honor scores.

Bill Besch rolled a 581 to top the action in the Candy Bar League at the 41 Bowl. The Kit Kats are the team leaders after a sweep of three games in the first week of bowling.

Keith Gehring Slams 639 in Tavern League

Bud Jentz slammed a 245 game, and Keith Gehring had a 639 series to divide honors in the Tavern League at Hahn's Lanes.

Jentz finished with a 593 series and Gehring had a 238 game on his way to the high set. Flateau Bar (6-0) is in first place.

Other high scores included Milt Dreier, 242-613; Mike Court, 603; Eddie Flood, 595; Howard Bowers, 235-595; Des Schade, 598; John Plach, 581; Mickey McGuire, 586; Bud Jentz, 245-593; Bill Mathison, 574; Alan Laux, 555; F. Vandenberg, 228-578; Mike Kranzusch, 563 and Chuck McGinnis, 557.

Bob Helms smacked a 601 series to pace keglers in the Sportsman's League at Hahn's Lanes.

Burroughs Shoved Official

Eagles' Defensive Back Suspended for 1 Game

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A sorry Don Burroughs, the Philadelphia Eagles' defensive back, will not be present at Sunday's National Football League game here against the St. Louis Cardinals because of a disciplinary order from NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle.

In his place will be Mike McClellan, a second-year reserve defensive back. "It will be a big job for McClellan," Eagles' Coach Nick Skorich commented.

Rozelle not only barred Burroughs from the game as the result of the player's strenuous protests Sunday against a decision in the Eagles-Pittsburgh Steelers' 21-21 tie game. He told Burroughs to keep away from Franklin Field.

The suspension is without pay, Rozelle made it clear Monday.

Ran After Official

The action, the commissioner stated, is because Burroughs "ran after a game official (field judge Dan Tehan) who was going to his dressing quarters on the opposite side of the field from the Eagles' locker room. Burroughs grabbed or shoved the official. In the confusion a second official (referee Bill Downes) was struck across the face, apparently inadvertently, by Burroughs before the player ran to his dressing room."

Burroughs apologized to the two officials.

"I was wrong—I did not mean to go as far as I did in expressing my feelings at the officials' call," he said.

Earlier he had stated he was expecting a fine for the vehemence of his objections to the ruling by Tehan on a forward pass from the Steelers' Ed Brown to Preston Carpenter in the last minute of the game.

Carpenter was tackled by Jimmy Carr and dropped the ball, and Burroughs fell on it. Tehan called it a completed pass and said the fumble and recovery did not count as he had whistled the ball dead just before that happened.

"Now I feel I have let down my teammates and the club and the fans who pay to see us play and give our best to win," Burroughs added. "I'm sincerely sorry and I want to apologize publicly for the incident."

Kurtz Urges Wrestling For AHS

Appleton Superintendent of Schools Royce E. Kurtz has recommended that wrestling be included in the high school athletic program for 1964-5.

Kurtz asked the Board of Education Monday to consider providing $150 in the 1964 budget for this purpose.

Wrestling could be intramural and not necessarily interscholastic, Kurtz said. "It would fill a void for some youngsters."

The sport would start at the close of the football season and carry through most of the winter and spring, he said.

"I would like to see some consideration to broadening participation and less concentration on 'talent' sports," said board member Dr. Roy Whitney.

"There are certain areas in our athletic program that have a void, and I think this is one," agreed Kurtz.

Board member Charles Buchanan pointed out that there are weight classes in wrestling, which would make it possible for some to participate who could not compete in other sports because of size.

Niggeling, Former Hurler, Found Dead

LE MARS, Iowa (AP) — John Niggeling, 58, former major league baseball pitcher, was found dead Monday at his hotel room in Le Mars where he worked as a barber.

Sherman Lindell, Plymouth County medical examiner, listed the case as suicide and said death was caused by hanging.

Niggeling played in the majors with the Boston Braves, Pittsburgh, St. Louis Browns and Washington. His best year was with the Browns in 1942 when he won 15 and lost 11.

Hiller. Cepeda then broke the deadlock in the fifth with his 31st homer, a towering shot which just made the bleacher seats near the 360-foot mark.

Cloninger was lifted for a pinchhitter in the fifth and Bob Shaw and Bob Tiefenauer allowed only one hit the rest of the way. Cloninger absorbed the loss, his 10th against nine victories.

The Braves loaded the bases with one out in the sixth, but Marichal bore down and got Menke to ground into a force play at the plate and Roy McMillan to lift an inning-ending fly to right.

'We Got Two More With 'Em,' Says Keane After Defeat

BY MIKE RECHT

ST. LOUIS (AP)—"We've got two more with 'em," said St. Louis Manager Johnny Keane after the Cardinals 3-1 loss to National League leading Los Angeles Monday night. "I am not the least bit pessimistic. This pennant race is a long way from being over yet."

Smoking a cigar, Keane nevertheless was obviously subdued after the loss of the opening game of the vital three-game series with the Dodgers.

"Podres (Johnny Podres, the Dodger winner) was real fine," Keane said quietly. "He was tough, all right, but that string of 16-straight men be retired in to the sixth didn't bother me. I didn't care if he got the first 26 men, just so we got more runs—but we didn't."

Broglio Tired

Keane said he took St. Louis starter Ernie Broglio out in the eighth with the score tied 1-1, because Broglio was getting tired.

"I sent in Bobby Shantz because he's been doing the job for us as a fireman all year. He was just off tonight. But he'll have many, many more good ones yet," Keane said.

Shantz, who was tagged for the deciding runs by the Dodgers in the ninth, said:

"I pitched lousy ball. I couldn't hit a corner to save me. I know I can get the corners—I've done it many times. But I couldn't hit the side of a barn."

Broglio agreed with Keane's analysis that he was tired.

Elbow Weak

"I didn't have a complete rhythm in my pitching form from the sixth inning on," Broglio said. "My right elbow got weak and my left foot was hitting the ground an instant before the pitch left my hand, throwing my timing off and bothering my elbow. I had that same trouble about a month ago but I thought I was out of it. But I'll get back the way I should be."

Keane complained about what he said was the umpires' failure to call a play at short during the ninth when Cardinal shortstop Dick Groat normally a quiet player, bitterly protested that a Dodger baserunner had cause interference. The runner, Roy Gleason, the Cards claimed, hit Groat on what they felt would have been a doubleplay.

"We claimed interference," Keane said, "because we saw it. Contact was made with Groat by Gleason. I saw it. Groat felt it. Boyer (third baseman Ken Boyer) saw it. Where in the hell was the umpire?"

Packer Notes

New NFL Rule Forbids Coaches' Hand-Shakes

Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — When the exploded bullet sounded the end of the 99th Packer-Bear game in City Staidum Sunday, the opposing coaches went directly to their respective dressing rooms without shaking hands enroute.

Nope, George Halas and Vince Lombardi aren't feuding. They are quite friendly, in fact, but a new league rule says no hand shaking on the field after the game and they were merely complying.

And if you think that's a novelty, Jerry Kramer has an idea for a new kind of offense. "Let's us just kick on the first down all the time and let the defense do the scoring," Jerry said Monday, recollecting the offense's big problem in scoring against the Bears. "We were pulling for the defense to score for us near the end," J. K. said.

The Lions were en route home in their chartered plane while the Packers and Bears were playing their surprise Sunday. They saw a few minutes of the game during a brief stop at O'Hare Field in Chicago and then heard the "happy" news on the Chicago to Detroit leg.

The Packers will be publicized in a new type of publication shortly. A photographer and writer from Business Week magazine were present for Sunday's game.

Wilner Burke, veteran director of the accomplished Packer band, Sunday was presented with a plaque in recognition of his 25 years in that capacity by Packer President Dominic Olejniczak between halves. As he returned from the field microphone to his post, Burke was surprised to hear the band, with Norman Hinkely pinchhitting with the baton, strike up "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

Ron Gibbs, for 23 years a National Football League referee until his retirement at the end of the 1962 season, witnessed his first league game from a press box seat. Gibbs, now midwest observer of officials for the NFL, admitted "it's a nice place to watch the game from "but added, with a smile, "there's no way to get rid of the tension.. You just have to sit here and sweat it out."

Meythaler Wins Title

Jack Close, Bill Morrissey, and John Landis were other victims of Meythaler.

In addition to Meythaler's 76 and Brown's 79, Bob Barlament had a 77 in the week's play.

The Riverview Men's League will conclude action Wednesday with an Awards Night program, slated for 8 p.m.

Dick Spangenberg and Tom Hadley stroked 71s to pace the action at Ridgeway. Hadley and Herb Stinski also recorded 73s and Harley Loker had a 77.

Cardinal Fullback Shows Good Progress After Kidney Injury

DALLAS (AP) — Fullback Prentice Gautt's doctor is happy with recovery the St. Louis Cardinal player is showing from a kidney injury suffered Saturday in a National Football League game with the Dallas Cowboys.

The Dallas doctor said Monday Gautt was showing good progress and if this continues "we won't have to operate." The physician said, however, it would be up to the team doctor to announce whether Gautt will be able to play football again this season. Gautt is expected to remain in Baylor Hospital for at least two weeks.

The former University of Oklahoma star was injured during the second quarter of Saturday night's game which St. Louis won 34-7.

Burdette Antics Fail to Work

'Shoe Is on the Other Foot,' Says Drysdale in Reply to 'Choke' Charge

BY JOE REICHLER

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The Los Angeles Dodgers hoped today they they had finally shoved the defamatory "choke" charge down the throats of their most caustic critics.

"They've been accusing us of choking. Now we'll see what happens. The shoe is on the other foot."

These words were uttered by Don Drysdale, Los Angeles' right-handed ace, following the Dodgers' vital 3-1 triumph over St. Louis Monday night that widened their first place lead to two big games over the Cardinals.

"Leu Burdette (St. Louis veteran pitcher) was giving us the business all through the game," added the 6-foot-6 Drysdale. "He was clutching his throat while sitting in the dugout All that did was to make our guys more determined."

Burdette's obvious reference to choking up apparently did not affect southpaw Johnny Podres who hurled a masterful three-hitter through eight innings before tiring and giving way to Ron Perranoski The peerless bullpen specialist mopped up in the ninth. It was his 64th relief appearance and 18th save.

In the meantime, the Dodgers got to St. Louis starter Ernie Broglio and southpaw reliever Bobby Shantz for eight hits including three by Willie Davis and two by Maury Wills.

These mercury footed twins stole four bases and scored two of the three Dodger runs.

As a result, the pressure undoubtedly sits on the Cardinals who face the added hurdle tonight of beating Sandy Koufax, the best in the business.

Even if they do and follow it up with another victory in Wednesday night's finale, the Dodgers still will leave St. Louis in first place by percentage points.

Furthermore the league leaders will have the advantage of an easier schedule for they will play all nine games remaining at home, three against the last place New York Mets, three against eighth place Pittsburgh and three against fifth place Philadelphia.

Play Cincinnati

In the meantime the Cards will play Cincinnati in five games and the Chicago Cubs in two, four of these on the road.

Curt Simmons, the rejuvenated veteran, will oppose the 27-year-old Koufax, who owns a 23-5 record that includes three straight triumphs against the Cardinals Simmons, six years older than Koufax, currently is pitching the best ball of his career He has won 15 games, the last three by shutouts. The two southpaws met in Los Angeles recently and were locked in a 13-inning 1-1 duel before giving way to pinch hitters

"This was the 14th victory in our last 20 games," said Drysdale. "So how can anyone say we're choking up. We've played great ball, but they were phenomenal. Even phenoms can lose, too."

Favor Xavier To Retain FVCC Crown

fullback Paul Putzer, guard Jim Pegel and end Jerry Selhan.

The Hawks have been impressive in pre-conference games, trimming Rhinelander, 31-6 and Pacelli of Stevens Point, 40-0.

PREMONTRE: A major threat to another title for Xavier is expected to be Premontre.

Veteran mentor Ted Fritsch has a list of 17 lettermen back giving him good depth and material at all positions. Dan Ferry is one of the top threats in the backfield and quarterback Jim Breucker is an experienced signal caller.

Premontre opened its season last week with a 13-6 victory over Green Bay West, always one of the toughest teams in the Fox River Valley Conference.

LOURDES: Coach Larry Van Alstine's Knights had a 3-3-1 record in conference play last season and 12 lettermen are back for the 1963 campaign.

Chuck Grable, Tom Nesbitt, Tim Purtell and Tom Baun are some fox of the top players for the Knights who have split even in a pair of non-conference games to date. Lourdes edged Ripon, 12-6, and dropped a 36-0 contest to Marshfield Columbus.

SPRINGS: Carrying a dark-horse role in conference play this fall will be St. Mary Springs.

Coach Dave Bartolutti has eight lettermen back and the Ledgers looked impressive in a 28-13 victory over St. John's Military Academy of Delafield, a team not taken lightly by other coaches.

Ned Dana at a halfback and Joe Wendels at quarterback form a solid foundation for the Ledger backfield. Both are seniors and have two years of experience behind them.

MARINETTE: Coach Marty Crowe, who will seldom come out with an optimistic note about his squad, has 16 lettermen back of which 13 are seniors.

In non-conference play, the Cavaliers dropped a pair of close games. Oconto Falls beat Marinette by a 19-13 score and Peshtigo took a 20-14 decision.

PENNINGS: The Squires look to be an improved team in the conference this year after a 3-4 mark last season.

Coach Don LaViolette has 15 lettermen to build his squad around and the team opened the season with a 21-12 win over Southern Door. In another non-league test, the Squires dropped a 20-7 contest to Green Bay East.

Steve Madson and Tom Collins, who both saw duty at quarterback have returned as well as fullback Brad Nuss and halfback Dan Franken.

ST. MARY: Along with Springs, the Zephyrs of Menasha also must be classed as a darkhorse in this season's title scramble.

St. Marys' had a 3-3-1 record last season and Coach Jack Wippich has 11 lettermen back. Heading the list is all - conference tackle John Roedel and a 235 pounder in Larry Rasch Bill Martin is back to call signals and Chuck Hoernke, Tom Mortell and Mike Rausch will be carrying the ball.

Wisconsin Rapids Assumption blanked the Zephyrs 14-0 in the season opener for both schools last week.

ST. JOHN: Coach Bill Fitzpatrick, still simmering from his first winless season in 1962, has nine lettermen back to lead a small, young squad. The Dutchmen have only eight seniors on the team

Tom Huiting and Mike Weyenberg give the Chuters two experienced quarterbacks and Bruce Hammen is the top running threat. Jay Van Thuel and Dave Van Vreede also give the Dutchmen experience in the ends.

In a non-loop tilt Kimberly, one of the top rated teams in the Mid-Eastern Conference, nipped the Chuters, 13-6, with two first half touchdowns.

Malaysia Severs Ties With 2 Nations

Move Taken Because Indonesia, Philippines Broke Diplomatic Relations With New Country

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP)—Malaysia today broke diplomatic relations with Indonesia and the Philippines, the government announced.

Shortly before the announcement, screaming, rock-throwing Malay demonstrators stormed the Indonesian Embassy compound, setting fire to one building and smashing windows and furniture.

The riot was retaliation for a similar mob action Monday against the Malaysian Embassy in Jakarta and the Malayan Consulate in Medan, North Sumatra. Indonesia bitterly opposes the new Malaysian Federation of Malaya, Singapore, Sarawak and North Borneo.

More than 1,000 persons took part in the demonstration at Kuala Lumpur. About 200 surged into the embassy grounds.

Riot police, armed with clubs, rifles and tear gas, made little attempt to break up the melee with force. Many grinned broadly as they tried to shoo the demonstrators away.

No Reason

The announcement said Thailand has been asked to handle Malaysia's affairs in Indonesia and the Philippines.

Rahman said in a statement his government took the action because Indonesia "has broken off diplomatic relations with Malaysia without any apparent reason. We have no choice but to do likewise and to recall our ambassador and the embassy staff and at the same time to close down our consulate in Medan."

He said the Philippines had asked that the status of the Philippine embassy in Kuala Lumpur be reduced to that of a consulate. The Prime Minister said this was unacceptable and therefore there was no choice for Malaysia but to recall its ambassador.

Board Seeking New Site for Wisconsin Fair

Group Learns That Profit for 1963 Above Estimates

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The State Exposition Board toured sites in Racine and Milwaukee counties looking for a suitable location for a new Wisconsin state fair grounds Monday after hearing that the 1963 fair showed a net profit of at least $185,000.

Willard R. Masterson, fair director, said in a preliminary report the anticipated profit was about $28,000 more than estimated at the close of the 10-day exposition, which drew a record attendance.

He said gross income was $1,090,154, and that expenses so far have totaled $831,705, with another $50,000 in bills outstanding.

Present Location

Board members toured sites south of the present fair location in West Allis. An outside firm has proposed in a survey moving the fair to a location either south of Milwaukee or to the Pewaukee-Waukesha area.

Masterson said Pewaukee officials have expressed opposition to location of the fair in that area. He said they feared the area would be overrun with "black-jacketed hoodlums and honky-tonk midways."

One of the sites visited was an 800-acre plot in the town of Raymond, Racine County. Another was in Milwaukee County and the third in parts of both of the southeastern Wisconsin counties.

U.N. Ceremony Will Be Seen Around World

Beloit Voters To Decide on Housing Ban

Negroes Wanted Council to Pass Law Immediately

BELOIT (AP)—A spokesman for the city's Negroes said Monday night there would be "much activity" as a result of the City Council's decision to place an "open occupancy" ordinance banning discrimination in housing on a referendum ballot.

The council members scheduled the balloting for April, 1964.

The Rev. Oliver Gibson, of the Beloit Christian Leadership Conference, said he was "disappointed and hurt" by the council action. He did not say what form the "much activity" would take.

Gibson spoke after 200 persons had attended what was called "a talkathon" after the City Council had reached its decision. Portions of the "talkathon" were closed to the press.

Many Comments

Gibson told newsmen later it included comments by a number of persons in a review of the council action.

In a demonstration organized by the Leadership Conference, about 150 persons marched to the City Hall prior to the council meeting. The sign-carrying marchers included members of other equality groups.

About 300 persons attended the council meeting, standing in the council chamber and filling adjoining halls and rooms.

10 in Favor

Ten persons, including ministers, teachers and spokesmen for civil rights groups, spoke in favor of the ordinance, which backers had wanted the council to decide by direct action.

There was no opposition voiced. However, a petition calling for the proposal to go to a referendum was filed in the afternoon with the city clerk. The petition was signeed by 3,354 Beloit residents.

Among those appearing before the council were representatives of the Beloit Catholic-Protestant Dialogue, which also was represented at the later meeting. Dialogue spokesmen said the group would do everything possible to support the referendum.

Olson Expected To Tell Plans At Conference

MADISON (AP)—At a 10 a.m. news conference Wednesday in a downtown Madison motel, Lt. Gov. Jack Olson will divulge a poorly kept political secret—that he will run for the Republican nomination for governor.

Biographical material on the 43-year-old Wisconsin Dells native was circulated to newsmen by his office today, along with invitations to attend the conference.

Olson is expected to get competition for the nomination either from Warren Knowles of New Richmond, the former lieutenant governor, or Wilbur Renk of Sun Prairie, who made an unsuccessful bid for the nomination last year.

Italian Woman Falls Into Grave and Dies

TERNI, Italy (AP) — Calliope Lucidi, 85, went to the cemetery Monday to place flowers on a grave. As she neared the tombstone she stumbled, fell into a freshly dug grave and died.

Identify Body of Man Found in Car Near Billings

BILLINGS, Mont. (AP) — The body of a man found in a car with the remains of a Billings area teacher was identified Monday as that of a convicted bigamist, Yellowstone County authorities said.

Tattoos led to identification of Carl John Curtis, 54, lately of Racine, Wis., but a Billings area resident in recent years.

Officials still had not announced the cause of death of Curtis and Dessa A. Cosgrove, 50, a teacher at Shepherd.

The bodies were found in Miss Cosgrove's car Monday afternoon in an isolated area northwest of Hardin, within a 30-mile drive of where the woman was last seen April 16.

The woman's body was in the front seat and Curtis had been in the rear seat, officers said. One door was open and a gun was found in the car, they said.

Yellowstone County officers said Curtis was convicted of bigamy in Colorado in 1948 and was sentenced to one to two years in prison. They said his widow, Clara, lives in Miles City.

Bill to Allow Changing of Sanitary Districts Vetoed

MADISON (AP)—A bill which would have allowed town boards to establish utility districts to take over functions of existing sanitary districts was vetoed Monday by Gov. John W. Reynolds.

Also vetoed was a bill that would have allowed non-residents to obtain a state bait dealer's license.

Reynolds said the proposed change for sanitary districts would have taken them from under the control of the Public Service Commission. He said he would sign the bill if the fall session of the Legislature makes the agencies subject to PSC authority.

The governor said he vetoed the bait dealers bill because bordering states do not permit Wisconsin dealers to do business in those states.

Also vetoed was a bill that would have repealed a law under which non-residents can take state Civil Service examinations when the personnel director certifies a critical need exists in areas that cannot be filled by Wisconsin residents.

The governor also rejected a bill that would have required voters in a primary election to hand their marked party ballots to an election inspector and deposit the unmarked ballot in a blank ballot box. He said the proposal would be an invasion of the right to a secret ballot.

Enthusiasm Greets Him Everywhere

Vice President Wins Thousands Of Friends Among Scandinavians

BY RONALD THOMSON

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (AP) —The bluff hearty personality of Lyndon B. Johnson has made thousands of new friends for the United States in Scandinavia.

An AP News Analysis

With an easy charm, the Vice President barnstormed through Sweden, Finland, Norway and Denmark and was greeted by extraordinary popular enthusiasm.

Thousands turned out to receive one of the Johnson handshakes and perhaps to grab a ballpoint pen, a pencil or a signed card admitting them to the Vice President's gallery in the U.S. Senate.

"No previous visitor has met with such an enthusiastic response from the general public as has this one," said the Finnish newspaper Ilta-Salomat.

Nikita Visited Nation

Within the last two years the Finns have been visited by Premier Nikita Khrushchev and President Leonid Brezyhnev of the Soviet Union, but there never was a reception on the same scale.

In talks with President Urho Kekkonen, Johnson stressed that the United States fully respected Finland's neutrality but pointed out that it was dependent to a great extent on the determination of the West to resist aggression.

This argument, plus the great outpouring of pro-American sentiment by the crowds who cheered the Vice President everywhere he went, seemed to impress the Finnish statesman.

At the suggestion of the foreign office in Helsinki, the final communique omitted any mention of Finnish neutrality—a point the Americans had expected Finland to insist on stressing.

"Without exaggerating" said Helsinki Salomat, Finland's largest newspaper, "one can surely say that the ultimate impact of the visit of the Vice President promises the development of heartfelt and sympathetic relations between the Finnish and American people."

The tour—first ever made by a U.S. President or Vice President to Scandinavia while in office—produced moments of warmth, moments of excitement and, inevitably, moments of misunderstanding.

Johnson seemed to offend some people when he made a speech after laying a wreath at the war memorial in Rovaniemi, administrative capital of Lapland.

By tradition, no distinguished visitor is supposed to make a speech there, but merely to lay his wreath in silence. The newspaper Hufvudstadsbladet, in the only printed reference made in Helsinki to the incident, called the Vice President "well meaning but tactless."

Johnson Upset

Aides said Johnson was upset over the misunderstanding. Throughout the next day of his program he appeared subdued and depressed.

Finland and Sweden are unaligned in the cold war while Norway and Denmark are members of the North Atlantic Treaty Alliance.

In all four countries, however, the Vice President emphasized that a relaxation of East-West tensions can come only if the Western world maintains a firm and resolute defense.

By all accounts he got a warm response to his professions of America's desire for more liberal trade and for U.S.-Scandinavian collaboration in exploring outer space.

Kennedy Congratulates Algerian President

ALGIERS (AP) — Ahmed Ben Bella has received a message from President Kennedy congratulating him on his election as president of Algiers Sunday.

The message, released today, said: "I wish you, as well as your government, all possible success in the service of your people during this decisive period in Algerian history."

Milwaukee Scene Of CORE Sit-in

Seek Mayor's Support in Ousting Member of Social Commission

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) staged a sit-in Monday at the office of Mayor Henry Maier in an effort to enlist his support for the removal of a member of the Social Development Commission.

CORE has been campaigning against the presence of Fred E. Lins on the commission, claiming he had made "bigoted" statements in an interview.

Maier scheduled a meeting with CORE representatives today.

County Board Chairman Eugene Grobschmidt, who has rejected demands that Lins be ousted, was questioned about the dispute at a meeting of the 12th Ward Republican Club.

A member asked Grobschmidt if he didn't think CORE "would have picked on anything" for an issue. The chairman replied:

Personal Feeling

"That's my personal feeling but I have nothing to prove it. Khrushchev (Russian premier) said the next war with Russia will be won without Russia firing a shot. I'm wondering if these aren't the silent shots."

A move to take up a resolution aimed at obtaining the resignation of Lins was defeated at a religion and race conference. A show of hands vote indicated few of the 200 persons attending the meeting favored taking any action.

However, the Rev. Richard Miller, president of the Milwaukee Council of Churches, said he would present the question at the next meeting of the conference steering committee.

Press Search For Missing Michigan Boys

ESCANABA, Mich. (AP) — Several hundred persons, including high school students and factory workers, joined police Monday in a stepped-up search for two missing boys.

Escanaba police, aided by state troopers and sheriff's deputies, were directing the hunt for John Jensen, 10-year-old son of policeman Raymond Jensen, and Charles Kobasic, 7.

The boys were reported missing about 10 p.m. Sunday. Police said the two were last seen about 11:30 a.m. Sunday near a yacht basin dock.

As three planes and a helicopter swooped low over a wooded area, skin divers searched Escanaba's Lake Michigan waterfront.

Auction to End Activity at Livestock Show

635 Animals With Total Weight of 100 Tons to be Sold

Post-Crescent News Service

DE PERE — Steers, barrows and lambs agreggating to something like 100 tons in weight will pass under the auctioner's gavel at the Brown County Fairgrounds Wednesday.

The auction will be the climax of the 19th annual Northeastern Wisconsin Junior Livestock expositon which opened Monday. Three hundred boys and girls from 15 counties will sell a total of 635 animals they have raised as 4-H club and Future Farmers projects.

Three professional judges viewed the entries today, placing animals in classes and awarding grand and reserve championships. Trophies will be awarded during the exhibitors banquet tonight.

Wednesday's auction starts at 9 a.m. and is expected to run into late afternoon. The sale will include 635 head on the hoof and dressed.

It might well have been 634, except for a half-dozen volunteer "cowboys" who set out after a steer that bolted as he was being unloaded from a truck Monday afternoon. He was captured almost a mile from the fairgrounds.

The sale order will be interrupted at noon for the auction of the grand and reserve champions. This phase of the sale will be broadcast over radio WJPG.

The Opportunity May Be Yours to Benefit From the "Magic" of the Marital Tax Deduction
Are you sure your family won't end up paying more estate tax than necessary?
The federal estate tax is progressive, so the bigger your estate, the bigger the possible reduction of what goes to your beneficiaries.
If you are married, however, you can cut back the size of your estate now so that it won't be taxed in the highest applicable bracket. And, through the judicious use of life insurance, the savings possible are so startling that the marital deduction seems to be "magic" once the opportunity is explained to you.
Highly - trained, business-oriented New England Life agents (we call them "men of opportunity") are ready to sit down and, without obligation, work out the details with your attorney and trust officers. Because your man of opportunity is particularly well-qualified to show you all the latest opportunities in life insurance (over and above your normal insurance "obligations") his advice could well mean the difference between a working, cost saving program and an expensive failure.
Many of the uses of insurance that the man of opportunity can relate to your circumstances are covered in our PORTFOLIO OF OPPORTUNITY. It's a collection of timely, penetrating reports, including "the 'Magic' of the Marital Deduction."

Bomb Deaths Spur March by Negroes

BY HOYT HARWELL

BIRMINGHAM Ala (AP)—Birmingham Negroes incensed over the bombing deaths of four of their children plan to march on Montgomery to lay directly before Gov George C Wallace their feeling that he is to blame for the slayings

At their first gathering since the Sunday morning dynamite blast, an estimated 1 200 Negroes took a unanimous standing vote Monday night to endorse a march on the state house

Wallace Blamed

The vote came after three integration leaders called for nonviolence and accused Wallace of causing the racial tension that led to the dynamiting of the Sixteenth Street Baptist church No date for the march was set

An afternoon funeral service for Carol Robertson 14 one of the four girls killed by the blast was scheduled at St John s African Methodist Episcopal church

The Rev Fred Shuttlesworth told the rally that mass services for the other three victims will be held Wednesday afternoon at the Sixth Avenue South Baptist church—where the rally was held The three were Denise McNair 11, and Addie Mae Collins and Cynthia Wesley both 14

Demand U S Action

Negro leaders here and around the nation called for use of more federal power in Birmingham, but a government source in Washington said there was no legal basis to put additional troops in the city now There are 300 federalized National Guardsmen on alert here

Sheriff Melvin Bailey said two white teen agers were arrested on an open charge in the slaying of one of two Negro boys shot to death a few hours after the dynamite blast

City police said the other youth was killed when they fired buckshot at fleeing Negroes after a rock throwing incident

Governor Silent

"Words and actions' of Wallace and the segregation system caused the Sunday deaths Dr Martin Luther King Jr said at the rally

He said Wallace 'had allowed himself to defy the law of the land and to deal with Negro citizens in Alabama as if they didn t live in the state'

The governor declined comment on the proposed march on the state capitol and on King s accusation He had said earlier he deplored the bombing and hoped the perpetrators would be caught

They have not been caught

Kennedy Says Aid Cuts May Hurt Exports

Seeks Backing of Industry for Full Amount Requested

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy told American businessmen today that "disastrous" cuts by the House in foreign aid funds would damage the country's export trade as well as its security

In a speech prepared for 400 executives at the White House Conference on Export Expansion, Kennedy made a bid for industry support in the administration's push for restoration of the aid money in the Senate

'I hope you will join me in seeking to reverse these disastrous cuts' he said

Cut by $1 Billion

12,000 Flee From Winds, Heavy Tides

PORT ARTHUR, Tex (AP) — Hurricane Cindy slammed over land with her full force at 8 a m. today after hurling high winds and tides at the Texas and Louisiana coasts all night

The hurricane s 80-mile-an-hour punch moved in between Galveston and Port Arthur

About 12 010 persons fled ahead of the winds and abnormal tides, most of them leaving Louisiana's Cameron Parish where more than 500 died in hurricane Audrey in 1957

Flee Low Ground

Texas coastal residents generally remained calm Only those living on very low ground fled their homes

Tides at Port Arthur were expected to go no higher than 5 feet above normal after earlier forecasts of 8 feet Even at 5 feet, some ground is subject to flooding in this low area

Galveston's tides reached 5 to 8 feet above normal But the major portion of the flooding came from heavy rain rather than tides

The Red Cross counted 1,078 persons it had placed in 13 shelters in Galveston County

Sudden Storms

The storm sprang up suddenly in the Gulf of Mexico Monday and did not reach the power of a hurricane until late afternoon

During the night, Cindy turned slightly to the west after first aiming at Sabine Pass which separates Louisiana and Texas

At Port Arthur, about 530 persons sought refuge in Edison Junior High School

The 10 000 residents of the parish moved inland most to Lake Charles and Sulphur

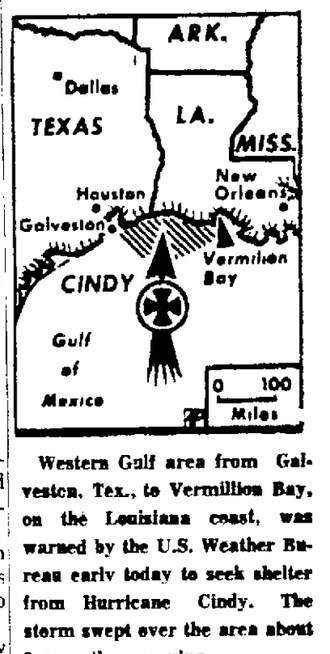
At least three persons were missing on boats off the parish.

Twenty six men trapped by the sudden forming of the storm, rode out the winds and battering waves on two offshore oil well drilling rigs Crewmen on one rig reported 30-foot waves and 55 mile-per-hour winds

Lake Charles Mayor Alfred E Roberts declared his city in a state of emergency and said it was prepared to feed up to 10,000 refugees

Salvation Army and other relief agencies moved in

Port Arthur's 70,000 population boarded up taped windows and sandbagged to reduce damage



Western Gulf area from Galveston, Tex., to Vermillion Bay, on the Louisiana coast, was warned by the U.S. Weather Bureau early today to seek shelter from Hurricane Cindy. The storm swept over the area about 8 a.m. this morning.

Gains Seen In Canadian Wheat Deal

WASHINGTON (AP)—U S officials see some grains of sunshine in Canada's sale of $500 million worth of wheat to the Soviet Union

They believe the deal—the biggest commercial wheat transaction in history—will brighten prospects for larger U S wheat sales abroad and dramatize Communist farm failures

Under the agreement announced in Ottawa Monday, Canada will sell Russia 228 million bushels of wheat over the next 10½ months

Part of the deal involves shipment of $33 million of the wheat directly to Cuba

Sen Kenneth Keating, R-N Y termed this a shocking breach" of Western Hemisphere efforts to isolate the Castro regime and called for a strong U S protest

Kennedy administration sources indicated, however that Washington would not lodge a complaint They said Canada had informed the United States of the agreement shortly before it was signed

The United States raised questions about the Cuba shipments but Canada said Russia had made them a necessary condition to the trasaction

U S diplomats were not protesting because Washington's own embargo does not forbid selling food or medicines to Cuba

Traditionally Russia has been an exporter of wheat and Premier Khrushchev even boasted that the Soviet Union s agriculture would overtake that of the United States by 1963

U.N. Assembly Eyes Problem in Africa

White Rule Controversy Could Bring New Racial Outbreaks

UNITED NATIONS, N Y. (AP) —The thaw in Soviet Western relations heartened delegates of 111 member states convening to open the 18th General Assembly today but trouble brewed over white rule in Africa

Diplomats were expected to press demands during the 3-month session to follow up the limited nuclear test ban treaty with further steps in easing East West tensions

Many kept an ear cocked for rumblings over racial strife in Africa

Colonial Policies Hit

The 32 African delegations have made plain they will concentrate their fire on the racial and colonial policies of South Africa and Portugal with demands for an economic boycott and renewed attempts to oust both nations from the world forum

Britain also will be the target for Asian African charges that it is supporting a white government in Rhodesia at the expense of the mainly black population

The South Viet Nam government s struggle with the nation s Buddhists also is expected to touch off fireworks

The United States said it will support a demand by 14 Asian African nations for General Assembly debate on their charges that President Ngo Dinh Diem has suppressed Buddhist rights in South Viet Nam

Kennedy to Speak

Normally the question would be aired first in the social committee which deals with human rights but the Asian Africans want a direct full-dress assembly debate

Main attraction of the opening week will be the appearance of President Kennedy who is scheduled to deliver the U S policy speech Friday

It will be Kennedy s first appearance before the assembly since 1961 A diplomatic luncheon has been arranged for him and Canadian Prime Minister Lester B Pearson by Secretary General U Thant Kennedy is not expected to confer privately with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A Gromyko or any other diplomats during his brief stay in New York

Gromyko, head of the Soviet U N. delegation is expected to give his government s policy statement Thursday

Paralleling the session will be talks opening next week between Gromyko and Secretary of State Dean Rusk and British Foreign Secretary Lord Home

Gromyko has dmeanded that the world work toward a German peace treaty guaranteeing independence for West Berlin He has also called for withdrawal of foreign troops from South Viet Nam and South Korea The assembly faces a provisional agenda of 81 items with word that the Africans will add two more calling for equal distribution of seats on the Security Council and enlargement of the General Committee

Test Ban Pact Gains Support

North Carolina Senator Decides To Vote for Treaty

WASHINGTON (AP) — The limited nuclear test ban treaty picked up another promised vote today—that of Sen Sam Ervin D-N C

Ervin, who had been uncommitted told the senate he had come to his decision in belief that rejection of the treaty 'would irretrievably damage if not absolutely destroy, any opportunity for the United States to furnish leadership to the free world during the foreseeable future

Ervin s announcement raised to 78 the number of senators committed to or inclined to vote for ratification There is announced opposition by 13 senators and 9 remain doubtful or undecided

Ratification requires a two-thirds majority of those voting or 67 if all 100 senators vote

As to prospects for the vote Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana told newsmen he is hopeful it can be reached this week

Treaty drew strong support today from Sen Stuart Symington and strong opposition from Sen Strom Thurmond

'Unless there can be some understanding among the growing number of nations that will have the weapon a nuclear holocaust is only a question of time declared Symington a Missouri Democrat

Symington a former secretary of the Air Force said in a prepared Senate speech the treaty banning all but underground testing will not affect to any appreciable extent our capability to destroy the Soviet Union if a retaliatory strike is required'

On the other side of the debate —which shows indications of continuing into next week—Thurmond a South Carolina Democrat charged the treaty constitutes "major risks and jeopardies to the capability of the United States to deter a nuclear war in the future"

Vinson Hits McNamara for Action on Integration Issue

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep Carl Vinson powerful chairman of the House Armed Services Committee accused Secretary of Defense Robert S McNamara today of seeking to make servicemen into political agents in the fight against racial discrimination

Vinson a Georgia Democrat announced he has introduced legislation that would make it a court martial offense for military men to use the powers McNamara gave them July 26 in a move to combat any discrimination against servicemen

"My bill does not deal with segregation or integration," Vinson said "My bill keeps the military where it belongs—in the business of defending the nation."

In advance of his statement it was learned today that the Air Force had barred participation by its men and equipment in any public event where racial discrimination is practiced

McNamara on July 26 authorized base commanders — with prior approval of their service secretaries—to declare off limits areas where 'relentless discrimination persists against Negro servicemen and their families"

In addition he told the services to issue instructions and regulations "in connection with the leadership responsibility for equal opportunity on and off base"

He also ordered each service to set up a system to monitor progress toward equal opportunity on and off base.

Uniform Benefits Asked for Veterans

John Moses Says People Tend to Forget Obligations With Time

WAUPACA — Uniformity in providing benefits to veterans on the county level was stressed by John Moses, director of the Wisconsin Department of Veterans Affairs, Sunday when he was speaker at the annual meeting of the Wisconsin State Association of County Veterans' Service Commissions at the Grand Army Home for Veterans, King.

People tend to forget their obligations to veterans as years elapse after an active military conflict, Moses said, and there is a tremendous variation among counties in Wisconsin in providing for veterans by county commissions.

He said the most extensive program in the state is providing about $650 per veteran while one county provides nothing, another 1.5 cents per veteran and another 2.5 cents per veteran.

John Drayna, commandant at the home, in extending the welcome to commission members, spoke on the complexity of care required and provided for veterans and women at the G.A.H. He said the number of veterans continues to increase and more are needing nursing care and more complex treatment than in the past.

Skilled Care

He maintained the home provides a highly skilled source of medical, nursing care, theraputic and spiritual care for the members. He said it is up to the commissions to pass this message to the people in their various counties.

G. H. Stordock, Waupaca, reported on state veterans legislation.

New officers of the association are Robert Elkins, Thorp, president; Joseph Handlos, Land O'-Lakes, vice president; George Stangel, Two Rivers, treasurer, and P. C. Ludovic, Neillsville, secretary.

The commission organization named a study group to explore the possibilities of establishing a uniform county program for the veterans.

Moses spoke at the annual conference of Minnesota County Veterans' Service Officers Association Monday at Minneapolis

He and Drayna will be taking part in the Wisconsin CVSOA annual meeting Wednesday and Thursday in Eagle River.

500 Center Students Begin Classes in New Facilities

Fox Valley Addition Gives School a Capacity of 750

The new addition increases the center's capacity from 400 to 750 students, and makes possible the offering of new courses and more cultural activities.

About 500 freshmen and sophomores were expected to start classes today. The center was operating above capacity last year with an enrollment of about 475 students.

The new addition and related remodeling in the original building have increased the number of classrooms from five to 12, the number of faculty offices from 16 to 30, and added three laboratories, an engineering drawing room, a multi-purpose room with a stage, new lockers and a new lounge.

The multi-purpose room will seat 490 persons. It has a permanent stage, which will be fully equipped by October, with a set construction area and dressing rooms. The room will be used as a lecture hall and for fine arts and dramatics programs. It is equipped with movable chairs so that it can be cleared and used for social functions

Ten new classrooms were added in the new wing One seats 90 persons ,and can be subdivided for smaller groups. Another seats 35 persons. and the others seat 50 persons.

New Laboratories

The addition also includes a geography laboratory, an art room, an engineering drawing laboratory, a new locker area, and 12 faculty offices for two persons each in a small wing to the north.

Extensive remodeling was undertaken in the original building this summer. Two classrooms were converted to a quantitative and organic chemistry laboratory and a third classroom was made into a balance room for chemistry and an office. This change was part of the original planning, and the pipes and cables for water, electricity and gas were stubbed into the two classrooms which now are joined as the laboratory when they were built.

Cafeteria Changed

A former locker area has been converted into a student lounge, and the combined cafeteria and lounge now will be used only as a cafeteria. The geography-engineering drawing room in the old wing has been converted into a second biology laboratory.

The new addition is to the north of the original building. The multi-purpose room is at the front of the building, and the classroom wing extends back parallel to the original wing. In the court formed by the two classroom wings, a small combination greenhouse and animal house for zoology and botany classes has been built.

Begins 4th Year

As the center starts its fourth year at its location on Midway Road, it is able to offer the first two years of all university majors, with the exception of a few of the more exotic subjects. With its new facilities, the center can give the complete freshman and sophomore years of the programs in engineering, medicine and chemistry for the first time.

New courses being offered this fall include quantitative and organic chemistry, creative design, French composition and conversation, fundamentals of music, music appreciation and history, music instrumentation, Econimcs 1, a political science course in state government and a speech course in oral interpretation.

Waupaca Seeking Water Rate Hike From State PSC

WAUPACA — Four city officials will leave Thursday to represent Waupaca in a public hearing before the Wisconsin Public Service Commission in Madison to substantiate the city's application for increased water rates.

Attending the public hearing at 2:30 p.m. Thursday will be Mrs. Dell Ward, city clerk-treasurer; Nels Rasmussen, superintendent of the street and water departments; Hiram Krebs, city engineer, and Ald. Vernon Johnson, chairman of the board of public works.

Mrs. Ward said the city's last water rate increase went into effect in 1954. The state representative in charge of rates has indicated a 40 to 45 per cent increase in existing rates may be necessary to provide the city with an equitable return on its investment

Regardless of whether the rate increase is improved or denied, the city water department will start billing quarterly instead of twice a year as was done in the past, Mrs. Ward said.

To Attend Conference

CHILTON — F. J. Flanagan, Calumet County superintendent of schools, will attend the annual fall conference of school administrators and supervisors at Madison this week. The conference opens Wednesday and will conclude Saturday.

County Police Interrupt Discussion on Services

A "discussion" over the merits of the Marine Corps as opposed to those of the Army indirectly led to the arrest of four persons early Sunday morning at a Nichols dance hall.

Outagamie County police and sheriff authorities went to the dance hall after a fight between a Marine and a former soldier broke out during a wedding party. The fight was over which service was the best

County Patrolman Robert Keating, who was first to arrive at the scene after Dance Hall Deputy David Halliday called for reinforcements, reported his license plate was stolen from his patrol car and wiring was removed from his red light fixture on the top of his car.

While Keating attempted to control the crowd at the fight, several onlookers climbed on top of his squad car to get a better view. He said several scratches were found on his car.

When more police arrived, Dennis L. Scheelk 20, Nichols, who represented the Marine Corps in the fracas, drove away and was later arrested by LeRoy Ziegler of the county patrol

Sheriff Calvin Spice said that Roy Dingeldien 22 Forest Junction, a former soldier, and Dennis Teschke, 23, 3304 N. Oneida St., Appleton, and Scheelk are being held in the county jail. A 16-year-old Madison youth has been released

Laird Declares Opposition To Administration Tax Bill

Calls for Reduced Spending In Speech at Clintonville

CLINTONVILLE — Rep. Melvin R. Laird (R-Wis.) Monday night declared he will oppose the administration's tax bill which is expected to come to a vote on the floor of the House of Representatives later this month.

He spoke to 100 persons who attended a dinner meeting at Christ Congregational Church. Laird charged "a tax cut coming at a time of planned deficits, higher spending, and improper fiscal measures cannot be supported by reasonable men committed to sound economics and fiscal sanity."

Economy Drive

Laird pointed to the highly successful economy drive spearheaded by the Republicans this year and stated "this congress, by the time it adjourns, will have succeeded in reducing President John F. Kennedy's original spending budget for fiscal 1964 by a little over $4 billion. "Even so," he said, "Secretary of the Treasury Dillon told the House Ways and Means Committee Aug. 14 expenditures for fiscal 1964 would be $98 billion. This still represents an increase of $5.4 billion over the spending level of fiscal 1963."

The Wisconsin legislator said this in itself was enough to call into serious question the advisability of a tax cut for 1964. "A tax cut becomes even more unsound," he said, "when one remembers Secretary Dillon also told congress spending requests for fiscal 1965 would be approximately $102 billion, or some $4 billion higher than this year's level."

"This Kennedy commitment to shatter all expenditure records year after year represents only one of the many stumbling blocks to a sound and effective tax program this year," Laird stated.

Lists Reasons

Laird listed the following reasons for his opposition to the tax bill presently before the House of Representatives

It appears the administration will continue to "plan" large deficits of the magnitude of $10 or $12 billion for as long as we can see into the future, Laird stated. A balanced budget could not be attained until the early 1970's, if then. By that time, Laird charged, we will have added at least another $75 billion to our national debt.

The tax bill as reported by the Ways and Means Committee will not achieve any one of the three major objectives that President Kennedy described earlier this year as requisite for a sound tax program, Laird continued. The three objectives are:

1) Simplification of the tax laws (the current tax bill adds some 300 pages of new complexities to the statute books);

2) Reduction of inequities in tax laws (the current bill has the opposite effect. One new inequity, for example, is that taxes will be increased for those who itemize deductions and lowered for those who do not);

3) Creation of new jobs (the current bill emphasizes increases in consumer spending. To create new jobs, the emphasis should be placed on increasing investments in new and expanding enterprises).

Grave Threat

A tax cut under present circumstances would have to be financed either through the borrowing or creation of money. "This," Laird said, "would constitute even graver threats than now exist to the value of the dollar both at home and abroad."

Laird reiterated this strong belief in the need for a substantial tax cut and for meaningful reforms in the tax structure. "However," he said, "if tax reductions and reforms are to have a meaningful effect on the economy, they must be tied to an overall reduction in federal spending. They must also be drafted in such a way that the three major objectives of a sound tax program—simplification, removing inequities, and creation of jobs—will be enhanced rather than retarded by the implementation of the new tax law."

Accounting Error In Hospital's Favor

Discovery Eliminates Need to Transfer Outagamie Funds

A $123,000 "mistake" in accounting in favor of the Outagamie County Hospital has eliminated the need for a transfer of monies from the county's contingency fund to the hospital operating fund.

The "mistake" was found last week shortly after county board supervisors approved transfer of $65,000 from the contingent fund to meet the payroll and operating costs for one month.

The error was blamed on an accounting practice at the county courthouse in which about $16,000 to $18,000 monthly has been listed under the wrong heading for the past seven months.

Wrong Heading

According to Hospital Supt. John Engel, who met with the county's executive committee today, the county courthouse accounting department has been placing the figure under a revenue heading and it should have been under a pro-rated expenses heading The money was received monthly by the hospital and was for pro-rated costs incurred by the hospital's Golden Age Home.

County Board Chairman Alvin Fulcer said today the executive committee Tuesday asked for the transfer of funds after examining the courthouse records and finding that the hospital would not have funds unless the transfer was made.

Engel said accounts kept in the county hospital offices showed the correct figure and he was surprised to learn that funds had to be transferred He said, to the best of his knowledge, the hospital is being operated under budget for this year.

Lack of Communications

Engel blamed the misunderstanding on a lack of communications by the county committee which went ahead and asked for the transfer without asking approval of the hospital head or trustees.

A meeting had been set up with the county hospital trustees and the executive committee for Wednesday, the day following the board action, and, according to Engel, the action could have been brought up then and the problem resolved.

The resolution seeking the fund transfer was drafted Tuesday during lunch hour and was presented to supervisors Tuesday afternoon. Fulcer said the action was taken quickly to avoid being without funds to cover checks written on the hospital account

Only Information

Present at the meeting today was Alvin Woehler, county administrator and accountant, who said th action Tuesday was done due to a financial crisis discovered "by exploring the only information we had available at the time." He was referring to the courthouse funding account which reflected the erroneous information.

Woehler said the meeting today drafted corrective procedures which would eliminate a recurrence of the problem.

Engel said the state audit at the hospital showed that the cost per patient per week has dropped about $2 over last year's cost and that Outagamie County was the only one of two hospitals in the state with a decrease. Cost is down to $35 per patient per week, Engel said. The state average is about $28, and has risen $1.

No Unusual Expenses

Engel said there has been no significant areas which are responsible for the decrease in operation He said there have been no unusual expenses and the overall operation this year has been good

Aid Asked for New London Organizations

Pilots, Boat Clubs Request Funds to Improve Facilities

NEW LONDON — Requests for city assistance from two organizations were referred to separate committees at Monday night's city council committee meeting.

One request was for operating funds for New London Aviation Inc. Pilots' Club. Hilbert Berkhahn, club president, suggested the council put an amount in the budget for next year. He said if the city council donated enough to pay rental of the land each year and leave some cash in a sinking fund it would be sufficient.

The yearly rental is $320 paid by the club, a private organization. The matter was referred to the finance committee.

Boating Facilities

A request for improved boating facilities was turned over to the park board following another request by Berkhahn, this time representing the New London Boat Club

He asked the council to consider four requests. They are a slip on the west side of Riverside Park for docking boats, revamping of the boat ramps, restroom facilities for the boaters at the campsite and some of type of shelter at the park.

A suggestion by Walter Schoenrock, building inspector, to revamp the trailer ordinance will be referred to the planning commission.

Schoenrock suggested the ordinance be changed to allow any trailers to be parked west of Elm Street and east of Chicago and North Western railroad tracks on the east side of the city The suggested change would prohibit parking of trailers any other place within the city.

Waupaca Downtown Coaches Club Will Take Charge of Prizes, Dinner Meeting

WAUPACA — Paul Bammel was named homecoming chairman by the Downtown Coaches Club Monday noon.

Bammel will be in charge of arranging the awarding of prizes for costumes and floats in the homecoming parade, for the dinner meeting for members of the homecoming court and for activities at the half-time intermission during the homecoming game.

Coach Dick Weed told members of the club Waupaca ran into a strong team Friday night at Wittenberg. The Comets lost a 25-14 decision. He said the turning point in the game was a touchdown play called back shortly before the half-time intermission. It would have given the Waupaca team a 13-6 lead, he said.

Passing Good

Coach Weed said the Comet passing was good. Waupaca completed 12 out of 19 for 144 yards. One Waupaca pass was intercepted. Wittenberg completed five out of 14 for 98 yards, including one 55-yard touchdown pass. Waupaca intercepted four Wittenberg passes.

In the rushing department, Wittenberg piled up 142 yards and Waupaca settled for 19. On one of the Wittenberg touchdown drives, Waupaca contributed 15 yards on a penalty. Coach Weed said End Raul Reyes caught a couple of outstanding passes and commended Roger Green and Jim Strebe for their defensive work.

The Comets will be hosts to Manawa Friday night in the second round of Central Wisconsin conference games.

Coach Weed said Manawa uses a winged T and has nine returning lettermen with a good passing attack.

New Season Plans

Eight-Part Program Slated for Calumet Homemaker Organization

CHILTON — Representatives from each of Calumet County's 22 homemaker clubs got a brief preview of the eight-part program slated for the new year by the county homemaker organization.

Miss Joan Prochnow, county home agent, outlined the program during the Fall Council meeting at the city hall Wednesday. It signaled the start of the club year.

The October project is "Use of Flowers and Twigs." Its aims are to create an awareness of native materials and their decorative use in the homes; to gain understanding in the use of these materials, and to create a desire to experiment with new materials.

In November, the homemakers will turn their attention to care of clothing. Phases of the project are: learning up-to-date repair methods of patching, darning and reinforcing; techniques in pressing modern fabrics, and the use and selection of good pressing equipment.

Special Meeting

A special interest meeting also is slated for November. Jane Graff, University of Wisconsin home furnishing specialist, will teach homemakers the art of silk screening as a creative craft.

The color and design project selected for January deals with fundamental principles of color relationships and their use in the home.

In January the second special interest project is scheduled. A weight control workshop, its material will concern good nutrition, the importance of maintaining normal weight and methods of planning nutritional and interesting meals with low calorie value.

Program planning will be studied by the women in February. Not only will they begin planning for the following year's activities, but they also will study the procedure and methods in program planning.

A February special interest session will be devoted to furniture. Homemakers will study furniture design, learn to recognize quality, and gain an understanding of materials, finishes and construction of furniture.

In March the subject of study will be better breakfast. Study material includes the selection of suitable foods for breakfast, planning and management of time and energy for meals, and an understanding of the importance of breakfast to all age groups.

The final project will come in April when the women undertake the study of food and culture of Sweden.

In addition to Miss Prochnow's report on the new program, homemakers heard a talk by Mrs. Henry D. Schaefer, Eastern District chairman. She spoke on new aspects of the state programs and briefly discussed the national and international segments of the homemaker organization.

Mrs. Elmer Whitby and Mrs. Reuben Koffarnus gave the secretary's and treasurer's report, respectively. Committee reports included one by Mrs. Edgar Stembach on Achievement Day, one by Miss Prochnow on the foods and nutrition meeting, and one by Mrs. Irvin Kesler on the state meeting.

Mrs. Donald Hillman, new county president, was in charge of the meeting.

Concluding the business session was the announcement that Mrs. Ray Stahl, route 2, Kiel, had repeated as the county's better cookie baking champion. Last year Mrs. Stahl took the county and state butter cookie baking titles. She used a new recipe this year.

The butter cookie contest was sponsored by the Farm Bureau Women who were also hosts at the social hour after the meeting.

Shiocton Fire Department Reconditioning Equipment

SHIOCTON — The Shiocton Fire Department has started reconditioning pumping equipment which will now be used on the new village water system. Prior to the completion of the system water to fight village fires was pumped from the Wolf River.

With the reconditioning of the equipment to meet specifications of the fire insurance rating bureau there may be a possible drop in fire insurance rates in the village, Earl Kuether, Village Clerk, said.

Reconditioning of the equipment includes cleaning and repairing of one of the pumper trucks, checking and cleaning of all valves and replacing all worn parts and equipment. To Your Good Health

Nose Surgery Doesn't Transform Appearance

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M. D.

Dear Dr. Molner: My problem is a large nose. I hope you can recommend a plastic surgeon in my vicinity. I've heard that the price for a nose operation ranges from $200 to $500. Is this true! What about the surgery? — B. C.

Molner

If the size or shape of your nose is annoying enough to warrant an operation, consult a plastic surgeon.

Your estimate of the cost is reasonably correct, but it may vary.

This is not minor surgery. It entails problems far beyond the removal of some tissue.

Cosmetic plastic surgery demands careful study of the face, from the sides and the front, with photographs or sketches. Then measurements are made to determine how much bone and other tissue must be removed to give the desired effect.

Isn't Magic

Some people with an oversized nose (or other features they don't like), jump to the conclusion that correcting the fault will change their appearance completely. It won't. It will change just the nose. In short, they expect too much, and the only safe and sensible course is to make sure that they know the limitations in advance.

I am not saying this to discourage plastic surgery, but to try to avoid disappointment and to increase satisfaction afterwards.

The best way to find out how much any type of surgery will be is to discuss it with the surgeon. He can give you an accurate estimate.

I can't recommend a surgeon. Ask your own regular physician. He knows your circumstances.

You can also inquire at a good hospital, or else consult your county medical society.

Cyst On Head

Dear Dr. Molner: I have a cyst on my head about the size of a hickory nut. It doesn't hurt but it obstructs when I comb my hair. If I have it removed, is it liable to give me trouble or pain, or become malignant? — P. G. L.

A cyst like yours doesn't tend to become malignant. If it is a nuisance, have it removed. The surgery is usually (but not always) a simple office procedure.

Tender Skin

Dear Dr. Molner: What causes my skin to be extremely sensitive after shaving? I am 63 and have only been bothered with this in recent months. — S. D.

Skin texture can become more sensitive with age. This condition doesn't always occur, however.

Consider the more frequent possibilities that are found for such sensitivity:

1. Have you changed your shaving soap or cream recently? If so, go back to the one you formerly used.

2. Is your razor adjustable? If so, changing it to a lighter setting may be helpful. (You might also note whether you have switched the brand of blades. A keener blade, which may cost a bit more, may be a profitable investment, comfortwise.)

3. Consider changing from a razor to an electric shaver.

4. Wash the face with warm water before applying shaving soap or cream. This will soften the beard and permit shaving with less irritation.

5. And last of all, what about after-shave lotions? The skin may be sensitive to something in one brand but not in another.

Are you bothered with ringing in the ears? If so, write to Dr. Molner in care of this newspaper for the booklet, "Ear Noises — Their Causes and Cures," enclosing with your request 10 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Peabody Manor Given Assessment

VNA Asks State for Decision

In a precedent-setting move which may have statewide ramifications, City Assessor John Pierre has placed a portion of the Peabody Manor building on the City of Appleton's 1963 assessment roll.

Pierre contends the part of the building used as a home for the aged is not being operated on a charitable basis because its residents have to pay to live there.

The land was not assessed, nor was a wing which quarters the offices of the Visiting Nurse Association, which operates the home at 720 W. Fifth St.

However, the home for the aged part was listed on the roll for the first time in the amount of $269,000.

Assessment Appealed

The assessment is being appealed to the Wisconsin Department of Taxation by the Visiting Nurse Association.

Atty. Alfred S. Bradford, representing the VNA, has requested the department of taxation to rule that Peabody Manor is a non-profit operation and should not be assessed.

Pierre is on vacation and could not be reached for comment. However, it is known that before placing Peabody Manor proper on the tax role, he raised the question as to whether it was strictly a non-profit, charitable establishment, and he had been in contact with VNA officials.

Pierre reportedly asked the association to supply his office with a complete record of operational cost and income figures for the home for the aged. When he did not receive them Pierre proceeded with the partial assessment, it was reported.

On Sept. 3, Bradford sent a letter to the common council's finance committee requesting the Peabody Manor assessment be deferred until a ruling was obtained from state tax officials to determine whether the property is exempt from real estate taxes. However, the property had been placed on the roll.

When the Appleton Board of Appeals met for a week in accordance with state statute, it received no notice of appeal from the Visiting Nurse Association.

Pierre and the VNA are willing to accept the ruling of the department of taxation.

$11,600 Payment

Should the decision be favorable to the City of Appleton, it would result in the VNA paying an estimated $11,600 in real estate taxes based on the current net rate of $43.15 per $1,000 assessed valuation.

In requesting the state to make a decision, Bradford said:

"The city assessor from the City of Appleton has assessed the Visiting Nurse Association on that part of its real estate used by it for operation of a non-profit retirement home for the aged and the VNA, through me as its attorney, respectfully requests a ruling for exemption under Section 70.11.

Exempt State

"The Visiting Nurse Association of Appleton has been exempt by both the state and United States tax departments in the payment of income taxes on the ground that it is a non-profit charitable and benevolent association."

Bradford sent the state a copy of the VNA's articles of corporation along with the will of the late George Peabody who died in 1910 and bequeathed money for a trust fund.

Peabody wanted a home established for "worthy, indigent, elderly women residing in Outagamie County and in the cities of Neenah and Menasha." He visualized the VNA, although there were only one or two chapters in the East, as operating the institution.

After the death of the beneficiary, a court hearing was held because it was impossible at the time to carry out the provisions of the Peabody will. The court held that the VNA could take the place of "the incorporation and organization of a charitable association".

It was also determined that limitations of the trust as to the amount to be paid for the building, location and other stipulations, were invalid through lapse of years but the main purpose of the trust was still capable of being carried out.

An estimated $400,000 was available, with the trust having accrued a large amount of interest over the years. Atty. Bradford cited the court's decision was made under Section 231.11, especially Section D.

Gave Land

On Aug. 8, 1958, the City of Appleton gave deeded land to the Visiting Nurse Association with the stipulation that it was to be used as the site of a home for the aged, with construction to commence within a period of five years, or the property would revert back to the city.

Because funds were not sufficient to allow for building of the home and an endowment fund, a charitable drive was conducted and additional money raised.

Peabody Manor was then constructed as a home for the aged and offices for the VNA.

"Necessary" Combination

"The combination of the two appeared necessary to carry out the purposes and intent of the will and also to attain the utmost economy of operation," Bradford said in his appeal to the department of taxation.

Subsequently, the east wing of the building was occupied by the VNA and the rest was set aside by the association to the administration of the home for the aged.

Bradford says the home proper is administered by a committee of the VNA (called a board of directors) which is answerable to the VNA board and has no separate entity other than the use of the name Peabody Manor.

Monthly Charge

"A monthly charge is made to the inhabitants which to date has not been sufficient to meet expenses," Bradford said.

There is also in existence an endowment fund of more than $100,000, with the income administered by another committee of the VNA. Bradford said this income is used to help those unable to pay the minimum required monthly charge.

The demand for admittance is reportedly heavy, according to VNA officials who say that if there were another 50 to 75 rooms, they would be filled within a year.

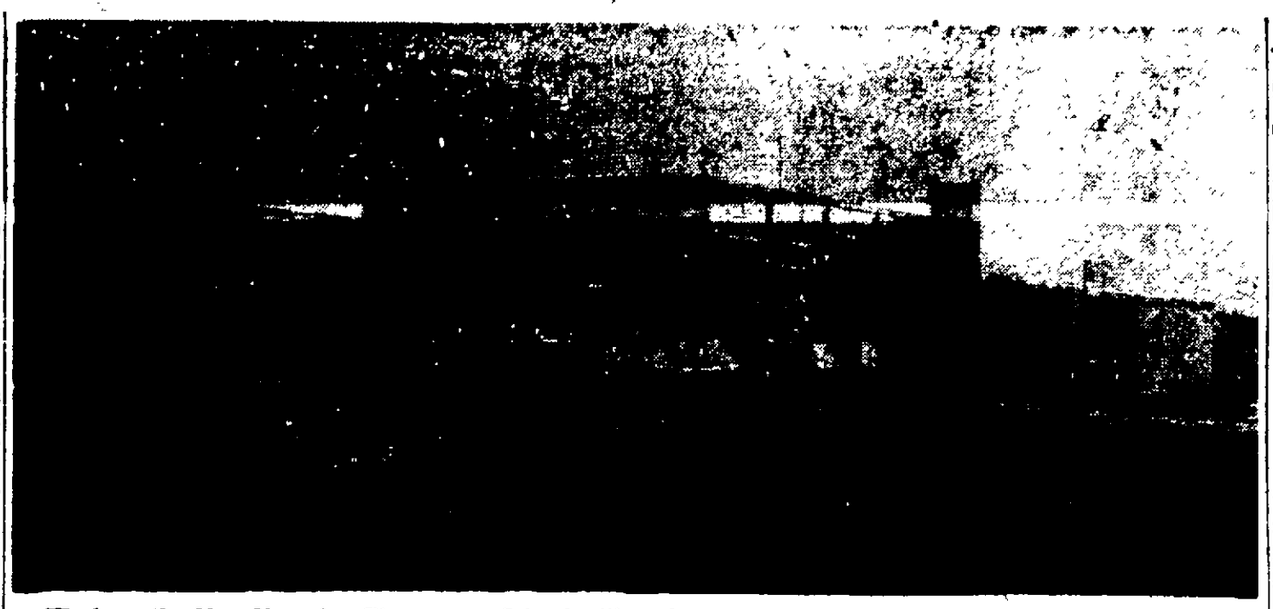
The VNA is insisting Peabody Manor is not a entity from the VNA but is a part of it.

"It is not operated for profit but is charitable and benevolent," Bradford said.

Peabody Manor, a T-shaped, brick structure, was opened in the fall of 1961. The center portion is three stories high and contains the rooms and the infirmary. Occupying the east wing are offices of the VNA. The kitchens, offices and lounge of the home are located in the west wing.

The total cost of the building when it was completed was about $700,000. The money came from three sources—$265,000 from the Peabody estate, $115,000 for the infirmary from the federal government and $300,000 raised in the communities the home serves.

Records in the assessor's office show that in the City of Appleton there are more than 500 tax exempt properties worth millions of dollars.



Work on the New Navarino Elementary School will be completed in about two weeks. Although work still is in progress, classes are being held in the six classroom school, kindergarten and multi-purpose room The $150,000 school is being constructed by Martin Juedes, Cecil. Ground was broken for the school April 1. (Post-Crescent Photo)

NEENAH — The Neenah jayvees came from behind to stop New London 20-12 in their initial game Monday night at New London.

The Rockets scored the first time they had the ball with Ken Peterson going 28 yards on an end sweep for the tally. Mike Milliken added the extra point.

After a scoreless second period, New London scored its first touchdown early in the third frame after they recovered a Rocket fumble deep in Neenah territory following a punt.

On the first play after New London's kickoff, Tom Brown intercepted a flat pass and raced about 30 yards to score, giving the Bulldogs a 12-7 advantage.

The Rockets didn't trail for long for on the next series of plays Peterson went off guard for 65 yards and a 13-12 lead when the point was missed.

Peterson scored the final touchdown in the fourth period on a 25-yard off-tackle run. Dave Wollerman added the extra point.

Neenah again threatened in the fourth quarter moving inside the Bulldog 20 but was thrown back by a series of penalties New London didn't have any other sustained drives.

Coach Ben Meixl said Tim Meyer, Jim Lanzer and Jim Koepke performed well on defense while Wollerman, Koepke, Norm Bauman, Milliken and quarterback Pete Kuehl were offensive standouts.

The Rockets make their next start against Kaukauna there at 10 a.m. Saturday.

Mrs. Leonard Dale's Religion Manual Receiving Many Orders

Orders have been received from almost every state in the union for a new religion manual for mentally rearded children, written by Mrs. Leonard Dale, 20 Foster Court.

The manual, entitled "Come Unto Me," was written by Mrs. Dale after her experiences last year in organizing a religion class for exceptional children at Sacred Heart Catholic Church.

The religion class for exceptional children will be offered again this year, starting at 10 a.m. Saturday at Sacred Heart School. The class is planned for all children who are unable because of physical or mental handicaps to attend regular religion classes. It is open to children in all Appleton and area parishes.

For the first time this year, provisions will be made in the class for deaf children. This is the only class in the area which provides for deaf children, Mrs. Dale said.

12 Students

Teachers of the class will be about 12 high school girls, working under Mrs. Dale. Supervisors will be Mrs. Gerald Vallard, Mrs. Henry Paull, Mrs. Elizabeth Farrell and William McKenzie.

Parents interested in registering their children should contact Mrs. Dale.

Mrs. Dale, who is chairman of Confraternity of Christian Doctrine (CCD) teachers at Sacred Heart, first organized the class for the rearded children last year. Twenty-six children from area parishes were enrolled.

"The need was obvious, but there was no material," she said. "The book we had was not satisfactory."

Mrs. Dale, who has a bachelor's degree in elementary education and taught kindergarten in Des Plaines, Ill., took a graduate education course entitled "Introduction to Mental Retaardation" at the University of Wisconsin Fox Valley Center, and wrote "Come Unto Me" as a term paper for the course.

Book Evaluated

Dr. LeRoy Aserlind, the instructor, took the book to the office of special education at the University of Wisconsin in Madison. There it was evaluated by several members of the President's Panel on Retardation, and this group encouraged her to publish it.

The book has 32 lessons of one hou reach. Each lesson has two plans, one for trainable children with I.Q.s of 25 to 50, and one for educable children with I.Q.s of 50 to 75. The lessons are divided into short periods of prayer, doctrine, activity and music.

The book is prepared for use by teachers or parents of mentally retarded children. Mrs. Dale said it is planned so that a parent can use it without searching for materials to supplement the lessons. It includes the necessary prayers and art drawings and activities for the children, and suggestions for starting a class and grouping the children.

Encourage Others

The purpose of the book is to encourage others to start classes for the retarded, Mrs. Dale said. "Very little is provided for them, and the children gain much from having weekly religion classes."

Five hundred copies of the book were printed in Appleton three weeks ago, and orders for it have come in from almost every state in the nation.

In the back of the book are pages for criticism of each lesson by the teachers or parents. In two years, after criticisms have been received and others' experiences studied, Mrs. Dale hopes to revise the book and have it published.

The Rev. Henry Bedessem, former Sacred Heart CCD director, collaborated with Mrs. Dale in producing the book. She wrote the musical compositions with assistance from Sister M. Felix, S.S.N.D. The original art drawings are by Mary Jane Hamerski of Mount Mary College, Milwaukee.

Services Set For 4 Youths Killed Monday

DePere Quartet in Speeding Car Which Slammed Into Train

DE PERE — Funeral services will be Wednesday and Thursday for four youths who died early Monday morning when the stolen car they were riding in slammed into a Soo Line freight diesel near Hilbert.

The youths, who took the auto from Ryan Funeral Home about 5:30 a.m., were Donald V. Pargo, 16, 306½ N. Michigan St., Bernard L. Van Den Heuvel, 22, 121 N. Michigan St., Mark Adriansen, 16, 109½ N. Superior St., and Milton Doehler, Jr., 19, 432 N. Broadway.

Calumet County Coroner LeRoy Hughes said the youths died of multiple fractures of the legs, chest and head injuries. There were no skid marks on the pavement to show the driver of the car, Doehler, had seen the train or attempted to stop before the collision, Hughes said.

$400 Damage

Damage to the Soo engine was estimated at $400. The impact of the crash knocked out the engine's power plant and damaged large batteries, Hughes said.

Last year at this time Calumet County had seven fatalities and eight over-all for the year. The toll so far this year is 10, six of them in the last month.

De Pere police said the four jumped ignition wires to start the car.

Services for Pargo will be at 2 p.m. Wednesday at Ryan Funeral Home with burial in South Lawrence Cemetery Services for Van Den Heuvel will be at 10 a.m. Thursday at St. Mary Catholic Church with burial in Mt. Olivet Cemetery. Frinds may call at Ryan Funeral Home.

State High Court Overrules Waupaca Contempt Decision

WAUPACA — Acting Wisconsin Chief Supreme Court Justice George R. Currie overruled a decision of Waupaca County Judge Wendell McHenry today and ordered the immediate release of Kenneth F. Hemingson, 41, route 4, from the county jail where he was being held for four days on a contempt of court charge.

Justice Currie ordered Hemingson's release after Judge McHenry denied a petition by the defendant's attorney for time to effect an appeal to a higher court.

Atty. Urban P. Van Susteren, Appleton, served the Supreme Court order on Sheriff Loran Frazier about 7:45 p.m. Monday to effect Hemingson's release.

Hemingson was held in contempt Friday and ordered to serve four days in the county jail and pay a fine of $75 or serve an additional 10-day sentence. The Supreme Court order suspended the sentence until Sept. 23, pending further action on the appeal.

Court records show Hemingson was cited for contempt of a restraining order issued by Family Court Commissioner Laurie Anderson July 15. Judge McHenry ordered Hemingson to serve four weekends (eight days) in the county jail.

Hemingson served four days on the sentence and then was ordered, on another contempt of court citation, to serve additional time after failing to serve the sentence consecutively.

Van Susteren said Hemingson did not serve the original sentence because Van Susteren told Hemingson the sentence was wrong.

The second contempt charge was drawn up by Judge McHenry, Van Susteren said, and was on a criminal warrant.

Radiance at Its Peak

Miracle of Autumn About to Take Place

BY JAY REED
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

ST. GERMAINE—The north woods are ready to blush like a freshman at a senior prom.

The many-splendored miracle of autumn color is close at hand in northern Wisconsin now. This weekend will be good if you like to see the brilliance of fall from your car window.

But the following weekend, likely, will be even better. On that Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 28 and 29, the radiance of autumn should be at its peak, all current conditions being equal.

Don't Rush

Right now the woods of this north country are much like a woman preparing for a night on the town. She's primping and powdering. You can see splashes of red and rust in a sea of green as you travel highways 45-47 north out of Antigo toward Pelican Lake, Monico, Three Lakes and Eagle River. Head west on 70 toward Woodruff and you'll see a queen with a magic crown aglitter with shades of yellow and, in spots, the throbbing red of rubies

But she's not quite ready yet so don't rush her. Give her a couple of more nights when the temperature sinks and the leaves grow crisp with frost. Perhaps next weekend — or the next.

Then, if the sun shines brightly, you can view from the comfort of your car a radiant display of color the likes of which all the technicians in the world can't duplicate.

Walk In Fallen Leaves

But you'll not know the full magic of this season if you rely only on your eyes. Walk a ridge where the sun will be warm on your back and the wind cool in your face. Listen to your feet shuffle in the fallen leaves.

You'll know the clean, sweet smell of fall. The air will be sharp with just a hint of the winter yet to come and your heart will know the beauty which only your eyes saw before.

Call it colorama, call it magic. It makes little difference. It adds up to one of the most glorious events in all of nature's radiant cycle.

And it's all for you.

Cyclone Saves Fellow's Savings By Turning Oil Well Inside Out

BY CHARLES HOUSE
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Last week this department dipped casually into fabulous fibs, proclaiming meanwhile that the art of telling falsehoods with good humor is one which is all but lost. Gentle reader, however, and long memoried friends have offered up more of the rotund falsehoods of a happier, gayer day:

House fortune!

There is the classic about the fellow who struck it rich in an odd way. He had taken his life's savings and invested in an oil well. Turned out, though, that the well was dry and just as it seemed that he had lost all of his money, a cyclone came along.

It blew the oil well inside out so that it stuck up in the air to a height of a thousand feet. The man cut it down, sawed it into two-foot sections and shipped it east for post-holes. Made a fortune!

Serious Wind

There was also a very serious wind in Kansas one time. It picked up a kitchen stove and carried it all the way to Texas. Then it came back for the poker.

Then there was the wind that blew so hard on the back of one industrious hen caught in the breeze that she laid the same egg 27 times.

And never forget the race track tout who came home all tired and worn. When his wife asked him what had happened, he told her.

"I was standing next to the track when I noticed my shoe lace was untied. I bent down to tie it and some fool jumped right on my back."

"What did you do?" his wife asked.

"What could I do? I came in second!"

There was the fellow who was riding his trusty horse one day when she was spooked by a grizzly bear. The horse started to run toward a huge cliff that had a minimum drop of about 5,000 feet. He tugged and tugged and rip-sawed the reins in an effort to stop her but it was no use. The horse ran right off the edge of the bluff with him aboard. The horse was killed.

His friends pondered.

"Tow," they asked, "could you fall with your horse such a distance as 5,000 feet and not get killed yourself?"

"'Twas easy," he replied. "The hoss fell about 4,990 feet but just before she hit bottom I jumped off. So I only fell 10 feet."

We cannot forget the swift runner whose speed often got him in difficulty.

"One time," he said, "I saw a rabbit and I took my gun and aimed sharp. Then I pulled the trigger and ran up and when I bent over to pick up that dad-gummed rabbit, the bullet hit me right in the seat of my pants."

Waiting for Light

Another fellow had a fine gun, made by an expert and guaranteed to hit the mark.

One night he was awakened by a noise in the woodpile. He got out of bed, aimed at the woodpile and pulled the trigger. Nothing happened except that he heard a persistant buzzing noise all that night and it bothered him so much he could hardly sleep.

In the morning he got up and investigated the buzzing noise. It was the bullet he had fired the night before and it was making circles around the house.

What had happened was that it was so dark at night that the bullet couldn't see what it was fired at and it was just running around the house waiting for daylight so it could see what it was supposed to hit.

The same gun could shoot so far that the fellow had to put salt down its barrel so that the game he killed with it wouldn't spoil before he could get to it.

One other fellow was walking along in the mountains of Kentucky after an unsuccessful hunt in which he had used up all of his ammunition.

Suddenly he came across a great bear and he was frightened almost to death. He started to perspire and then got the chills. The beads of perspiration on his brow froze so he took one of them and put it into his rifle and shot the bear. The friction of the ice bead on the barrel changed it to water and as it struck the bear it scared it away.

It didn't die but it got water on the brain. And the following winter, the water in the bears brain would freeze and things would slip its mind. It's a fact.

Sore Feet

One man had a homing pigeon by the name of Sylvia. She was such a wonder that this man made his living by placing bets on her speed.

He'd find somebody and brag about her and urge up a bet. But, he said, people are mean. Said he:

"One time I made a bet with a feller that if he took Sylvia down the road a piece for 100 miles and let her out of her cage, she'd be back to me within an hour. But that stranger, he was mean. He took Sylvia a hundred miles away all right, and he let her out of her cage all right, but then that mean devil he went and clipped her wings."

"That WAS mean," said his friend. "And I suppose on top of that you lost your bet?"

"No, no," said Sylvia's owner. "She came back on time all right, but she sure had sore feet!"

Reynolds Approves Medical Deductions

MADISON (AP)— Medical expenses in excess of $85 but not more than $2,500 will be deductible from the state income tax under terms of a bill signed into law Monday by Gov. John W. Reynolds.

Permissible medical deductions under present law are between $75 and $1,500.

Another new law requires county clerks to notify the secretary of state of the name, address and political party of each candidate filing nomination papers for legislative offices.

Other bills signed into law:

Extend auto parking privileges of disabled persons.

Authorize school districts to enter into agreements, including leases and purchases of land and buildings, with other units of local government.

Appleton Board Turns Down Church Request

Congregational Group May Use Rooms In Vocational School Only 2 Sundays

The Appleton Board of Vocational and Adult Education turned down a request from the First Congregational Church to rent two classrooms for Sunday school classes.

The Rev. Edward Dahl, pastor, said the church is short of space and asked if the rooms could be made available.

"The board is sympathetic to the need, but due to complications of setting a precedent and the legal interpretation of the statutes, it is impossible to grant the request," said Supt. of Schools Royce E. Kurtz, a member of the board. The board passed a motion by Kurtz that the request be denied but that the church be permitted to use the rooms for two Sundays while other space was located.

Not Emergency

If it were an emergency or semi-emergency situation, like a building program, we could justify granting the request, explained board president George A. Howden. The Congregational Church has no immediate plans for building.

Classroom space was rented to the Trinity Lutheran Church, its next-door neighbor, for Sunday school use during the church's building program last year.

In other action Thursday the board received the auditors' report on the fiscal year ended June 30, and approved several recommendations from the accountants on accounting procedures.

AVS Director Carl Bertram reported that federal aids totaling $23,729.37 have been received to reimburse the school for expenditures for teaching services during the 1962-1963 school year. A total of $19,000 had been anticipated, he said.

Federal Aid

Federal aids include $4,245 for trade and industry courses, $1,336 for home economics, $428 for distributive education, and $17,721 under the National Defense Education Act.

Bertram told the board that state aids totaling about $8,725 will be available to provide 100 per cent of the salary and travel expenses of the homecraft instructor. During the state tax deadlock, the board had been informed that full reimbursement might not be possible. At that time the vocational schools in Neenah, Menasha, Kaukauna and Kimberly had agreed to participate with the Appleton school in any deficit that resulted from the state not providing full reimbursement for the program.

The Pot and the Kettle

For several years liberal arts college spokesmen have been criticizing many of the teacher training institutions as lacking in scholarship and with too much emphasis upon the techniques of teaching to the detriment of the subject matter. Dr. Lindley Stiles, Dean of the University of Wisconsin School of Education, has now reacted by charging that "from the beginning of the movement to professionalize teaching, liberal arts colleges have generally rejected and ridiculed teacher education as a specific function." The result, says Dean Stiles, is a "disrespect for teaching that deterred able young people from choosing to teach."

There is some truth in Dean Stiles' criticism. In the last decade, teachers colleges have become the target of just about everyone who thought there was something amiss in the world, whether it was too much commercialism in the United States, nuclear test explosions, juvenile delinquency or merely the failure of someone's youngster to get into or through a particular college course. Educators have borne the brunt of the attack which in its more extreme forms denounced everything in the educational field as a waste of time, money and talent.

But there was also a considerable amount of truth in the original charges of too much control of teacher education by the so-called educationists. The criticism did not come entirely from the liberal arts graduates, who, according to Dean Stiles, were not prepared to teach so they "subconsciously feel the need to defend their backgrounds." It often came from able students who were bored to distraction by dull educational courses. It came from administrators and parents who were appalled to find a lot of teachers with plenty of background in child psychology, grading and musical games but who knew only the surface of the fields of English, history, science or math they were supposed to be teaching.

The continued carping at each other will solve little. Teachers need some courses in education. It may be true that the best teachers are born that way, but techniques in any field are important and usually essential. Poet John Ciardi, writing in the Saturday Review about techniques in poetry, says that there is something wrong with the idea that "technique is an affront to 'beauty,' that the piano plays itself without the need of painful learning, that arias sing themselves without scholarship, and that poems are the product of mindless effusion untouched by the disciplines of technique." Teachers need the discipline of the field of education; they also need the discipline of their own field of study, a thorough background and understanding of our heritage and culture, and the relationship of other subjects.

Liberal arts critics who scoff at techniques are forgetting that "methodology" is in great part responsible for the "new" math, the "new" science and other almost revolutionary happenings in education in recent years. But the educationists who insist there never has been anything wrong with their departments are also far off base.

It's past time to come to the end of name calling and blame placing. Education for teachers has improved tremendously in the last decade in many parts of the country including Wisconsin. Let's keep moving that way.

Murder in Birmingham

The person or persons who threw the bomb are obviously demented. But their unstable minds were goaded to perpetrate this horrible act by the emotional climate the governor created over school integration.

The church bombing and the subsequent slaying of two more Negroes leaves Birmingham at the crossroads. The atmosphere is ripe for further violence. But the terrible tragedy may also so shock decent people of all races throughout the South that they will rise up and demand an end to the kind of emotionalism Governor Wallace has instigated.

We can only hope that the latter will be the result.

Political Underdogs

Woe is the life of the once gay and carefree bachelor these days. As if he didn't have enough trouble already just fending off the designs on his freedom of half of the population. Now, in his executive order issued last week, the President has decided that the playboy bachelors are more deserving of a life in olive drab on private's pay of $92 a month than their married counterparts.

Since there is an ample pool of single men eligible for the draft, the administration reasons married men have now been completely exempted. Fathers have been exempt since last March, but now a wife alone is enough. In a sense, this makes the hubby a more important citizen than the unattached male.

In light of the coming presidential elections, the move is obviously political. The scattered and lonely votes of the unorganized bachelors hardly compare with those of the anxious mothers of hard-to-marry-off-daughters, the fathers paying their room and board, and the spinsters themselves. Even the rest of the married men, with their traces of envy, can't be expected to sympathize with their badgered brethren.

No doubt the unattached male makes a better soldier, sailor or airman. Witness the unofficial and traditional Marine Corps attitude towards matrimony: "If the Corps wanted you to have a wife, private, they would have issued you one." He is obviously more available for weekend and Christmas duty, and can be packed off to remote parts of the world without extensive family arrangements being made. Certainly he is a less expensive serviceman, not requiring housing outside the barracks, or child and wife allowances.

But this is hardly just cause for turning this political underdog into a second-class citizen. Imagine the cruel horns of his dilemma now: either marry and face a mother-in-law or be drafted and face a drill instructor.

Though support of the honored institution of the family is a highly desirable political goal, to do so at the expense of discrimination against a helpless underdog is questionable. This may be the last straw that will force this once happy and proud breed into extinction like the dodo bird.

Are You Short of Money?

It'll come as a surprise to practically no one to learn that there is actually a shortage of money in the United States. Bankers in Philadelphia say the situation is critical. The mint in Denver is running 24 hours a day, six days a week to try to catch up. But the shortage is not in greenbacks, whatever it may seem to most of us. The metal coins are the ones the most in demand.

Past experience has shown that the demand for coins increases as the national economy improves, which is a hopeful sign. But there are other reasons now, too, as cited by Mrs. Fern Miller, superintendent of the Denver mint. Coin collectors are buying coins by the bagful. There are more vending machines and parking meters in operation almost every day. And the sales taxes are also increasing all around the country. Another cause is the school lunch program.

"When you dole out lunch money every day to three or four kids, you find you use up your change in a hurry," says Mrs. Miller in the understatement of the week. She should have also mentioned the charitable coin collecting cans, the penny gum machines and the weekly dues for Brownies, Cub Scouts and Camp Fire Girls.

There is a mystery about coins, however, even greater than the personal one of wondering just where that money went in such a short time. The superintendents report that coins stay in circulation about 25 years. They don't wear out. They just plain disappear. Anyone looking for an intriguing problem to solve should look into that one.

Copperheads May be in Trouble

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Motor for Sept. 17, 1863.

The news that Jefferson is to summon the slaves to his standard under promise of freedom and 50 acres of land, we neither as yet credit nor discredit.

"Fighting fire with fire" is the method of the proverb. Like Prometheus, Jefferson Davis may steal the secret of Mr. Lincoln's Greek fire.

And if this rumor should prove true, we desire to ask — not for idle curiosity but for solid information — what will become of the Copperhead party?

If both the North and the South make edicts of emancipation, whither will the Copperheads flee for refuge? In what caverns or waste places of the earth will they hasten to hide their heads?

The offense of the Federal Government is that it has emancipated the Negroes, for which reason Gov. Horatio Seymour and "his friends" have cast their sympathies undisguisedly upon the Southern side of the contest.

But now the South also emancipates Negroes! What will the new inscription be on the banner of the malcontents? What side will Gov. Seymour take? Or will they never rally again? Just now they stand shivering with fear lest the good news from Morehead City should prove true.

Three Recent Soviet Nuclear Tests in Atmosphere Revealed

BY ROBERT S. ALLEN AND PAUL SCOTT

U.S. nuclear scientists have confirmed that three explosions detected in the Soviet Union in June and July are definitely nuclear tests in the atmosphere.

Their analysis of radioactive debris recovered from the blasts supports earlier acoustic, or sound, signals from the explosions that resembled those from other nuclear shots.

U.S. air patrols, watching closely for radioactive clouds, collected the tell-tale debris but in amounts considerably smaller than those recovered from previous Soviet tests.

NEW "CLEAN" WEAPON

This new finding, along with other intelligence data, has convinced these scientists that the Russians tested a new type of "clean" weapon, probably a warhead for their anti-missile missile, in these unannounced experiments.

The size and exact location for the explosions have been calculated but this sensitive information can not be published, since the details would give the Russians information on our detection methods.

Although the Atomic Energy Commission is withholding its announcement of these findings, the explosive information is now in the hands of Senators who plan to reveal the startling news before the Senate votes to ratify the nuclear test ban treaty later this week.

What effect this disclosure of secret Soviet nuclear testing will have on the final Senate vote is conjectural. The best guess is that it will swing a few of the "uncommitted" senators against the treaty, but not block ratification.

THE INSIDE STORY — The first public disclosure that the U.S. had detected an explosion in the Soviet Union that looked suspiciously like a nuclear test was published by the Washington Star on June 30.

The newspaper's information came from a highly reliable government official who was deeply disturbed over a White House order suppressing the information so as not to upset the test ban negotiations which Soviet Premier Khrushchev had just secretly agreed to.

After the story appeared, the Atomic Energy Commission confirmed that an explosion in Russia had been detected, but their terse announcement downgraded the discovery by claiming that there was no evidence to pin-point the blast as being a nuclear explosion.

Two of the three explosions recorded by U.S. detection instruments occurred on June 12, just two days after President Kennedy gave his American University speech stating that the U.S. would not test again in the atmosphere so long as Russia did not do so.

The third Soviet nuclear test occurred in July while Under Secretary of State Averell Harriman was in Moscow negotiating the partial test ban accord now before the Senate. All three explosions were in the kiloton range. A kiloton is the explosive equivalent of 1,000 tons of TNT.

According to nuclear experts who analyzed the tests, their findings show that the Russians are near the development of a "clean" nuclear weapon that will be undetectable by the U.S. even when fired in the atmosphere. Several U.S. military-intelligence experts believe that this may now be the case.

TEST BAN FALLOUT — The debate over the nuclear test ban treaty isn't helping to improve the strained relations that now exist between some members of the Senate.

Senate Russell Long, D-La., on the outs with leaders of his party in the Senate, took advantage of the debate to needle Senate Democratic Whip Hubert Humphrey, Minn., about his recent trip to Russia.

Constantly interrupting Senator Humphrey during his speech in support of the treaty, Senator Long startled the Minnesota Democrat by inquiring:

"I should like to ask the senator a question about his trip to Gorky Park and his discussion of the treaty with the Russians. Was that female blonde interpreter a Russian or an American?"

"She is the wife of an American political officer in the U.S. Embassy in Moscow," replied Senator Humphrey.

"I am happy to hear that," said Senator Long. "My general impression is that the senator with her help obtained more publicity out of his connection with Mr. Khrushchev than anyone else in the American government. Can my friend name anyone in American history who has ever had more publicity ... from his connection with the Russians, and Mr. Khrushchev in particular, than the senator from Minnesota?"

"I have never tried to keep an accurate record of press clippings," Senator Humphrey retorted. "But I have one unique distinction. The Premier of the Soviet Union at one of the Communist party conclaves took time out to denounce me as a vicious anti-Communist. I feel that my trip was worthwhile."

"I say to the senator, the Russians like you and they don't like me," needled Long. "A man from the Russian embassy came to see me last week. What he had to say was parallel to what the senator has been saying in his speech. Those fellows have given the senator from Minnesota a billion dollars' worth of publicity. They have given the senator more than anybody else on earth has received."

At this point Senator John Sparkman, D-Ala., a friend of both senators, interrupted the exchange, when he noticed that Senator Humphrey's face was becoming red with anger. Another Democratic senator took Senator Long by the arm and led him from the floor.

Acquisition Program Of Recreational Lands Envy of Other States

BY NORMAN C. ANDERSON

MADISON — Former Gov. Gaylord Nelson electrified the people of Wisconsin two years ago when he proposed his now historic 50 million dollar Outdoor Recreation Act Program. The first two years of the program have been successful, despite some growing pains which naturally accompany any new and rapidly expanding venture.

Anderson

The theory was and is that pressure on our outdoor resources, principally land in its natural state, is increasing rapidly, and at the same time the amount of those resources available to our population is decreasing just as rapidly, with resultant skyrocketing in land values. Governor Nelson's purpose in proposing the 50 million dollar program was to embark on a crash program for acquisition of potential recreation land and other resources while it is still available.

Norman C. Anderson is a member of the Wisconsin Assembly from Madison, a leading spokesman for the Democratic party and in the 1963 legislature acted as a principal spokesman for Gov. Reynolds.

DIVERSION OPPOSED

Since the enactment of the program Nelson has warned against the diversion of funds from land acquisition into other activities. When he was governor, he vetoed several bills which would have done so.

The ORAP program, as it is called, is administered by the State Recreation Committee, headed by the Governor.

When the bill creating ORAP was introduced two years ago, an effort was made by the Conservation Department to take over administration of the program instead of State Recreation Committee. That effort was defeated in the Senate after a bitter fight.

Again this year, the Conservation Department has introduced an amendment which abolishes the committee and turns over the administration of the program to the department.

After a lengthy battle in the Assembly, the Conservation Department amendment was narrowly passed and sent to the Senate, which rejected the amendment and returned the bill to its original form. Then the legislature adjourned before the Assembly could complete action on the bill.

DEPARTMENT BLAMED

However, the Attorney General has recently ruled that the program can continue without the bill for the time being.

There has been considerable criticism of the legislature from Conservation Department officials and others for its failure to pass the ORAP budget, but the fact is that failure to pass a bill can be directly attributed to the Conservation Department for introducing its highly controversial amendment. The bill could have sailed through both houses in a single day if the Conservation Department had withdrawn its amendment. And they are the ones who are proposing to change a system that has worked well, by their own admission, and has been the envy of most other states in the union.

Opponents of the Conservation Department amendment have warned that the abolition of the State Recreation Committee will inevitably lead to the diversion of funds from capital acquisition into expanding the state bureaucracy in the departments which participate in the ORAP program. There would be no coordinated supervision of the program and each department would be on its own.

This would pervert the high purpose of the ORAP program, and burden the taxpayers for generations to come.

Let us hope that the Assembly will concur in the Senate version of the bill in November so that the program can continue in its present form.

Strictly Personal

We're Just Functions Rather Than Persons

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

A couple dropped in for tea last Sunday afternoon, and during the conversation the wife mentioned that they had been shopping for an apartment, but with no success.

Harris

Knowing that she owned a handsome building in a most desirable location, I asked her why she didn't take an apartment in her own property.

"It would drive me crazy," she shrugged. "As the tenant, I'd expect the owner to pay for all the repairs and decorating — but, as the owner, I'd insist that the tenant take better care of the apartment. My nervous system couldn't stand such a strain!"

We all laughed, of course, but her jest was rooted in serious fact. She was really saying that she prefers to keep her functions as landlord and as tenant quite separate — because combining them might force her to give up a viewpoint she now finds comfortable and profitable.

The tremendous size and complexity of our society has given each of us a specialized task and role to play; and it has become dangerously easy for each of us to consider his separate function as the whole person.

We are the Landlord, the Tenant, the Banker, the Workman, the Stockholder and so on. These roles are usually so demanding, and so restricting, that we forget ourselves as a human entity, and become only part of a person: the part that is directly engaged in making a living and protecting our possessions.

Perhaps we can see the problem more clearly with an everyday illustration. When the average man is driving his car, he is a Motorist, and pedestrians are menaces or fools who seem to be his sworn enemies; when he is walking, however, he becomes a Pedestrian, and then the motorist is seen as the lunatic foe.

Yet, above both the Motorist and the Pedestrian is the higher concept of the Good Citizen, who wants justice and fair treatment for walkers and drivers alike, aid whose attitude does not depend on whether he happens at any given moment to be walking or driving.

The lady who refused to move into her own building was denying her unity as a person, and preferred to think of herself only as separate function. Her attitude, while understandable, is the greatest single stumbling block in the way of a decent and flexible social order — for, until we are willing to put ourselves in another person's place, to incorporate his views in ours, we selfishly obstruct any vision of a better world.

One Consolation Amid President's Troubles

Premier Khrushchev Has Climbed Off His Back for Time Being Thanks to Red China

BY JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — About the only consolation for President Kennedy in these troubled days at home and abroad is that Soviet Premier Khrushchev has climbed down off his back for a while.

Khrushchev's time is taken up with Red China, while Kennedy tries to cope with racial troubles in this country, with getting Senate approval of a limited nuclear test-ban treaty, and with restoring sense and order in South Viet Nam.

The Soviets have treated the United States almost amiably, compared with the past, ever since this country and Britain signed the test-ban agreement with the Soviet Union in Moscow Aug. 5.

They have even been restrained about American racial disorders, although that's a subject made to measure for Communist propaganda. There can be any number of guesses about the reasons.

The Russians don't want to give Senate opponents of the treaty extra ammunition before the Senate approves or the Russians want a new era of better relations with this country because of their disaster with the Chinese.

Cynical Scheme

The completely skeptical probably see in this Russian amiability and the test-ban agreement itself a cynical scheme to hypnotize the West into lowering its guard by giving it a false sense of peace and security.

But without any of those reasons there is another explanation for the Soviets' recently muted tones toward the West: the Soviet Union has its hands full with its former Chinese ally.

Since Aug. 5 the Soviet and Chinese attacks on each other—the Chinese denounced the test ban—have become as hysterical as Soviet-Chinese attacks on the West used to be.

This Russian-Chinese split, which would be plenty excuse for the Soviet Union to switch its major attention from West to East, is perhaps the greatest break for the Western world since the war.

Endless Mischief

The two giant Communist allies, working together, had the resources for endless mischief and perhaps unimagined gains in every corner and continent on earth.

As rivals they may well cancel out their ambition to communize the world although it seems certain Red China will never stop, short of military defeat, trying to take over at least all of Asia.

Nevertheless, improved Russian-Western relations have their own dangers for the Western Allies: the possibility that, feeling the Soviet menace has slackened, they will lose their sense of interdependence and also split up.

French President Charles de Gaulle, consciously or not, may be reflecting exactly such a state of mind in his several acts of contrary and painful individualism since the beginning of this year.

When the danger from the Soviet Union seemed greater than it does now, De Gaulle was far less intransigent and unpredictable. He began irritating this country sorely only after the United States forced Khrushchev to back down on his Cuba missiles.

After that crisis subsided State Department people here began developing a kind of diplomatic euphoria with predictions that winds of change were sweeping the world although at that time last fall there wasn't a breeze blowing.

They couldn't and didn't foresee that by January De Gaulle would have messed up the Common Market by refusing to let Britain in or that by August there would be a test-ban agreement, signed with the Soviet Union.

For their part the Russians, at this moment, can hardly know where they are or where they are going with the Red Chinese whose menace to the Soviet Union will increase, and not diminish, as their power and weaponry increase.

Antenna Going Up to Top of Telephone Co.

Microwave Unit Part of Appleton, Green Bay System

The Wisconsin Telephone Company is assembling a new microwave antenna atop the company's 7-story business office at 221 W. Washington St.

The structure is part of a $414,000 microwave communications link between Appleton and Green Bay. Placement of the antenna is expected to be completed within a few days and is scheduled for operation at the end of this year.

"Residents of Appleton can see the tower from almost any high spot in the city," Manager Dick Van Sistine said. "Because microwave signals travel in a straight line, all of the antennas must be aligned to within 2.5 degrees of each other and the towers must be within a distance of 30 miles apart."

Receive and Transmit

"The antenna will pick up signals originating from Green Bay by way of Town of Osborne, which is located about 15 miles north of Appleton," Van Sistine explained. "It will also transmit signals to Green Bay by way of the same Town of Osborne microwave tower."

The microwave communications system is one of the newest in operation today. Through the use of antennas, connected to complex electronic equipment, a communications signal can be carried around the world.

Among the recent world-wide uses of the microwave principle have been the experimental TV and communications transmissions by way of the Bell System's two Telstar satellites.

Music Parents Plan Potluck Supper and Program by Quintet

The Music Parents Association of Appleton will open its new year of meetings with a potluck supper at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday at Madison Junior High School.

The dinner will be followed by a musical program which will feature a wind quintet of Mrs. Keith Buxton, Ellen Larson, Kim Mumme, Ivan Spangenberg and Frank Comella.

Laird Warns Midwest May be Bypassed as Site for Atom Smasher

WASHINGTON (AP)—There is danger the Midwest will be bypassed as the site for a $150 million atom smasher unless the Kennedy administration is "made to realize that we want this project," Rep. Melvin Laird, R-Wis. said.

Construction of the high intensity electron accelerator on a site near Stoughton, Wis., has been proposed by the Midwestern Universities Research Association (MURA). The 12.5-billion electron volt accelerator would provide intensities 100 times greater than any existing device and supply answers to fundamental questions about the structure of matter.

After a meeting with University of Wisconsin officials, Laird said the project is bumping into stiff competition from President Kennedy's top scientific advisers and supporters of East and West Coast locations.

Free Publicity Hard to Get After Public Announcement for Office

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MADISON — Often politicians intending to run for office make their intentions so obvious that their formal announcements of candidacy become anti-climactic and get less space in publicity terms and less attention from the public than they expect

A current example is the candidacy of Lt. Gov Jack B. Olson for the Republican nomination for governor. His intentions have been perfectly obvious for six months. There has been a long succession of indirect statements from himself, associates and supporters.

Why such coyness? There are several reasons, all of which appear practical to the politician. The speculative publicity is a part of the campaign build-up regarded as essential. Once a candidate has publicly confessed his goal, he finds free publicity harder to gather.

Another important consideration is the accounting of campaign expenses under the law There is no clear rule on the subject, and since there is not, a candidate can presumably spend unofficially without making an accounting But if his expenditures are ever challenged, he cannot deny any outlays made after he has "announced '.

One of the most sympathetic remarks about the confusion and uncertainty and mixed signals that attended the announcement of the appointment of Tax Commissioner John Gronouski as U S Postmaster General came from a member of Gov John W Reynolds' executive office staff

'Now my boss knows " he observed, ' that even in the White House they get things balled up once in a while '

A press row witticism in the statehouse last week had it that Gronouski would probably order commemorative postage stamp issues to honor Gov. Reynolds and former Democratic State Chairman Patrick J. Lucey.

Then the Republicans could lick them, as the humorist put it.

The month long vacation spent by Gov Reynolds in his favorite Door County has had an obviously refreshing effect The governor appears more bouncy and cheerful in spite of a desk stacked high with difficult work and political decisions than in many months

Everybody is aware, within his circle, however, that there remains the prospect of a difficult and very probably prolonged session of the legislature in November

While the session will provide a timely opportunity for exploitation of issues just before the 1964 campaign it will also contain hazards for the executive, as Wisconsin history has often shown

The rise of Wisconsin Republican National, Committeeman Robert L Pierce of Menomonie in the affairs of the national party have been indifferently reported in his own constituency A sign of his position as one of the senior leaders of the organization was his selection for the chairmanship of the Republican national convention arrangements committee

The assignment means that he is the chief planner and officer of the preparations for the national nominating convention of the party in San Francisco next summer which is likely to attract a record high attendance

The departure of Stanley Hebert from the Public Service Commission for a Washington patronage job presents Gov Reynolds with a peculiar problem in his relations with the state senate which has shown no great willingness to confirm his nominations for state administrative office vacancies

Normally a gubernatorial choice can serve even without senate confirmation if there is a vacancy in the job involved The one known exception covers the public service commission A special statute requires any nominee to one of the three seats on the commission to win senate confirmation before he can legally serve or draw pay The exception results from a quarrel about appointments long ago, between former Gov Philip F LaFollette and a state senate which was as chary about his nominations as the present upper house of the legislature is about those of Reynolds

Normally the Good Roads Association greets warmly any proposition to build more roads or bigger roads Promotion of highways is its excuse for being But there is some doubt about its attitude toward the Democratic state administration's proposal for accelerating the super highway construction blueprint. Directors of the organization met last week without uttering a word about the subject which was the main topic of discussion at their session

A revealing difference in the political security of elected as distinguished from appointive public officials was offered last week when the University of Wisconsin brought in its pay boost list and won automatic approval from the regents Some of the raises were large in any test A new university vice president got a raise of $5 000 a year President Harrington's salary was boosted $2 000 to $36 000

But the incident passed with scarcely any public comment possibly because it got only glancing publicity statewide

But when the legislature a month earlier voted pay increases for legislators elected state officials and department heads, there was an outcry of protest, in spite of the fact that the new salary for the governor to illustrate, will be $11 000 less than that now paid to the university chief Another important distinction the politicians must wait until after the next election to get their raises if they do The university officers will get their benefits immediately

FOREIGN JOBS GOOD, BUT NO BANDAGE FOR BROKEN HEART

BY CYRUS BARRETT, JR.

DEAR CY:

Having just received a "Dear John" letter from my fiancee, I have decided to get a job overseas Due to the fact I recently graduated from college I don't have much business experience to speak of How would I go about working for the United States government in a foreign country? What are the advantages of working overseas versus employment in the United States?

JOHN

DEAR JOHN:

Fleeing reality is not the best bandage for a broken heart If you really desire work abroad and the impending marriage restricted your freedom of action look into work across the water There are currently over 200 000 civilians in U S government work abroad. The jobs do not come under the usual Civil Service examination but are in the exempted' class under the jurisdiction of a U S government agency For information, write the Foreign Service Foreign Service Personnel, Department of State Washington D C Examination will probably be more rigid than under regular Civil Service

Generally speaking jobs abroad provide a lower cost of living opportunities for travel at no cost allowances and more money For other foreign employment consider spending a dollar for the booklet "Guide to Employment Abroad' published by Hill International Publications P O Box 79-C, East Islip N Y Written authoritatively, it dishes up an excellent curry of overseas jobs, job channels address to contact, and method for securing jobs abroad.

CY

DEAR CY:

My brother is at it again He is always trying to do something differently and outsmart someone Usually he ends up getting fooled, himself He told me this morning he is putting his property in joint ownership with his wife so he doesn t have to pay a lawyer for drawing up a will. According to him, "With joint ownership, you don't need a will. The property just automatically passes to the other party' This sounds too easy. Since my brother inherited a reasonably large amount of property (the same as I did) I am concerned for him. What do you think of joint ownership Cy?

R. J. BARTHOLOMAY

DEAR MR. BARTHOLOMAY:

There are literally millions of nuts like your brother, who constantly seek smart aleck solutions to complex problems Things don't work out that way Although your brother may want to save legal costs and see his survivor get immediate title to his holdings he is foolish again Chances are the dearly departed will drop a colossal load of federal estate and gift taxes on his innocent spouse? And all for trying to save a lawyer s fee! When an estate is small joint tenancy may be sound but it s worth paying a law hawk to learn the protective mechanisms allowed in the federal and state legal scrolls

DEAR CY:

A certain Mr X and I are working on a deal Sitting at lunch he told me in our secret d scuss on 'Word of our talk is bound to leak out so let s decide what we are going to say if anyone asks about what is going on ' If he is as tight lipped as we both pledged to be word can t get out. Should I trust this man?

MR Y.

DEAR MR Y:

Mr X is a realist. Trust him Even if neither of you open your mouth and let the bird fly out others can pick up signs and signals of your intentions Walter Winchell once commented "I usually get my stuff from people who promised somebody else that they would keep it a secret

Dakota Indians Wage Own Struggle for Civil Rights

BISMARCK, N D (AP) — While the nation s attention is focused on the battle for Negro civil rights the native American Indian is waging his own independence struggle in reverse

Unlike the Negro who demands integration with the white man, the Indian is fighting to remain a separate and distinct race

Where the Negro wants equality, the Indian asserts he is entitled to more than that—every advantage enjoyed by the whites, plus recognition as survivors of a once sovereign power

War Councils

War councils to obtain those aims met in Bismarck this past week during the 20th annual convention of the National Congress of American Indians The congress claims to represent some 400 000 of the estimated 600 000 Indians on reservations across the country

"We are first class citizens and more " contended Robert Burnette executive secretary of the congress

"After all, the government is bound by treaties made with the Indians when we were just as powerful as the United States These treaties should not be broken today, just because we're not as strong as we once were "

Former Marine

Burnette, 37 a former Marine who once served as chairman of the Rosebud Sioux Reservation in South Dakota, repeatedly has accused white law enforcement officers in South Dakota of beating raping and mistreating Indian prisoners

After two public hearings on the charges, South Dakota Gov Archie Gubrud summed up Burnette s accusations as baseless and irresponsible

Rural Slums

The real problem, says Walter Wetzel, congress president, is helping the Indian rise out of the rural slums of the reservation and make his contribution to society

"There isn't enough development of our reservations," said Wetzel, 48, chairman of the Blackfeet Tribe of Montana

'We need financial support — loans and aid to build an economy that will be self sustaining "

Neither have the persons who staged 21 other bombings in the past eight years.

FBI bomb experts continued to sift through evidence at the church for clues.

Grand Jury Inquiry

Another investigation is under way by a federal grand jury, ordered by U.S. Dist. Judge Clarence William Allgood to look into possible interference with federal court school integration orders.

The city's first week of public school integration preceded the church bombing and resulted in boycotts and demonstrations by some of the white students of the three schools entered by five Negroes. Some adults also were involved in the first demonstrations.

Business Affected

"People put off shopping trips," one businessman said. "They are concerned about their children — it goes deeper than just downtown Birmingham — it affects every phase of the business, social and civic life of the community."

Another merchant said business is about 80 per cent of normal.

"There is a breakdown of law and order in Birmingham and we need the power of the United States," said Shuttlesworth, an official of the Alabama Christian Movement for Human Rights, in addressing the rally.

The Rev. Ralph Abernathy, treasurer of King's Southern Christian Leadership Conference, said at the meeting that "if the federal government had done its job, Gov. Wallace would be in jail right now" and the church would not have been bombed.

Appeals for Marshals

Another call for federal action came from James B. Farmer, national director of the Congress of Racial Equality. From San Francisco, he wired President Kennedy to send federal marshals to protect Birmingham residents.

"We have no confidence in the state marshals," he said. "They showed their stripes before."

Farmer said the bombing occurred because segregationists realize Negroes are winning the civil rights battle, "the racists have their backs to the wall, and they can look back and see the handwriting."

At Louisville, Ky., the bishop of the Seventh District African Methodist Episcopal Zion Church called upon members in Georgia, Alabama and Mississippi to arm themselves against "Illegal intrusions." Bishop C. Ewbank Tucker said the bombing shattered the hope that law and order would be preserved in Alabama integration moves.

In New York, responsibility for the bombing was laid to Wallace by the 10 sponsors of last month's march on Washington, by a meeting of Harlem clergymen and civil rights leaders, and by Gus Hall, American Communist leader.

Halleck Urges Slash in Budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Republican leader Charles A. Halleck said today that budget-cutting action, not a speech, is what President Kennedy needs to get his tax reduction program through Congress this year.

While Halleck promised to "listen with some interest" to Kennedy's nationwide television and radio address on taxes Wednesday, he said his own view is unchanged.

If Kennedy sends Congress "a significant schedule for voluntary reductions in his original spending requests, Congress will pass a tax reducton bill this year—it is that simple," Halleck said.

House Democratic leaders, meanwhile, said they have the votes to pass the $11 billion tax cut bill in that chamber next week.

Rocky Charges Will To Resist Communism Weakened in Nation

ACCORD, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York says the "will to resist communism has been eroded everywhere" as a result of actions by President Kennedy's Democratic administration.

The governor, who is expected to announce soon his candidacy for the 1964 Republican presidential nomination, said "our attitudes in dealing with the Communist leaders throughout the world without consulting our allied partners" were responsible.

In a speech to more than 1,300 persons at the annual dinner of the Ulster County Republican committee Monday night, Rockefeller said "there is only one alternative to what's going on in Washington today and that is a Republican victory in 1964."

Spending by Counties Reaches Record High

MADISON (AP)—Total spending of Wisconsin's 72 counties rose $25.3 million in 1962 to a record $349.5 million, the Public Expenditure Survey of Wisconsin reported today.

The Survey, a private agency, said its total was based on reports filed by the State Department of Audit.

A major contributor to the increase was Milwaukee County's capital outlay of more than $7 million and welfare operational spending in other counties which increased nearly $4 million, the Survey said.

Composer Dead at 76

Kennedy Says Aid Cuts May Hurt Exports

the House itself, the authorization bill now calls for only $3.5 billion.

Explaining his contention that the cuts would impair private commerce, Kennedy said: "No foreign aid program, of course, can or should substitute for private initiative. But it can assist in breaking the path; and that is an important reason for us all to give it support.

Most Funds in U. S.

"These aid expenditures abroad are not, as is sometimes believed, the cause of our adverse balance of payments. More than 80 per cent of our current aid commitments are for expenditures in the United States; and next year offshore (foreign), expenditures by aid will be even lower.

"But aid can help our balance of payments by helping exports—and the recent cuts in this program by the House of Representatives, while saving at most only $20 million in American dollars on our balance of payments accounts, will have a severe impact upon our exports as well as our security."

Before the President spoke, Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz urged the businessmen to expand their exports to help close the full-employment gap as well as the balance of payments gap.

New Incident at Border Station

TOKYO (AP)—A new border train incident involving Communist China and the Soviet Unions has been disclosed by Peking.

The reported friction occurred Sept. 9 at the Soviet border station of Naushki, site of a two-day sitdown strike by 92 Chinese two weeks ago.

In a formal note, Red China said Monday one of its trains bound from Moscow to Peking was suddenly ordered to speed up and pass the Naushki station, while the Chinese crew "was placed under the surveillance of large numbers of Soviet frontier troops and customs personnel."

Grand Jury Resumes Probe of Students' Journey to Cuba

NEW YORK (AP)—As a federal grand jury in Brooklyn resumes its probe today of a trip by 59 American students to Cuba, the committee that sponsored the journey disclosed that Cuba has come up with a second, similar invitation.

The Student Committee for Travel to Cuba announced it will try to send 200 Americans to the Caribbean island next January.

Philip A. Luce, committee spokesman, said the invitation for American students to see Fidel Castro's regime in operation came from the Cuban Federation of University Students.

The Fischers also faced a decision on whether to move to a different home when things settle down.

Their landlords, Mr. and Mrs. Elroy Harrington, offered to give the family the house now occupied, or land for a new home. The Chamber of Commerce promised either to build the Fischers a new home or buy them one. There also was an offer of free labor to build a new home.

New Facilities

Others gave new kitchen and laundry facilities for a new house, free landscaping and free moving service.

The babies received insurance policies, stock certificates and every item of clothing and baby accessories possible.

There also was a year's supply of milk and five large teddy bears. Cash gifts ranged from $5 to $250.

Mrs. Fischer was the recipient of a fur-trimmed coat, free beauty treatment, and a ring bearing the birthstones of all of her 10 children.

Among the more unusual gifts were a year's supply of feed for the Fischers' two milk cows, a year's supply of honey from the South Dakota Beekeepers Association, a year's supply of cookies and crackers, an adding machine, a three-year supply of shampoo and sport shirts for the parents.

Among other fringe benefits was a sheriff's badge and $100, attesting "to the indisputable fact that Fischer is a real man." That gesture was voted Monday night by the Hartford County (Conn.) Sheriff's Association.

Mrs. Fischer is expected to go home the latter part of the week, but the babies won't get out of their incubators for another five to seven weeks.

Auto Mileage To Increase 234 Per Cent

MADISON (AP)—A report presented today to Gov. John W. Reynolds predicted that passenger miles by private automobiles in Wisconsin will increase 234 per cent between 1960 and the year 2000, while scheduled aircraft mileage will advance 415 per cent.

The projections are based on a study financed by the Wisconsin Highway Commission and the Federal Housing and Home Finance Agency.

Reynolds said the report, presented by the State Department of Resource Development, demonstrates "how important it is that we act now to improve our highway system."

In addition to the mileage projections, the report offered these conclusions:

Total motor vehicle registrations in Wisconsin will reach 3,437,000. In 1960, the total was 1,658,000.

In the years 1980 to 2000, one of every two persons will have a car.

Inter-city mileage by railroad will decrease by 37.5 per cent, and inter-city mileage by bus will increase by 86 per cent from 1960 to 2000. Inter-city mileage by general aircraft will increase about 325 per cent during the period.

Industrial Production Dips During August

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the news from Washington:

PRODUCTION, JOBS: After a steady seven-month climb, industrial production dipped slightly in August, the Federal Reserve Board reports.

And on the jobs side, the Labor Department noted a less-than-expected increase in non-farm employment from July to August, edging up 107,000 to 57.6 million.

The industrial production index for August was 125.6, a drop of almost one point from July. Yet the figure was well above the 119.4 registered last August.

The board—which used 100 to denote the 1957-59 average — blamed the drop on a continuing decline in iron and steel production and a slight decrease in automobile production.

RECOGNIZED: U.S. recognition of the new state of Malaysia was automatic.

The United States treated the new-born state as the legal successor to the old Federation of Malaya. Thus nothing more was called for officially, U.S. officials said Monday.

Also, President Kennedy sent a special representative, Deputy Undersecretary of State U. Alexis Johnson, to ceremonies at Kuala Lumpur launching the federation which came into existence Monday. This in itself is recognition that the new state meets with U.S. approval, officials said.

CIVIL RIGHTS: A Senate Labor subcommittee has tentatively approved a fair employment practices bill aimed at ending job discrimination in private industry.

Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., said the five subcommittee members present approved the measure but that the others will be given an opportunity to consider the new draft of the legislation. Unless they want full meetings on the revised bill, it will be forwarded to the full committee.

President Kennedy urged fair employment legislation in his June 19 civil rights message to Congress but did not include it in his omnibus bill.

MENTAL RETARDATION: The White House announced today the nation's leaders in mental retardation programs, including more than 225 delegates chosen by the state governors, will attend a two-day conference on mental retardation beginning Thursday at Warrenton, Va.

The objectives of the White House conference, according to the announcement, will be "to explain federal mental retardation programs, to stimulate statewide planning for mental retardation programs, and to encourage interagency cooperation."

Mrs. Nhu Plans to Visit This Country

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — South Viet Nam's first lady, Mrs. Ngo Dinh Nhu, said today she will visit the United States next month, but doesn't plan to see President Kennedy or any other officials.

As to how long she'll stay, Mrs. Nhu told newsmen "it depends on my whim."

Mrs. Nhu, sister-in-law of President Ngo Dinh Diem, has been leading her country's delegation to the interparliamentary union here. Much of her time has been spent explaining her government's position in the war against Communist Viet Cong guerrillas and its relations with the Buddists.

Channel 5 to Emphasize Local, Old-Time Music

Hootenanny 5 Folk Concert Also on Program, Featuring Sheboygan Quintet

BY JINGO

Channel 5, in keeping with all of the season changes in the air, has expanded its local-interest programming with heavy emphasis on old-time music.

Jingo

Sunday the programming took effect with an hour of local-interest shows tucked into the afternoon spread. Next Sunday another half hour will be added to the noon hour complex to go with the Saturday evening half hour.

A switch from CBS puts the popular College Bowl in color on Channel 5 to open the afternoon with a 4:30 p.m. appearance. This is linked with another color, popular hit, Meet the Press.

At 5:30 p.m. there's Hootenanny 5, a folk singing concert that features the Decapa Five from Sheboygan. The four boys and a girl produce their show at Channel 5 on video tape.

At 6 p.m. Channel 5's highly regarded Perspective show goes on the air with its selection of commentaries on local issues considered by the producers to be important. A part of the Perspective programming will be a regular schedule of programs originated and produced at Lawrence College.

This Sunday Hootenanny 5 and Perspective will be joined by Lorraine Rice and her old-time music. She hits the airwaves via video tape at 12:30 p.m. for a half hour.

Dick Sherwood Show

Miss Rice is more or less a coin mate for the popular Dick Sherwood show that appears on Channel 5 at 6 p.m. Saturday. In a sort of watcher survey a few days ago, Sherwood proved that this type of programming apparently pays off in this area. When Sherwood brought his TV combo to the Cinderella Ballroom, the management reported top attendance.

Both Miss Rice and Sherwood are Madison-based operations. They come to Green Bay on video tape.

The FCC in its much-publicized Chicago hearings pounded quite hard on the development of local TV programming. There was some talk, but not too much action. There was some, of course. The very fine "Focus on America" summer replacement revealed considerably fine local TV throughout the nation.

Perhaps Channel 5 can't be considered exactly in this league, but the Fox Valley is getting something that it especially wants instead of having the airwaves filled with rejects or reruns.

Drops 'Channing'

Channel 11 again has taken its option on the use of network presentations and has chosen to drop Channing from its card. In its place will be an evening at the movies, The Wednesday Night Premieres. The management promises really fine films.

The ABC offering, Channing, is a college - set drama that wanders all over the landscape because of the extra - academic interests of its stars. The premiere this week, which we won't see, will be a take-off on the Chessman case.

Assistant for State History Unit Named

John C. Jacques has been named as assistant director of the State Historical Society.

Jacques joined the Society staff in July, 1951, as chief of the newspaper section and field supervisor. Two years later he was appointed assistant to the director in charge of business operations and public relations, also supervising the remodeling of the building. He was named business manager of the society in 1959.

As assistant director, Jacques will continue in charge of the business offices and of society personnel. An important part of his work in the next two years will be working with the state architect on plans for a large addition to the society's American history library facilities.

Jacques, a native of Milwaukee, served with the Corps of Engineers in World War II and was wounded during the North African campaigns. After the war he earned his A.B., M.A. and Ph.D. degrees in history at the University of Wisconsin. In 1948 to 1950 he was on the history faculty of the University of Wisconsin Extension Centers in Green Bay, Marinette and Racine.

Golden Trio

Three top stars have leading roles in Universal's new romantic comedy, "King of the Mountain." They are Marlon Brando, who received his acting laurels for "On the Waterfront," David Niven, honored for his work in "Separate Tables," and Shirley Jones, who came to fame in "Elmer Gantry."

Robert Walker, left, son of the late actor of the same name, and Larry Hagman, son of singing star Mary Martin, discuss their roles in the film "Ensign Pulver" at the Warner Studio in Hollywood. Walker plays the title role in which his father achieved stardom and a later young actor, Jack Lemmon, won an Oscar in 1955. Walker's mother is actress Jennifer Jones. (AP Wirephoto)

Quiz Show Dull, Fine Acting in 'Arrest, Trial'

TV Columnist Airs Opnions on 5 or 6 New Weekend Series

BY CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—Six new series made their television debuts over the weekend, marking the opening of the fall season. Undoubtedly one program of great general interest was "100 grand," a quiz show in the old tradition, which moved into ABC's schedule Sunday night.

It would be pleasant to report that the familiar sight of perspiring contestants nervously wrinkling their brows and finally coming up with the name of a Civil War spy was, once again, sheer delight. Unhappily, however, the whole thing—the buzzers,. ominous drum beats, the clock ticking off seconds, the fast-talking quiz master, seemed a dreary, frenetic bore.

Superior Show

The 90-minute "Arrest and Trial," also an ABC Sunday night entry, proved a very satisfactory pair of stories involving the same central character. The situation—a tough guy mixed up in a cop killing—was familiar but the acting and the production were superior.

Ben Gazarra, who plays the police sergeant in the series, is a particularly fine actor

Chuck Connors, out of levis and into a custom-tailored suit, played the lawyer in a subdued and earnest style. Anthony Franciosa was impressive as the man Gazarra arrested and Connors defended. It's an interesting idea for a series

'Harry's Girls,' a half-hour comedy about a hoofer traveling around Europe with a troupe of three pretty girls—NBC's Friday night entry—was pretty thin stuff The comedy was slight, and the plot was almost non-existent—something about Harry keeping a girl off the yacht of an Eastern potentate by forging a marriage license. It was very disappointing

"The Lieutenant," on NBC Saturday night, is obviously designed for the young audience. This one centers on an earnest young Marine lieutenant, played by Garry Lockwood. If you like Annapolis and West Point movies, you'll like this.

Another ABC show, obviously designed for Sunday evening family viewing, is "The Travels of Jaimie McPheeters." It's an adventure yarn set in 1849 with a 12-year-old as the central character. In the first 10 minutes of the show, young Jaimie had been chased by his father's creditors; fallen off a Mississippi riverboat and been captured by a band of thieves. When we left Jaimie, reunited with his father, they were setting off by wagon train to find gold in California.

Premieres Gang Up on TV Tonight

BY TV SCOUT

6:30-7:30 — Combat returns with an episode reminiscent of The Bridge on the River Kwai and containing some of that movie's great suspense. Vic Morrow is assigned to lead Lee Marvin, a demolitions expert, to a bridge behind German lines. A squad starts out, but injuries and death soon reduce the group to Morrow and Marvin.

9-10 (Channel 11) — The Fugitive, a very promising series, premieres with an absorbing drama, with well-drawn characters, natural dialogue and good acting. David Janssen is the star, as Richard Kimble, a man convicted of killing his wife and on the run from Barry Morse, an implacable policeman who will trail Janssen throughout the series. In this episode, David comes to Tucson and gets a job tending bar. He finds himself in the middle of a deadly fight between pianist Vera Miles and Brian Keith.

7-7:30 (Channel 2) — Fans of the late James Dean have a chance to see one of their idol's old television shows when The Playhouse presents "The Unlighted Road," a melodrama originally telecast in 1955.

7:30-8 (Channel 11) — The zany crew of McHale's Navy sails into a new time and day as nutty and hilarious as ever. The delicious idea tonight concerns Fuji's capture by Binghamton (Joe Flynn), who thinks he has caught "the Nathan Hale of World War II." So our heroes decide to spring Fuji by convincing Binghamton, via Parker's vocal impersonations of FDR, a Japanese admiral, an Englishman and so on, that the war is over.

8-9 (Channel 11) — Jack Palance comes to television as the star of The Greatest Show on Earth, a series about—all together now—the circus. It's a well-produced show. Guest star Harry Guardino plays a lame, once-great lion tamer and old pal of Palance's.

9:30-10 (Channel 4-5) — Chet Huntley Reporting returns for one week to present "A Chance to Achieve," a show scheduled twice in June, but yanked each time for a special. It's a fine study of Mobilization for Youth, a massive attempt to do something about juvenile delinquency and living conditions in slums.

Big Investors Hurt Most in '62 Crash

BY SYLVIA PORTER

Ever since the stock market crash of mid-1962, Wall Street has repeatedly been asking, "Where's the public?" and I along with other financial reporters have been lamenting that the little individual investor was so badly disillusioned and hurt by that crackup that he retired to the sidelines and, as a result, he has mostly missed the market's spectacular comeback on average to new all-time peaks

Porter

Now comes startling evidence suggesting that from the start the small investor is "the little man who wasn't there" on the scale we thought We have been giving him credit for a much more dominant position in stocks than is warranted.

While, of course, millions of moderate-income families have entered the stock market in recent years for the first time in their lives, all of us have been exaggerating the proportion of outstanding stocks owned by these families.

Item: Individuals and families with taxable incomes of over $100,000, representing a tiny 1-10 of 1 per cent of all families filing income tax returns account for 20 per cent of total holdings of stocks by individuals.

Item: Families with gross incomes of over $25,000, representing a scant 1 per cent of all filing income tax returns, account for almost 50 per cent of total holdings of stocks by individuals.

Item The managerial group (executives, both salaried and self-employed businessmen) and professionals are by far the biggest owners of stocks. When the retired and not gainfully employed are eliminated, the managerial group accounts for almost one-half and the professionals for an additional one-quarter of individuals' stockholdings.

Under $10,000 Class

Item: Even in the under $10,000 income class, the managerial group and professionals own about as much stock as clerical or sales workers or professionals. Many large stockholders in the under $10,000 income class, are retired men who accumulated substantial wealth during their working years, or widows and minor children of upper income men; so they too might "more appropriately be assigned" to top income brackets.

These are just a few of the findings of a Wharton School study on "Characteristics of Stock Ownership" presented by Jeanne Crockett and Erwin Friend of the University of Pennsylvania at a recent meeting of the American Statistical Assn. in Cleveland. The study is based on 1960 income tax returns and provides the most accurate data available to date on the distribution of stock ownership in this country.

How well did the little fellow who was there make out during the stock market slump of 1961-1962? Here too the Wharton School study suggests evidence diametrically opposed to the general opinion First, remember that the big losers in that debacle were the high - priced growth stocks, the risky unlisted issues, stocks in volatile industries Now read on.

The under $10,000 stockholders "had a very much stronger preference" than wealthy individuals for "less speculative" stocks—such as telephone stock, electric and gas utilities The low income groups "held relatively small amounts of their portfolios in the riskier types of unlisted stocks", while the upper income groups were "much more heavily committed to such investment." The lower income groups had "a higher risk aversion" to the fancily priced growth stocks than the high income classes.

Big Fellow Hurt

In short, it was the big fellow who was the major owner of the stocks which went through the wringer in the 1961-62 break—not the small investor! In the measured words of the Crockett-Friend report, the lower income family's "market experience must be considered rather favorable" in comparison—which well may explain why Wall Street's near panic of May 1962 didn't lead to a nationwide crisis.

No one denies that numerically the small investor is in the stock market on the heaviest scale in history. But that one statistic—1 per cent of U.S. taxpayers own almost half of all stocks held by individuals—puts the little fellow's percentage ownership in perspective.

It has been clearly a big boy's stock market this past 12 months It always has been a big boy's stock market.

Lawrence Says

Reason Needed In American Racial Crisis

All Must Realize Solving of Problem Requires Time

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — The tragedy of Birmingham reflects the conflicts of angry men. It emphasizes a defeat for the rule of reason and a triumph for the spirit of mobocracy.

Lawrence

To preach non - violence, yet to sanction street "demonstrations" which incite to violence, is to stir up the deepest emotions. Under such circumstances, men on both sides tend to feel rather than to think.

Responsibility for the recent outbreaks of violence will be attributed by each side to the other in the "integration" controversy. It will be said that, if the churches themselves had not become active participants in the public demonstrations, there would have been less resentment in the communities. It will be argued in reply that there was no other way to dramatize what was felt to be an innate injustice both in law and morality.

There is no question about the fact that the bitterness of those who have been discriminated against because of race or color produces an anger that often brushes aside pleas for a rule of reason and for the operation of a system of law. Not so many years ago, the anger of the mob caused the lynching of many an innocent man. The mob always felt sure that the suspect was guilty and cried out: "Why wait for the courts — he's guilty!" The cry today is: "Why wait for the process of law — it's too slow!"

Threats Fill Air

The air is filled with threats. It is being said that, unless this or that reform is immediately granted, there will be race violence. No constructive purpose is served by such threats and, when uttered by clergymen, they are even more discouraging For what is lacking in the controversies today is the restraint that comes from a true religious spirit. Saint Thomas Aquinas in his famous book said:

"The angry man is energetic in the pursuit of justice. But anger can destroy the reasonableness and prudence of our actions. Frequently angry men exact a greater vengeance than the injury done to them merits."

This applies particularly to the men who bombed the Negro church in Birmingham They do not represent or reflect a majority sentiment in the community They gave vent only to their own passions of anger, and their evil deed will bring about an adverse reaction to whatever cause they had in mind.

Who committed the crime—tossing a bomb that killed four young girls in a church during Sunday school services? Could this possibly have been the premeditated plot of any organized movement? Could it have been — as some observers are beginning to suspect—the work of that small but dangerous clique inside this country who capitalize on every public controversy? They provoke friction and violence because these will injure the image of America throughout the world — an objective sought by Communist subversives who even employ some Fascists for the purpose in order to conceal the true origin of the drive.

It will be of little avail to accuse any one in public office—or the people of Birmingham—of responsibility for last Sunday's crime. This will tend only to increase bitterness all around Maybe the perpetrators of the bombing will never be caught. Whether in the north or south, most bombings in recent years have gone unsolved because the bombs can be tossed from a speeding automobile which then vanishes, or they can be planted clandestinely during the night.

The answer to the country's race problem will not come from bombings any more than it will come from "demonstrations," however orderly they may appear to be. The right of petition under the constitution can be effectively exercised in less spectacular ways.

Whatever Congress may do at this session will be regarded as inadequate by angry men anxious to accomplish overnight what must take a long time to achieve. For, as past experience indicates, customs and ways of life are not surrendered under threat or in an atmosphere of passion.

This country has prided itself on its constitutional system — a government of written laws. Unjust laws are not repeated by mob violence but by steady and persistent pleas in the court of public opinion. The means of communication are numerous today and are available to proponents or opponents of any legislation.

The theory that "demonstrations" are essential to the winning of public opinion fails to take into account that, in an atmosphere of anger and bitter resentment, there is no human progress if laws are passed before the electorate has really been persuaded of their justness through application of the rule of reason. Violence begets more violence It doesn't vanish when provocative speeches are made in the name of "non-violence"

It is a time for self-examination by all sides of the current controversy. There surely are in every community men of all races who can sit down together to work out needed reforms and gradually put them into effect through city ordinances. They can also bring about the passage of the necessary state or federal laws to deal with particular barriers to the better understanding which should prevail among all races.

Even this process, however, takes time for education of the citizens and a legal determination of where private rights end and public rights begin. Time and reason can solve any difficulty, but the passions of anger will solve nothing — not even in the relations of governments or nations, as the wars of the past have tragically proved.

Plan Study of County Home Patients

Apparently some study will be made soon as to the characteristic of the patient being treated in the county-operated Golden Age Home.

Hospital Supt. John Engel said today the Golden Age Home is fast becoming a "Golden Age Hospital" and that more and more bed patients are being admitted.

Engel told supervisors on the county executive committee that costs go up when the patients are all bed patients. He said new rates may have to be discussed in order to cover the care.

There are 232 patients in the county hospital and 80 in the Golden Age Home He said the hospital is at full capacity and the home is 10 below capacity.

Many patients are sent to the hospital as bed patients and require more attention, raising the operating cost. He blamed the lack of facilties in the area for the increase in the bed-patient care.

"There is no other operation in the county which offers the care we do," Engel said. Engel said many of the bed patients are hospitalized at full personal expense.

HOT WATER QUICK!

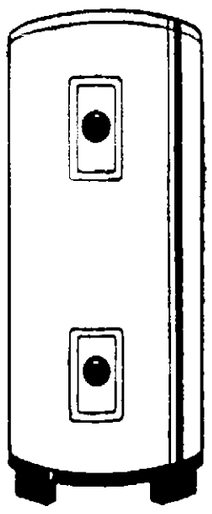
• NO VENT OR FLUE
• NO COSTLY PIPE RUNS
• COMPLETELY AUTOMATIC



You get hot water . . . fast, with an electric water heater. Because it doesn't have to be vented, an electric water heater can be installed at the point of greatest hot water use. This means short pipe runs and less hot water waste. Electric water heaters are maintenance-free and give long-life service, too.
